WHEELER CALLS BIDDLE SEDITION QUIZ 'DISGRACE'

Says It Resembles Daugherty Era.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—In correspondence with Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, made public today, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] charged that the justice department's conduct of a Washington grand jury allegedly investigating seditious activities has been "one of the most disgraceful proceedings ever carried on in this country."

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler.

Sen. Wheeler particularly condemned the smearing of members of congress, the America First committee and other pre-war noninterventionist organizations in an indictment charging 28 persons with conspiracy to undermine the morale of the army and navy.

Recalls Daugherty Tactics.

He compared the methods of William Power Maloney, special assistant attorney general in charge of the grand jury investigation, to the malodorous régime of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the Harding administration; William J. Burns, head of the federal bureau of investigation under Daugherty, and the notorious Gaston B. Means, chief investigator under Burns.

Sen. Wheeler headed a senate investigation which drove Atty. Gen. Daugherty out of the Harding cabinet in 1924. He predicted today that there will be another congressional investigation of the justice department, either by the senate or the house, when the new congress meets in January. Such an investigation was proposed in a resolution introduced two weeks ago by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], who charged that the Washington grand jury proceeding was part of a campaign to smear and purge and silence administration opponents in and out of congress.

Taft Also Complained.

Sen Robert A. Taft [R., O.] wrote a letter to Biddle expressing serious doubt that some of the 28 defendants named in the conspiracy indictment were guilty and urging a careful review of the evidence. Biddle did not reply to Sen. Taft, but in a letter to Sen. Wheeler, dated Dec. 12, he stated that "a grand jury heard evidence in this case over a period of 71 days. The problem of the connection of each individual and each organization with the conspiracy charged in the indictment was thoroly explored and considered by the grand jury as well as by officers of the department of justice charged with responsibility for the case.

"As a result of the investigation and consideration, the indictment was limited to those individuals who had a substantial connection with the conspiracy charged, and to those organizations which were the media thru which the conspirators acted. Smearing was and is not our object."

Easy to Indict, He Says.

Sen. Wheeler, who was United States attorney for Montana for five years under President Wilson, told Biddle in a reply today that it does not mean much to say a grand jury heard evidence for 71 days. It is easy for a prosecuting attorney to indict any one, regardless of the evidence, he said. "If you had had as much dealings with grand juries as I have had you would appreciate what I say is true," he added.

"I want to do everything I can to run down saboteurs and persons guilty of treason, but I do not want to see the department of justice again to be the object of attack for their misuse of the criminal laws of this country.

"If it were not the intention to use this indictment for the purpose of smearing the America First committee, it would never have been mentioned in the same. Why was my name, and the names of other sena-

CITY EMPLOYES' PAY BOOSTS OK'D

25,000 Affected; 12% to Police and Firemen.

BY BRYCE ENGLE.

The city council's finance committee last night approved a 1943 city budget which includes blanket 12 per cent wage increases for all 9,000 members of the police and fire departments, 10 per cent higher pay for all other city workers earning less than $3,000 annually, and restoration of 1941 pay cuts of 4 to 10 per cent given executives and other employés who previously had earned more than $3,100.

Upward of 25,000 workers will share the increases. In the corporate [operating] fund alone about 15,700 will receive raises aggregating $4,322,212 yearly, according to estimates by the committee's staff. Raises for those paid out of other funds, aldermen estimated, will add another 2 million dollars to the total.

Total Is $82,294,000.

The committee's staff estimated appropriations in the city's three major funds—corporate, water, and vehicle tax—will aggregate $82,294,000, a $3,577,565 increase over the $78,716,435 provided in 1942 for the three funds. Several minor funds will be incorporated into the budget by the staff before it is submitted to the council.

Among top city executives given higher pay, their titles, their present pay, and their future pay are:

Name—Title.	Present salary.	Future salary.
Edward J. Kelly, mayor.....	$16,200	$18,000
Robert B. Upham, city controler	13,500	15,000
Louis Rixmann, city collector	5,400	6,000
Police Com. Allman..........	9,000	10,080
Fire Com. Corrigan..........	9,000	10,080
Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, pres. board of health.......	9,000	10,000
Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works....	10,800	12,000
Barnet Hodes, corp. counsel	13,500	15,000
Lloyd Johnson, com. of streets and electricity....	9,000	10,000
Paul Gerhardt, bldg. com....	7,300	8,000
Joseph F. Geary, city sealer.	4,500	5,000

Explain 12 Per Cent Boost.

Committee spokesmen explained the larger increases were given police and firemen because of the hazardous duties they perform in wartime, and because they often are called upon to work overtime. About 7,600 of the rank and file of police and firemen affected have started at $2,140 a year and then received $2,500 beginning with their third year of service. They haven't had a general pay increase in more than 15 years.

Increases for some workers in the lowest pay brackets will be more than 10 per cent, the committee decided. The 2,000 ward laborers, for example, will be raised from $5.85 to $6.50 a day. The committee also decided to pay prevailing union wages in all departments, but said this policy will mean a reduction in personnel.

Mayor Kelly said that if the city should sell all its 1942 tax warrants by Dec. 31 it could pay all corporate fund bills outstanding, a condition which hasn't existed for many years. In 1933, he said, $22,500,000 in such bills was outstanding against the corporate fund.

The committee expects to submit the budget to the city council Monday. After public hearings set for Dec. 28, according to the present schedule, the city council would take final action Jan. 4.

Suspension of "A" Gas Cards Expected Today in the East

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—An order is expected tomorrow from Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes suspending all "A" gasoline rationing cards in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia, because of a severe gasoline shortage in this area, according to informed quarters tonight.

This was learned following a conference between Ickes, Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, and Leon Henderson, price administrator. In addition it was said it might prove necessary to reduce the value of "B" cards.

The only official comment was a belated announcement from an office of war information spokesman at nearly midnight that "there will be no suspension of gasoline rationing for 'A' card holders at midnight tonight."

"Big Story" Brewing.

This was in reply to urgent queries concerning a story from Atlanta, Ga., quoting a district official of the OPA that all "A" rationing cards in these states would be voided at midnight.

About an hour and a half before this terse announcement from the OWI, correspondents had been tipped off that a big story was about to break on gasoline rationing in the east. Apparently burocratic difficulties developed which called for postponement of the announcement.

The OWI spokesman said that there would be no statement on the rationing situation until tomorrow.

Suspension of the "A" cards, which provide a basic ration of 3 gallons per coupon in this area, would take an estimated 5 million cars off the streets in the populous east, or about 70 per cent of the automobiles operating in this region.

It is understood that the "B," "C," "S," and "T" card holders would not be affected immediately. Only last Nov. 22 the allowance on "A" coupons was reduced from 4 to 3 gallons per coupon in an effort to conserve dwindling gasoline supplies. The basic ration unit still remains at four gallons in other areas placed under rationing on Dec. 1.

Ickes Warns of Depletion.

Earlier today Ickes warned that supplies of gasoline along the east coast are "critically low," and that rationing must be placed on a "hand to mouth" basis.

He said that gasoline consumption has been running unusually heavy, indicating continued unessential driving, and that transportation facilities to bring in new supplies have been concentrated on the hauling of oil for military use, heavy oil for industrial use, and heating oil for homes.

In some areas, such as New York City, supplies of gasoline were said to be so low as to threaten an immediate breakdown in transportation facilities. The elimination of ordinary gasoline consumption was said to be an alternative to a further cut in fuel oil rations, a move which officials wished to avoid. If "A" cards are voided in the east it will mean a saving of 60,000 barrels of oil daily, it was estimated.

When a Pheasant Bites a Milkman, That's News!

An irate cock pheasant, trying frantically to find his way out of an inclosed back yard at 6259 North Campbell avenue, flew up yesterday and bit the forehead of John Becker, who was delivering milk to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hughes. Mrs. Hughes said the pheasant had been in the yard most of the day, but after biting Becker, had sought new surroundings.

ORDER REDUCES PORK, VEAL, AND LAMB SUPPLIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Government food authorities issued orders today reducing the per capita supply of meat available for civilians from the present limit of 40 ounces to 35 ounces a week during the first three months of 1943.

The civilian supply of pork, veal, lamb, and mutton was ordered cut about 13 per cent. Beef supplies will continue to be restricted at the present levels. There is no compulsory rationing of meat at present, but consumers are being asked to limit themselves to 40 ounces a week. After the first of the year this voluntary ration will be cut to 35 ounces.

The order limits slaughterers killing more than 500,000 pounds a quarter to 70 per cent of the 1941 level for beef, pork, and veal, and to 75 per cent for lamb and mutton.

Recommended by Wickard.

The orders were issued by Price Administrator Leon Henderson on the recommendation of Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, the new food boss.

These officials moved also to relieve local meat shortages over the Christmas holiday season. Meat slaughterers will be allowed to distribute 10 per cent of their quotas for the first quarter of 1943 during the last 12 days of December.

Meanwhile new maximum prices went into effect tonight on wholesale sales of poultry, and the office of price administration said the action will be followed soon with new and slightly higher retail prices.

[Six hundred wholesale meat dealers fight OPA ruling which they charge will put them out of business. Turn to page 8.]

Uniform Prices Fixed.

The wholesale order took the place of a temporary order which had fixed prices at the highest level between Sept. 28 and Oct. 2. Under that order, each wholesaler had his own maximum, according to what he charged in the Sept. 28-Oct. 2 period. Under the new order, uniform prices were fixed for wholesalers thruout the country, based on five "basing point" cities plus freight. For the eastern half of the country the basing point is New York. In the west, there are four basing point cities, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, at each of which prices will be the same.

The regulation specified hundreds of separate prices for different kinds of chickens, turkeys, ducks, and other fowl depending on type. In New York, however, the wholesale prices will be roughly one cent per pound higher than the highest price charged this year.

Designed for "Encouragement."

The higher prices, the office of price administration said, were "designed primarily to encourage America's poultry men to meet the department of agriculture's food-for-freedom production goals—pointing toward a 1943 record output of 4 billion pounds of chicken and 560 million pounds of turkey, and reflect a return to the producer of approximately 115 per cent to 120 per cent of parity."

LAWYER FOOD CZAR

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—A New York lawyer, born in Russia and with no record of farming experience, is the real czar over American food supplies, in which there is danger of a serious shortage because he dictated a severe cut in farm machinery available next year, it was charged today by Rep. Karl E. Mundt [R., S. D.].

This power behind the throne of Food Administrator Claude R. Wickard is Joseph Weiner, director of the division of civilian supply of the war production board. Weiner recently advanced from the position of deputy director to director of the division when Leon Henderson relinquished the latter title.

According to Mundt, in a statement appearing in the Congressional Record today, Weiner vetoed a recommenda-

Blames Illness for His Step; F.D.R. Accepts

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—President Roosevelt tonight accepted the resignation of Leon Henderson, price czar, who has been under withering criticism of congress and the public.

Leon Henderson.

It is expected that the rationing czar will be succeeded by Prentiss M. Brown, lame duck Democratic senator from Michigan, when the new congress meets. The new price control régime is expected to soften rationing controls and release more food, oil, gasoline, and other supplies to an aroused public.

No effective date for the resignation was set, but Henderson is expected to continue in his office until Brown's term in congress expires.

Gives Ill Health as Reason.

The announced reason for Henderson's resignation was "a recurrent physical difficulty and a rather bad impairment of my eyesight." However, it was widely suspected that the true reason for Henderson's resignation was not so much for his own health as for the welfare of the administration.

Congressional leaders had informed the President that Henderson must go because he was certain to be torn apart at the coming session of congress. Mr. Roosevelt was told that Henderson's maladministration of the price controls had contributed largely to the Democratic defeat at the polls in November and that his continuance in office would bring the administration and the Democratic party to certain disaster.

F. D. R. Denied It Tuesday.

The acceptance of Henderson's resignation was announced at a cabinet meeting which was attended by James F. Byrnes, Henderson's boss as director of the office of economic stabilization. It was assumed that the decision to accept the resignation was approved by the cabinet to avert congressional airing of the price control administration.

As late as last Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt denied at his press conference that Henderson would resign, but at length he was persuaded that he must let his price aid go if he wished to avoid complete discrediting of the price control program at the hands of the incoming congress.

In the same way in 1938 Mr. Roosevelt sacrificed his No. 1 intimate, Harry Hopkins, to save the works progress administration.

The Henderson resignation had been expected in the capital despite the White House denial.

"Some Other Capacity."

In his letter of resignation, Henderson said that his physicians had convinced him he must take "a long rest." This plea of ill health was a surprise to friends and foes alike because all had agreed that whatever his faults, Henderson did not lack vigor and vitality.

Roosevelt, in his letter accepting the resignation, sympathized with Henderson's ill health and went on to say that he hoped Henderson would return to the official family after his long rest in "some other capacity" than price administrator.

In his letter of resignation to the President Henderson said:

"I am well along with some major programs, which we have discussed, including simplification of retail pricing and the first of the extremely important point system rationing plans. I expect to devote a large part of my remaining service to stabilization of the fuel oil and mileage rationing programs, so that these may be no more special burdens to my successor than the others which have had such excellent community acceptance."

Henderson expressed "a justifiable pride in the integrity, courage, impartiality, and superb strength of the far flung organization which represents OPA."

CALL 2 PROTEST MEETINGS TODAY ON OIL CRISIS

Council Committee Invites Public.

FUEL OIL MEETING!

THOSE INVITED: Everybody interested in the fuel oil problem. This includes oil distributors and oil users, home owners and apartment building proprietors.

WHERE: In the city council chamber, second floor, city hall.

TIME: 2 p. m. Special council committee to investigate oil rationing.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Two meetings, one to be attended by six of the nation's top men in the petroleum industry and the other by Chicago consumers who heat their homes with oil, will be held in Chicago today. The common purpose of the two meetings is to develop a program to end the chaos caused by the OPA's complicated fuel oil rationing plan.

The two sessions today follow an unusual meeting held yesterday in the Union League club, presided over by Gov. Dwight H. Green and attended by 15 members of the Burning Oil Distributors' association. They detailed their futile efforts to serve Chicagoans under the "unworkable" oil rationing regulations of the OPA. W-G-N made a recording of the meeting and rebroadcast it last night.

New Cold Wave Coming.

While OPA officials in Washington and Chicago were still debating whether or not to grant the middle west and particularly Chicago any more fuel oil, and to relax the red tape tying up oil deliveries, cold wave warnings were broadcast by the weather bureau. Temperatures near zero were forecast. Oil men feared that a cold wave now would add to the suffering caused by the fuel oil rationing breakdown.

The meeting for the oil consumers is for the public. Called by Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], it will start at 2 p. m. in the council chambers.

Ald. Ross, a physician, said that all citizens concerned in oil rationing—home and apartment owners—will be given an opportunity to speak.

The meeting of the top flight oil men will be held at 624 South Michigan avenue at 10 a. m. and will be presided over by Frank Phillips, head of the 246 million dollar oil company bearing his name. Phillips is general chairman of the petroleum industry committee for District No. 2, comprising 15 midwestern states.

Denies Any Shortage.

Phillips is the man who has frankly declared there is no shortage of domestic heating oil in the middle west.

Those chairmen who will meet with him here are E. G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil of Indiana, chairman of supply, distribution and transportation for district 2; Otto Donnell of Findlay, O., president of the Ohio Oil company, chairman for production; Paul Blazer of Ashland, Ky., president of the Ashland Refining company, chairman for refining; Bernard Majewski, vice president of Deep Rock Oil corporation, chairman for marketing, and B. R. Bay of Omaha, Neb., president of the Northern Natural Gas company, chairman for natural gas and gasoline.

These men represent the oil industry in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma. They also are members of the petroleum industry war committee of 72 members.

Hear News on Henderson.

News of the resignation of OPA Director Leon Henderson at Washington yesterday came near the close of the meeting of Gov. Green with the oil distributors. Frank E. Spencer, president of the distributors' association, announced it by saying:

"Well, all I can say is that I hope what happens in fuel oil rationing now after he has resigned will not be as bad as what happened before he resigned."

And the governor, who had refused to comment, said dryly: "I guess, Mr. Spencer, we can all say amen to that!"

COLLEGE CHIEFS SCAN NEW ARMY AND NAVY PLANS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The joint army and navy announcement on colleges and universities yesterday, made thru Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, was interpreted by college officials as a complete submergence of the American system of liberal education to the winning of the war.

The plans call for training units to be set up in colleges and universities where selected qualified men may be where selected qualified men may continue studies directed by the army or navy. The periods of study for the soldiers, sailors or marines would vary in length, depending on the subjects involved. The basic navy plan allows more time for general subjects than that of the army.

Speculate on Effect.

While army officers speculated on the importance of the order and its effect on colleges and universities of the command, which includes Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, many college officials foresaw the higher educational system justifiably upset for the short view, but vastly advanced thru widened democracy in higher education in the long run.

All men assigned to the college training courses will be uniformed and will receive the pay and be under the military discipline of the regular army, navy, marine or coast guard. Messing and housing will be furnished under the contract with the institution.

Such instruction as is contracted for will be paid for by the contracting army or navy. Hence, there will be no tuition, clothing, mess or housing costs to the selected student. In addition, he will have the basic pay of $30 a month for the army courses, and the basic pay received under the lowest pay schedules for the navy.

Follow Induction Procedure.

Both army and navy programs provide for qualified men under 22 years of age to apply for the college training at the end of their basic three months' training, and for those in service who are qualified to apply. Tests and examinations will screen out the less able applicants. Men now in college will thus be inducted by their boards under regular draft procedure, with the abler students returned for intensive or other courses after basic processing.

College officials therefore urge college men to await regular procedures of induction and to make the most of what time on the campus remains in order better to compete for specialized or officer training. Those in Navy VI courses either will be transferred to flight, deck or engineering V courses, or be permitted to continue in VI for a prescribed length of time.

Two Plans Outlined.

Two parallel statements in the joint plan are revolutionary for the American higher educational system. These mean, for the duration at least, and possibly for an unlimited period after the war, that going to college no longer will depend on the financial resources of the prospective student. The statements follow:

Army—"The plan will permit the army to make a selection for this training of qualified men on a broad democratic basis without regard to financial resources."

Navy—"The plan will permit the selection of the country's best qualified men on a broad democratic basis, without regard to financial resources, and thus permit the navy to train young men of superior ability to become officers and specialists."

Program Follows Forecast.

The entire joint plan follows closely plans forecast by the Day committee [Dr. Edmund Day, president of Cornell university] of the American council on education, at a recent meeting of the Association of American Colleges at Philadelphia, Pa., and by Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago in a recent interview. Several of Hutchins' proposals appear almost word for word in the announced plan.

Still to be announced is the procedure for the selection of institutions to be used in the training program, and college officials are asked not to present the merits of their institutions to the joint committee. The administrators are asked only to answer a questionnaire being sent to higher educational institutions by the war man power commission.

250,000 May Be Affected.

Speculation affirmed that about 250,000 service men between 17 and 22 years of age will be assigned to colleges for specialized training. It is estimated that there are not more than 800,000 men on the American campus. As to the number of institutions selected for training units, Hutchins expressed the opinion that probably not more than 350 out of the 750 institutions listed in the World Almanac would be chosen.

Hutchins also forecast, except for independent engineering, medical and technical schools, that only those institutions holding membership or approved by the Association of American Universities would be selected. "American Universities and Colleges," a handbook of higher education, published by the American Council on Education, 1940 edition, lists less than 300 member or approved colleges and universities.

A number of these are women's schools and thus far do not come under the army and navy program. The council handbook lists 644 regionally approved institutions, including women's schools. The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is one of these regional agencies.

If the Hutchins estimate is correct then approximately 500 co-educational or men's schools will soon be void of able bodied men above 18 years old. Rumors persisted that not more than 300 institutions will be selected and that the list tentatively has been made up.

Sixth service command universities holding membership in the A. A. U. include the universities of Chicago, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and Northwestern university. Liberal arts colleges approved by the A. A. U. in the command include Knox, Galesburg, Ill.; Lawrence, Appleton, Wis.; Albion, Albion, Mich.; Lake Forest, Lake Forest, Ill.; Beloit, Beloit, Wis.; Wheaton, Wheaton, Ill.; Illinois college, Jacksonville, Ill.; Monmouth, Monmouth, Ill.; Ripon, Ripon, Wis.; Augustana, Rock Island, Ill.; North Central, Naperville, Ill. Illinois Institute of Technology is an institution approved by engineering accrediting agencies. Bradley Polytechnique institute is approved as a technical school.

Universities approved by the A. A. U., in the command but not members, include Wayne, Marquette, Loyola, De Paul, Detroit, and Marquette.

Plans Provide for Contracts.

The joint plans call for contracts with the colleges and universities selected, and it was stated that no existing contracts for specialized technical training or research between the army or navy with institutions would be affected. It was stated in the plans that the dropping of the draft ages to 18-19 years would deplete the campuses of their able bodied male populations, but that the new program would ease the situation in the selected institutions.

Contracts with 20 colleges for training aviation cadets for the navy were announced yesterday in Washington. Units will be operated with approximately 200 cadets each. The only college in the 6th service command named is Monmouth college.

Others include the Universities of Pennsylvania, Texas, Southern California, and Washington, and Murray State Teachers' college, Murray, Ky., Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, O.; DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind.; Wooster college, Wooster, O.; Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia.; William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo.; St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., and California Polytechnic school, San Louis Obispo, Cal.

The joint plan is not interpreted as applying solely to the estimated 250,000 students now in college or university. Enlisted men may be selected if their qualifications warrant. This becomes apparent as the announced methods of selection are read.

How Students Are Mustered.

In addition to men already receiving ROTC training, the army will muster its students as follows:

"The selection of soldiers for such training will be made from enlisted men who have completed or are completing their basic military training [three months] and who apply for selection for specialized training. This selection will follow the general plan now in effect for the selection of enlisted men for officers' training schools with such additional methods of ascertaining qualifications as may be deemed appropriate after consultation with educators. The war department will control all selections and only enlisted men under 22 years of age will be eligible for selection under this program, except for advanced stage of technical training."

The navy plan, which permits the prospective student to name a choice of service and school, follows:

"High school graduates or students having equivalent formal education, 17 thru 19 years of age at the time of enlistment or induction, will be eligible for the program. Enlisted men 17 thru 22 years of age who have proper educational qualifications and are recommended by their commanding officers are eligible for this program. The various geographical areas of the country will be assigned quotas on the basis of population."

Schools Turn in Keys in Drive

Two Million Keys

Approximately two million spare keys weighing seven tons were turned over to the scrap drive of the office of civilian defense by the board of education yesterday at the school's warehouse, Ogden and Damen avenues. James B. McCahey, president of the board, said the keys were contributed during the last two months by the 400,000 pupils and the engineers in the public schools. He said the keys contained lead, nickel, brass, copper, and many other valuable materials needed in the war.

OPEN DETENTION HOME FOR FIRST OFFENDER WOMEN

Two years of agitation by public welfare minded women for segregation of women first offenders from hardened criminals of their sex came to a successful climax yesterday with the dedication of the new detention home for women in police headquarters, 1121 South State street.

The new quarters on the 13th floor of the police building provide comfortable, sanitary facilities for women prisoners and amnesia victims. About 125 by 100 feet, the quarters include a general lounging room, showers, lavatories, and six private rooms. The private rooms are painted in green and brown and contain cots, arm chairs, and wash stands with running water.

Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman officiated at the dedication and the appointment of Mrs. Mary Powers, mother of three children and a member of the police department for seven years, as director of the home. The home is the result of two years campaigning by the Joint Committee of Women's Court and Detention Home, the Catholic Women's league, the Chicago Woman's club, and the American Association of Women Workers.

RICKENBACKER IN SAN FRANCISCO ON WAY TO CAPITAL

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 17 (AP).—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, flyer hero of two wars, arrived in San Francisco today after his harrowing rescue in the Pacific. He was under strict orders to keep his story to himself until he reports to Washington. Rickenbacker was on special mission when his plane, with seven other occupants, was forced down.

Rickenbacker arrived wearing a set of clothes picked up all across the Pacific—a marine sun helmet, an army shirt, and a pair of navy trousers. He wore also a string of coral beads. Only these gave any indication he had been lost for 24 days in the South Pacific—these and some deep new lines in his face and a noticeable loss of weight.

An ambulance was sent to the airport to meet Rickenbacker, expected to step from the plane a ghastly shriveled wreck, but Eddie grinned and walked off under his own power.

EARLY SUBWAY PRIORITIES TO BE ALLOTTED

Assurance that priorities on $17,000 worth of electrical equipment for Chicago's subway will be taken care of soon were given Mayor Kelly in Washington Wednesday by Maury Maverick, director of priorities for municipal improvement for the war production board, the mayor said yesterday. The mayor also reported that he had discussed with WPB officials the necessity of obtaining equipment for completion of a water filtration plant on Chicago's south side. This action has no connection with suggestions for an increased flow of water from the lake in the Chicago sanitary and ship canal. President Roosevelt can order that step at any time under his wartime powers, Mayor Kelly said, to increase the power output at Lockport.

FIND ARMY, NAVY HIGHRANKERS SET ALL-TIME RECORD

More Generals, Admirals Than Ever in History.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—The United States army, navy, marine corps, and coastguard service have more brass hats and gold braid than ever before in their history, a study revealed today.

The army has two full generals and 20 lieutenant generals. The navy has six full admirals and 11 vice admirals, including the commander of the coast guard, which now is a part of the navy. For the first time the marine corps is commanded by a lieutenant general.

The first American general was George Washington, who was commander in chief from 1775 to 1783. On his retirement from the Presidency he was named lieutenant general and commander in chief in 1798.

Winfield Scott was made a lieutenant general after the Mexican war and held that rank at the outbreak of the Civil war. In the closing months of the Civil war Ulysses S. Grant was made a lieutenant general and became a full general after the war.

William Tecumseh Sherman became a general in 1869 and Philip H. Sheridan in 1888. John M. Schofield became a lieutenant general in 1895.

Honored for War Duty.

In the Spanish American war there were no officers higher than major general. In 1900 Nelson A. Miles was made a lieutenant general for his services in that war.

In the World war three men held four star rank, Tasker H. Bliss, commanding general of the army during the early months of the war; Peyton March, chief of staff of the army, and John J. Pershing, who commanded the American expeditionary force. The ranks were temporary during the war, but were confirmed later by congress.

Two men received lieutenant general rank in the war—Hunter Liggett and Robert L. Bullard, both of whom received temporary appointments on Oct. 16, 1918.

After the war the rank of full general was accorded to the officer filling the position of chief of staff. This post was held by Charles P. Summerall, Douglas MacArthur, Malin C. Craig, and George C. Marshall.

Generals Marshall and MacArthur still are in active service. Generals Summerall and Craig are retired. Gen. Marshall is chief of staff, and Gen. MacArthur was returned to full general rank for his heroic defense of the Philippines.

List Lieutenant Generals.

Leslie J. McNair, commander, ground forces; H. H. Arnold, commander, air forces; Brehon B. Somervell, commander, services of supply; Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff; Hugh Drum, commander, 1st army; Ben Lear, commander, 2d army; Walter Krueger, commander, 3d army; John L. DeWitt, commander, 4th army.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander, American forces in Europe; Mark W. Clark, second in command, American forces in Europe; Delos C. Emmons, commander, Hawaiian command; George H. Brett, commander, Caribbean command; Frank M. Andrews, commander, American air forces in Europe; William S. Knudsen, in charge of production; George C. Kenny, commander, air forces in southwest Pacific.

Robert L. Eichenberger, command not designated; Jacob L. Devers, commanding general armored forces; Jonathan M. Wainwright, MacArthur's successor in the Philippines, now a prisoner; Joseph Stilwell, commander, China theater, and Stanley D. Embick, retired lieutenant general called to active duty as vice chairman of the American-Canadian joint defense commission.

Until the present war the navy had fewer high ranking officers than the army. The first full admiral was David G. Farragut, hero of Mobile Bay, who was made a vice admiral during the civil war and promoted to full admiral later.

In the Spanish-American war all posts of command were held by rear admirals. George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, won a full admiral's rank after the war.

In the world war the navy had four full admirals, William S. Benson, chief of naval operations; Henry T. Mayo, commander in chief of the United States fleet; W. B. Caperton, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, and A. G. Winterhalter, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet.

List Navy's Full Admirals.

The full admirals today are as follows:

Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet and chief of naval operations; Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet; Harold R. Stark, commander, United States naval forces, Europe; William F. Halsey, commander, South Pacific area and South Pacific forces; Royal E. Ingersoll, commander, Atlantic fleet, and William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander in chief, President Roosevelt.

Arthur S. Carpenter, commander, naval forces southwest Pacific; Jonas H. Ingram, commander, south Atlantic forces, Atlantic fleet; Henry K. Hewitt, commander, amphibian forces, Atlantic fleet; Frederick H. Horne, vice chief of naval operations; Adolphus Andrews, commander, eastern sea forces; John W. Greenslade, commander, western sea forces.

Charles S. Freeman, commander, northwest sea forces; John H. Hoover, commander, Caribbean sea forces; Russel R. Waesche, commandant, coast guard; Russell Willson, deputy commander in chief, United States fleet, and Richard S. Edwards, chief of staff of the commander in chief, United States fleet.

Sisters Meet After 35 Years

Mrs. George James (left) and Mrs. J. M. Brady as they met yesterday at the North Western station. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Not Much Change

Two sisters, Mrs. George James of 1426 East 65th street and Mrs. Jack Brady of Salt Lake City, did 35 years' worth of visiting yesterday to fill in the period since they last saw each other. Mrs. Brady and her husband stopped here several hours en route to New Orleans to visit their son, Lt. Col. Raymond Brady, who is in a hospital for an eye trouble.

Mrs. James and Mrs. Brady are the former Louise and Anna Boesen, daughters of the late Police Sergt. Bernard Boesen, who was injured in the Haymarket riot and who also won a diamond star as most popular policeman in Chicago.

Failing at first to recognize each other as they stood at their appointed meeting place yesterday morning—the Christmas tree at the North Western station—they discovered later they hadn't changed too much, and despite graying locks one could still tell they "used to be red heads." The Bradys went to Denver when they first left here in November, 1907, but have lived in Utah many years.

ALL HIGH BRITISH OFFICIALS URGED TO 'FLY BRITISH'

Cabinet Member Hits Use of U. S. Planes, Pilots.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—An appeal to Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other high British officials to "fly British" in the future instead of traveling in American planes, was made in the house of commons today by W. R. D. Perkins, Conservative member of parliament.

Perkins, complaining that Pan-American Airways is "spreading its tentacles all over the world," noted that Churchill flew to Moscow, Ambassador Halifax and his wife to America, and Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts to South Africa in planes piloted by "comparatively inexperienced pilots who held no British qualifications."

He apparently referred to a former Pan-American pilot, William Van Der Kloot, captain of the bomber which flew Churchill to Russia.

Fears U. S. Supremacy.

Perkins also expressed fear that Britain will be left behind in the race for commercial air supremacy after the war.

"I can foresee a race between the Americans and ourselves to control the air trade routes of the world," he said. "We will have practically no airplanes with which to compete except those loaned to us by lend-lease. If we try to do it with them I believe friction is inevitable.

"I urge the government to call a conference with our American allies and settle now, once and for all, what particular sphere of influence is to belong to each particular country.

"Otherwise, I fear we might have another Boston tea party."

"All Bets Off."

Capt. Harold Balfour, undersecretary for air, assured commons that "all bets will be off" after the war as regards present American use of British air bases and routes.

"We are determined to have our place in the air transport system of the world for the British commonwealth of nations to link up its own interests with those of other nations," he said.

Perkins, whose arguments were supported by other members of parliament, demanded planning of commercial planes and motors and the immediate release of 30 modern planes for civilian use so that "we could look Pan-American in the face."

Balfour replied that the government had "bold measures" under consideration, but admitted that for the next two or three years Britain will have to rely on the United States for the bulk of its transport equipment.

WON BRITISH HONOR.

Capt. Van Der Kloot, 27 years old, of Sarasota, Fla., who flew Churchill to Moscow in a Liberator [B-24] bomber, received the order of the British empire last June for outstanding work as an accurate instrument pilot and radio specialist.

LONDON SHORT OF FISH; M. P.'S BLAME 'ZONING'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—London's fish supply hit a new low today and members of parliament complained that the fish zoning scheme introduced by Minister of Food Woolton had resulted in some areas receiving no fish at all while others had more than they could use.

Henderson Stewart, Liberal, was the first to voice the complaint in the house of commons. He received quick support from David Robertson, Conservative, who said the government scheme had not succeeded.

For the first time London is receiving fish from only one port daily. The average London wartime supply has been about 300 tons a day, but this has been dropping during the last 10 days. Yesterday's supply was only 182 tons and tomorrow fish traders are expecting only 50 tons.

BIG U. S. BOMBER FORCE POUNDS TUNISIAN PORTS

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 17 (AP).—United States bombers and fighters spearheading the growing allied aerial offensive in Tunisia spread flame and destruction today in the axis-held ports of Tunis and Bizerte, sinking one ship and shooting down five enemy planes and damaging three others, official dispatches said late tonight.

Maj. Gen. James Doolittle's 12th air force put aloft one of its strongest forces yet employed in North Africa. Only one United States fighter plane was damaged in the operations.

Bizerte, Tunis, Gabes, and other axis strongholds in Tunisia were attacked by a big force of Flying Fortresses. These assaults followed raids on Tunis and Bizerte made on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Large fires were started on the docks and at least one ship was sunk by a direct hit at Tunis. At Bizerte the American flyers saw fires spreading among the docks and naval installations after their heavy explosives crashed into them.

Flyers from Springfield, Peoria.

The .50 caliber machine guns of the B-17 Flying Fortresses knocked down three of the five axis planes destroyed. The three enemy planes were claimed from a swarm of German fighters that atempted to break up the raid on Tunis.

Other American planes on coastal patrol accounted for the two other enemy planes, Junkers 88s. One of the German bombers crashed into the sea when pounced upon by four P-38 fighters despite the presence of an equal number of escorting Messerschmitts.

[At Cairo the British announced that in an eight hour attack on the Tunis area Tuesday night bombs caved the banks and partly closed the five mile long canal connecting Tunis with its harbor, La Goulette.]

Attack Two Airdromes.

Another big A-20 force with P-38 escort attacked an axis airdrome west of Sidi Tabet, northwest of Tunis, scoring numerous hits on the landing field and setting fires visible for 20 miles.

An earlier allied headquarters communique said allied planes had attacked a railway near Mateur, 25 miles south of Bizerte, and axis troops at Massicault, 20 miles southwest of Tunis. An ammunition dump was exploded at one place and several enemy fighters were destroyed on an airdrome near Mateur. Fighter-bombers also attacked a railway south of Sousse.

"A successful raid by an American patrol in southern Tunisia brought in more than a score of Italian prisoners," the communique said.

Rommel Forces Cut in Two.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 17 (AP).—The British 8th army, throwing a strong force across the line of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis retreat, has cut his fleeing columns in two and now threatens to inflict another major disaster upon them.

A swift and powerful thrust which reached the Wadi Matratin [a gully] about 65 miles west of the abandoned axis positions at El Agheila, then swung south into the interior and isolated large German armored, infantry and artillery units under a punishing fire.

[It was said in London that in cutting Rommel's line British forces had reached the coast from the southeast and then swung southward to close the trap.]

"Enemy troops east of this area [the scene of the cut in Rommel's line] include armored formations which, in attempting to break out, already have suffered heavy casualties and continue to be severely mauled," the British communique announced.

Pocket 25 Miles Long.

A wide sweep thru the desert which caught the enemy by surprise sprung the trap around the Nazi force which now is inside a noose about 25 miles long. Ahead of it to the west are British forces matching the trapped enemy with large infantry, tank, and artillery components.

[The London News-Chronicle estimated that 10,000 of Rommel's men are in the allied bag and estimates of tanks trapped ranged as high as half his entire strength.]

Once the British had cut the coast road early yesterday, they swiftly spread out. Infantry forces cleaned up smaller enemy groups with rifle and bayonet while artillery batteries raced to vantage points and poured an incessant barrage on the road and tanks made forays into the German ranks.

From behind, the enemy also was harassed by another British force in the vicinity of Marble Arch, where the axis formerly held an air field about 40 miles west of El Agheila.

Running Air Attacks.

Over the line of Rommel's flight, allied planes continued their running attacks. A United States communique announced that American planes participating had scored many hits.

The core of this action was in the region of Zauta en Nofilia, about 100 miles west of El Agheila, where fighters, fighter bombers, and light and medium bombers cast tons of bombs upon those axis columns which had got past the Waldi Matratin before their comrades were cut off.

Among the installations knocked out by allied air bombs were barricades put up along the roadsides to protect the withdrawing axis forces. Some of these setups and the traffic moving by them at the time were wiped out by a single series of bombs. Some allied planes got scratches but all returned safely.

Attacks Axis Air Fields.

The allied air force also attacked axis air fields farther west in Tripolitania, including Tamet, 25 miles west of Sirte, and Castel Benito, 15 miles south of Tripoli.

At the western end of the allied offensive in North Africa, in Tunisia, the day's information indicated that new and heavy ground fighting was in preparation as the rains abated. The allied controled Morocco radio was heard broadcasting reports that axis forces were falling back from the vicinity of Mejez-el-Bab, a key point along the allied line southwest of the cities of Tunis and Bizerte.

Claim Allied Losses Heavy.

BERLIN, Dec. 17 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Transocean [German] news agency quoted military quarters today as saying British and American troops had retreated farther west in Tunisia, abandoning important ground which could have been defended easily.

These sources said the allies "manifestly had not recovered" from the effects of four days' fighting last week around Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis.

The Germans said in this battle, the British and Americans lost 60 tanks, 42 motorized guns, 40 mortars, 374 trucks, and other materiel. They said 800 prisoners were taken and "a much greater number was killed."

Allied supply ports of Philippeville, Bone, and LaCalle [in Algeria and Tunisia] were bombed last night, the agency said, adding that big fires caused extensive damage at LaCalle.

The German high command said Marshal Rommel's force in Libya had "systematically disengaged itself toward the west" and repelled every British effort to cut into the movement.

The Germans said their planes had made "heavy new night air attacks on port establishments at Bengazi," British forward supply port in Libya.

Fight in Africa Just Begun, Military Observers Warn

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Military observers here tonight cautioned against undue optimism over the African campaign, warning that the fight on the border of the Mediterranean has just begun and that the allies face a long, tough struggle with a wily and determined foe.

It was asserted that far from being in rout, the axis forces appear to be winning a strategic victory thru a well organized retreat, which has extended British supply lines and enabled the axis to get the jump on the allies in Tunisia.

Today's London reports that the British 8th army had cut the retreating African corps of Marshal Erwin Rommel in two at Wadi Matratin, about 65 miles west of El Agheila, was cited as one of many which have given a false picture of the campaign.

Already Beyond Trap.

Reliable reports late last week indicated that the bulk of Rommel's army was well beyond Zauta en Nofilia, which is about 100 miles west of El Agheila, and was continuing its orderly retreat westward. If Rommel's army was west of Nofilia on Monday, it could not have been cut in two on Tuesday by what London dispatches today called "a brilliant flanking movement" south of Wadi Matratin.

In 1940 Rommel retreated before the army of Gen. Archibald Wavell in what was described as a rout of the axis North African forces. As British lines became overextended, Rommel took the offensive and drove the British forces back rapidly.

In 1941 Rommel executed a strategic retreat before Gen. Neil M. Ritchie, which also was heralded as an axis rout. It developed that the retreat was axis strategy when Rommel suddenly took the offensive and drove almost to Alexandria this year.

Covered Tunisian Operation.

More and more observers here are convinced that Rommel executed a skilful retreat from El Alamein and now at El Agheila, where he had prepared a fortified position, in which the British had expected he would attempt a stiff defense.

Now observers recognize that Rommel's orderly withdrawal covered the gradual German increase of troops in Tunisia, particularly at Bizerte, where a sudden strong offensive forced American troops back 20 miles in one day.

One of the first to caution the public that the African campaign is far from over was Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, who said the main war is just being approached and that there is much toil, sweat, and blood ahead.

Stimson merely hinted that Rommel was not in flight and offered no explanation as to how the axis forces reached Bizerte ahead of the allies. He said that the big allied push cannot come until air superiority has been established in the area.

Lack Adequate Forward Bases.

Elmer Davis, head of the office of war information, publicly stated the belief that Rommel was not in flight but executing a strategic retreat in order to extend British lines.

Some experts believe the German forces in Bizerte have a relatively small number of planes, perhaps 200 in all and that the allied forces operating against Tunisia have been hampered more by poor planning than a lack of planes.

The allies have no adequate forward air bases and must operate from as far back as Algiers. The airfields are there but there are not enough radio detection devices, anti-aircraft guns, and mechanical gasoline pumps. Other experts feel that the allied forces do not have a sufficient number of the most modern type of planes for the African campaign.

Older models of fighting and bombing craft require longer runways than there are in the forward bases. Air experts say, however, that the ground rather than air equipment is holding up the use of the forward bases.

No Quick Decision

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—An authoritative source today told correspondents it is a mistake to believe the North African issue will be settled immediately. He warned against overoptimism by saying it will be at least a month before there are any decisive results. The capture of the tip of Tunisia will be much more difficult than many persons imagine, he said.

In Libya, altho Marshal Rommel is on the run, he still has a considerable force and still is a resourceful commander, the spokesman said. He added, however, that Rommel will be harassed continually by the British 8th army, and ultimately will be beaten.

In another month the bogey of bad weather in Tunisia will be overcome and American and British air fields will be dried out sufficiently for the large scale operations necessary to oust the axis from Tunis and Bizerte, the speaker said. He asserted that at the same time the allies will have numerical superiority in the air.

Rites for Fr. Ledochowski, Jesuit Chief, Held in Rome

BERLIN, Dec. 17 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German dispatches from Rome reported that the funeral of Father Wladimir Ledochowski, general of the Society of Jesus [the Jesuit order], was held in Rome today. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at Gesu church by the master general of the Dominicans, Father Gillet, in the presence of a congregation which included 18 cardinals and all members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See. Father Ledochowski, 76 years old, died Sunday.

BELIEVE DAKAR WARSHIPS FIT TO FIGHT SOON

May Take Longer to Get Alexandria Ships Ready.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—British naval observers said tonight that formidable French naval units at Dakar probably could be put in fighting trim in a comparatively short time, but that the immobilized French warships at Alexandria could not be ready to join the fight against the axis for several months at the earliest.

The British were chary of official comment on Adm. Jean Darlan's declaration today that French war vessels at Dakar, Alexandria, and North African ports would join the British and United States fleets on the high seas.

But the Fighting French headquarters here said there was no reason for not voiding the pact under which the 22,189 ton battleship Lorraine, four cruisers, and at least one submarine were lying demilitarized in Alexandria.

Welcome Unity of Frenchmen.

Further, the Fighting French, who have consistently protested the allied arrangement with Darlan in North Africa, said they welcomed Darlan's statement that the more the French forces were brought together the better it would be for every one.

Darlan answered questions on the dispositions of the French fleet and other problems affecting the French in a statement to the Associated Press at allied headquarters in North Africa.

Darlan, giving the first definite word of plans for the French naval units in North Africa, said "Yes, definitely!" to the question, "Does Mr. Darlan plan to use the French fleet left at Dakar, Alexandria, and North African ports against the axis?"

Darlan Urges Coöperation.

In answer to a question regarding Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, Darlan expressed hope that "all Frenchmen who are able to fight the axis will do it in close union."

The Fighting French here were hopeful that the commander of the French naval units in Alexandria harbor, Vice Adm. Rene Emil Godfroy, would be ready to join the allied side.

The ships at Alexandria were left with only maintenance crews under the agreement and naval sources here said that the machinery naturally had deteriorated. Even new warships, they pointed out, require three months to commission.

Battleship at Dakar.

One of the ships at Dakar is the 35,000 ton battleship Richelieu, whose rudder was damaged during a British attack in 1940.

Also at Dakar are three 7,600 ton cruisers, the Gloire, Montcalm, and Georges Leygues; three destroyers, eight to twelve submarines, and the submarine tender Jules Verne.

Among other vessels in North Africa are the 35,000 ton battleship Jean Bart, damaged in the American landing operation at Casablanca; various disabled or beached cruisers, destroyers, and submarines, and three submarines which escaped from Toulon to Algeria last month.

'A Double Crosser'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Despite the official British government's acceptance of the American accord with Adm. Jean Darlan, an authoritative source—while admitting that the agreement was an expedient—tonight characterized the French admiral as a professional double crosser. This source said that Benedict Arnold was a gentleman compared to Darlan, adding that Arnold WAS a gentleman, because he once was a colonel in the British army.

HELD IN FATAL STABBING.

Fanny Wilkerson, 37 years old, colored, was held by police yesterday after Charles Washington, 41, colored, was found stabbed to death in a room at 1243 Miller street.

PASSIVE REVOLT DAMAGES INDIA, VICEROY ASSERTS

CALCUTTA, India, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Congress party's civil disobedience campaign has been the cause of "immense damage," Viceroy Linlithgow told the associated chambers of commerce at a meeting today.

He declared preparations against a possible Japanese invasion of India are progressing and the outlook is much brighter, tho "we are still far from the end of our troubles."

The viceroy said that the present constitutional deadlock in India resulted from a failure of divergent political groups to agree on who should take over responsibilities which, he asserted, the British government "is only too ready to transfer to Indian hands."

NATIVE MONARCH JOINS THE YANKS ON GUADALCANAL

North Chicago Marine Tells of Tribal Aid.

Sergt. T. F. Wallis.

The native king of Guadalcanal Island, who was bayoneted and left for dead by ruthless Japanese, was befriended and nursed back to health by United States marine corps doctors and is showing his gratitude by marshaling his people behind the United States flag, Marine Sergt. Tony Fisher Wallis, home from the island on a three weeks' furlough, said yesterday. He is visiting his mother, Mrs. Julia Wallis, at 1025 Lincoln street, North Chicago.

The story of the native king is one of many instances in which Japanese ruthlessness has been turned against them, said Sergt. Wallis, who has spent two years in the South Pacific.

Natives Teach Yanks.

Under the friendly king the natives now seize rifles from the wounded or dead Japanese and help the marines to pick off Jap snipers. They are teaching the Yankees native tricks of jungle fighting which far surpass the technique of the Japanese, and are scouting Jap emplacements for the marines.

The main threat on Guadalcanal, Wallis said, is Jap snipers in the tall trees.

Japs Carry Opium Pipes.

Many of the Japanese slain or taken prisoner carry opium pipes, Wallis said, and have a supply of the drug in small lockets hung around their necks.

Marine camouflage is excellent, he said, and the marines have discovered many ways of deceiving the enemy. The Springfield rifles carried by the marines, for instance, formerly had clips containing five cartridges, and the Japanese would charge after they heard a rifle fire five shots.

Now the marines have devised longer cartridge clips, some containing 20 rounds, and the Japs who charge after the fifth shot fall before a withering fire. War on Guadalcanal is a battle of nerves, as well as bullets, he said.

Sergt. Wallis praised the work of the navy's "Seabees," construction gangs, who repair the island air field after Jap bombings in a matter of minutes.

Chicago Brothers Meet in Battle.

Two brothers who met on a South Pacific battlefield and again in a naval hospital at San Diego after both were brought home wounded also returned to Chicago yesterday. They are Sergt. Albert Schweibish, 25 years old, and Pvt. Jack Schweibish, 21, both marines, visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schweibish at 3835 Fillmore street. They told the story of their adventures to Capt. Louis Klatzco of the Fillmore street police station, a family friend.

Sergt. Albert was battling the Japanese with a marine detachment on Gavutu in the Solomon Islands when a group of reënforcements arrived. Among them was his brother, Jack. Six hours later Jack was wounded in a bomb explosion. They next met in San Diego after Jack was wounded a second time on Guadalcanal. Sergt. Albert also was wounded on Guadalcanal when he tried to smother a Japanese hand grenade.

The brothers have been awarded the Purple Heart decoration. Between them, they say, they have accounted for 51 Japs. Albert claims 40 and his brother, 11.

M.P.'S STAND IN PROTEST AGAINST 'AXIS BARBARISM'

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden read to the house of commons today the allied declaration condemning treatment of Jews in axis dominated countries, and commons stood briefly in silence in a gesture of protest to what one member called the enemy's "disgusting barbarism."

There was deep silence in the hall when J. A. de Rothschild voiced gratitude that such an announcement had been made by the allies.

Eden was asked whether the government could explore the possibility of a mass migration of Jews into a neutral country, such as Sweden. The foreign secretary said that he would be happy to do anything he could but that the difficulties of such a step easily could be appreciated.

BRITISH VESSEL SUNK BY SUB; TOLL NOW 562

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 [Special].—The sinking of a small British merchant vessel by an enemy submarine in mid-Atlantic in the middle of November was announced by the navy today. Survivors of the torpedoed ship were landed at an east coast American port. The sinking raised to 562 the number of allied and neutral merchant ships announced as lost in western Atlantic waters since the attack on Pearl Harbor. A total of 3,756 persons perished in these attacks, 2,258 were reported missing, and 16,984 were rescued.

REDS WRECK NAZI DRIVE, BUT KEEP THEIR OWN GOING

Halt Foe Near Stalingrad, Gain on Central Front.

MOSCOW, Dec. 18 [Friday]—(AP).—The Red army killed 1,235 Germans and knocked out 12 tanks yesterday in fighting along the railway leading to Kotelnikovo, 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad, made small gains on the central front, and consolidated its position deep inside the Don river elbow, the soviets announced early today.

116

The heaviest fighting was reported southwest of Stalingrad, which now is in its 116th day of siege. The Russians announced yesterday they had broken a German defense near Kotelnikovo after a two-day fight in which 80 Nazi tanks were destroyed.

Capture 580 Guns.

Supplementing a previous announcement of a huge victory west of Surovikino, inside the Don river bend on the Stalingrad-Likhaya railway, the Russians said 580 German guns were captured. They also listed 15 tanks, 36 small tanks and armored cars, 65 mortars, 203 machine guns, 650 anti-tank rifles, and large quantities of ammunition and supplies as falling into their hands. This action apparently occurred more than 90 miles at the rear of the Nazi siege army on the Volga river.

Northwest of Stalingrad, in the area between the Don and the Volga, where subsidiary Russian encirclement efforts are under way, the Red army was reported to have wiped out more than 350 Germans and destroyed 7 tanks, 10 machine guns, and 7 block houses. The Russian effort in that sector, however, appeared to be devoted mainly to fortifying the wedges they have driven into enemy positions.

Bag Seven More Planes.

In the immediate Stalingrad area, the communique said, the Russians destroyed seven more transport planes, one of the main Nazi methods of supplying their troops in the Don-Volga pockets, and killed 500 enemy troops.

On the cold central front the Russians said one of their units reduced an enemy strong point west of Rzhev, 150 miles northwest of Moscow, and wiped out a German battalion near Veliki Luki, 90 miles from the Latvian border, in a two day battle resulting from a German counter-attack.

The Germans employed dive bombers liberally on the central front northwest of Moscow. A dispatch said 38 bombers were brought down by ground fire in 24 hours.

In the sweep of the five villages west of Rzhev, the Russians claimed the destruction of 95 blockhouses, two ammunition dumps, 24 tanks, and 20 guns, along with two infantry battalions.

Fighting in the Caucasus generally was local, but southeast of Nalchik, the Russians said a surprise attack on a German airdrome destroyed 18 grounded planes and damaged three others. Another airdrome was bombed and 13 enemy craft were destroyed.

GERMAN CLAIMS.

The Germans said an encircled force southeast of Toropets on the central front had been annihilated and 4,200 prisoners and vast booty captured. Repeated Russian attacks were reported "partly repelled" in the Don elbow and gains between the Don and Volga were claimed. Red army attacks south of Rzhev and in the Terek region of the Caucasus also were reported repelled.

SWISS RADIO CUT OFF; R. A. F. RAID ON ITALY HINTED

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Swiss radio went off the air tonight at 9:50 o'clock. This usually indicates British planes are en route for raids on northern Italy.

Almost at the same time the Berlin radio broadcast a German Transocean agency dispatch from Milan reporting the arrival of German anti-aircraft artillery in oft-bombed Turin. Premier Mussolini recently said the Germans were sending anti-aircraft guns to help Italy, but only feeble resistance had been encountered from ground fire since then.

U. S. Minister to Finland on Way Home by Plane

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 17 (AP).—The United States minister to Finland, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, left today by airplane for Washington, D. C., via Stockholm, Sweden. Government representatives gave him a cordial farewell and expressed the opinion that he would be away but a short time. They said there were no symptoms of a change in Finnish-American relations.

FORTS RAID NEW JAP FIELD; BAG 12 ZERO PLANES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Twelve Japanese Zero planes which dared to challenge a group of army Flying Fortresses on a bombing mission near New Georgia Island in the Solomons were wiped out by the gunners in the big bombers, the navy reported today. One of the Fortresses was lost, but its crew was rescued.

The intercepting enemy planes were standard land type Zeros instead of the pontooned craft which have participated in most of the recent engagements there, and presumably came from a field established at Munda. This would indicate that the foe has succeeded in establishing this field for at least limited use despite a series of heavy bombing attacks by American army and navy planes.

The navy also reported that navy dive bombers had hit shipping and installations of the enemy at Munda. One enemy destroyer, or possibly a light cruiser, was struck and damaged by bombs. No reports of the strength of opposition encountered there were given but one of the dive bombers failed to return.

LEGLESS FLYER OF R. A. F. GETS JOB AT FRONT LINES

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Legless at 22 years of age, Pilot Officer Colin G. S. Hodgkinson was assigned tonight to a front-line fighter squadron by the air ministry. He lost both his legs three years ago in a crash flying blind. His determination to fly again finally won out and he was fitted with special steel legs and returned to the fleet arm. After flying with the fleet several months, the admiralty granted his request for transfer to the RAF. Hodgkinson is the first legless pilot in the RAF since Douglas Bader was captured by the Germans, who shot his plane down.

Hodgkinson was a rugby player and was three times champion of the Pangbourne Nautical college. Despite his handicap, he still dances and plays golf and squash.

ROOSEVELT SON FLIES OVER EVERY TARGET OF UNIT

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 14—[Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, and his pilot, Maj. Harry Edtison of Indianapolis, have made preliminary flights over every major target chosen for bombing by the United States 12th air force.

Col. Roosevelt is commander of a special photographic reconnaissance group. He has had more than a good share of "dicing"—the aerial photographer's term for daringly low swoops to picture targets at almost zero-zero altitudes. Col. Roosevelt has done it over Tunisia, Sicily, and Sardinia.

The 32 year old son of the President thinks it's a great break to fly with Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle and with the men of the 12th air force.

"Doolittle's not an army career man," he explained. "He's like most of us, from civil life."

Yanks Will Play Santa to North Ireland Children

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 17 (AP).—Santa Claus will visit thousands of needy children in Northern Ireland, thanks to the organization of "Xmas Kids, Inc.," by American aircraft technicians there who are busy making $10,000 worth of toys. The technicians are turning out toys from scrap material during their spare time. Most British toy factories have turned to war production and few children's gifts are available in the stores.

SOUTH PACIFIC YANKS TRAIN FOR JUNGLE WAR ON JAPS—IN JUNGLE

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

A SOUTH PACIFIC PORT, Dec. 16 [Delayed].—Troops in this South Pacific post have gone to work learning to fight the Pacific war. This means training in jungle fighting, so thruout a great area which includes several mountain peaks the Americans are being rehearsed in combat methods.

The units hike from their camps into the thick jungle, where they attack the military problems devised by their operations chiefs. They avoid the established trails and make no detours around hills, the marches being treated as a hardening process, as well as part of their combat training.

The Yanks take their own food along—a man may get only a potato and a piece of meat, or a handful of rice, which he will have to cook himself. Often several men pool their rations and cook for themselves, for kitchens and supply trains are lacking.

Chinese Recapture River Port Taken by Japanese

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 18 [Friday]—(AP).—Chinese troops recaptured the river port of Hosueh, Western Hupeh province, today, it was officially announced here. A Japanese local offensive on the middle Yangtze resulted in the capture of the port by the Japanese on Wednesday, the Chinese high command said yesterday. Hosueh is 20 miles downstream from the larger port of Shasi.

ALLIED PATROLS STRIKE AT JAPS NEAR SALAMAUA

Enemy's Attempt to Flee Buna Trap Fails.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Dec 18 [Friday].—Allied patrols in the region of Japanese-held Salamaua, New Guinea are keeping up pressure on "enemy outposts and are protecting friendly natives," the high command said today. Salamaua is the major enemy base about 140 miles up the northeastern shore of the island from Buna.

Attempts of the Japs to break out of their traps in the Buna area also have been repulsed, it was announced.

"In the face of strong enemy resistance, our lines are gradually closing in," the noon communique of Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported concerning the ground fighting against Japs pocketed to the east and west of Buna Village.

The remnants of a Japanese landing force which got ashore, despite losses, in the Kumusi delta, some 40 miles northwest of Buna, have been bombed anew by allied medium aerial units, the communique reported.

Japs Beaten Off.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 18 [Friday]—(AP).—Allied troops in New Guinea beat off local Japanese counter-thrusts against two points in their lines at Buna yesterday as the Southwest Pacific command's hard working air force helped ground troops tighten their ring around the enemy's shallow beachhold.

After allied artillery had destroyed a bridge leading to the Japanese held Buna government station near captured Buna village, American infantrymen closed in to clear out the Japanese from a coconut grove immediately south of the station.

The Japanese attempted to counterattack under cover of a mortar barrage, but were repulsed in a short sharp encounter which cost the attackers 20 killed and 1 captive.

Aussies Kill 15.

West of the allied line the Australians killed 15 and took 1 prisoner of a Japanese forces that attempted to infiltrate the Australian positions.

This action occurred west of Gona, and these Japanese were believed to be either some of those who escaped up the New Guinea coast when the Australians took Gona, or some of perhaps 250 enemy troops who got ashore from a Japanese naval force last Monday.

Other small groups of Japanese who were believed to have slipped out of Buna when the Americans entered that village Dec. 14 were strafed yesterday by allied planes seven miles to the north.

BOMBERS FROM NEW ZEALAND JOIN YANKS AT GUADALCANAL BASE

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—The royal New Zealand air force now is flying Lockheed Hudson bombers based on Henderson field.

Valuable and welcome additions to the United States Solomons air fleet, the New Zealand planes are being assigned to extensive patrols daily.

The friendliest relations exist between the New Zealanders and the Americans. It is difficult to tell the Zealanders from Americans here until they start to talk.

YANKS IN AFRICA TEACHING FRENCH NEW KIND OF WAR

Task Force Strikes Like Cavalry of 1865.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AN AMERICAN TASK FORCE IN TUNISIA, Nov. 30—[Delayed].—Americans here are teaching the French about modern battle tactics.

Already Col. Edson D. Raff, commander of an American paratroop task force, has taught older French officers the lessons of this modern war of movement, to the great delight of the younger French officers.

This campaign in southern Tunisia has been more like the cavalry raids of the American Civil war than anything else. It has been difficult for the older French officers to learn this. The older officers are steeped in the traditions of pre-war tactics. Since the fall of France, this has been a peace time colonial army, stripped of most of its weapons and transport, and anticipating only defensive action.

Raff Shows the Way.

Now it is a different story. Since Raff, starting with a handful of men and building up to a larger force, swept up and down the country harassing strong enemy columns and driving back the axis, the French are realizing their need for new tactics.

From the defense of towns, they now are sending out strong patrols and holding forces to occupy the towns Raff's assault forces have seized.

Hidden from Axis Agents.

Backstopping this has been a slow trickle—now a steady flow—of hidden war materials.

From mountain fastnesses and other places of concealment are coming anti-tank guns, field guns, ammunition, stores, and other war equipment hidden from the prying eyes of the axis armistice commission.

French soldiers here are eager to meet the Germans in battle, especially since Hitler announced that all French soldiers in North Africa will be considered "rebels" and executed on capture.

ACT TO SPEED NEWS FROM NORTH AFRICA FRONT, BRITISH ASSERT

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Brendan Bracken, British minister of information, told American correspondents today that criticism of American army authorities generally and Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower particularly for the meagerness and tardiness of news dispatches from the North African front was unjustified.

Everything possible is being done to overcome the handicaps of an inadequate system of communications, Bracken said. Nothing could be more unfair, he said, than to attribute the difficulties to too rigorous censorship or muddling on the part of military authorities.

Bracken pleaded for patience with Gen. Eisenhower's efforts to overcome difficulties inherent in the communications problem, and said that British authorities were doing all in their power to help him.

RAISE WOMEN'S WORK AGE.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin advised the house of commons today that the maximum age limit for women subject to draft for service in certain distributive trades is being raised from 30 to 35 and in a few cases to 45.

WICKARD CUTS '43 MEAT QUOTA TO 35 OZ. A WEEK

Pork, Lamb and Mutton Supplies Reduced.

tion from both the department of agriculture and the farm equipment branch of the WPB that the civilian supply division allow farm machinery production next year to equal at least 50 per cent of that in 1940, lest the food production program be endangered. Instead, Weiner issued order No. 170 restricting farm machinery production next year to 20 per cent of 1940 output, Mundt said.

The South Dakota congressman quoted from a memorandum prepared by the farm equipment branch of the WPB in which it said it was the combined and studied judgment of the branch and th department of agriculture, staffed by farm experts, that 50 per cent production is the minimum necessary next year.

"They say that unless the farmers receive at least that much machinery the entire food for victory program of America will be jeopardized. That is the report of men familiar with farm problems here in America," said Mundt.

Scuttled Recommendations.

"We find today the unique situation where Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, who is supposed to be the food czar of this country, is operating a program with farm machinery which he has been denied by an altogether different branch of the government headed by a New York City attorney who knows nothing about agriculture.

"This decision to scuttle the recommendations of the two government agencies best qualified to know the farm machinery needs of American farmers, was made by the division of civilian supply while it was under the direction of Leon Henderson. In fairness to Mr. Henderson I must say that not Mr. Henderson but his deputy administrator, Atty. Joseph Weiner, of New York City, made the ruling to override the agricultural experts and to produce only 20 per cent of the machinery made in 1940 rather than 50 per cent. . . . The fate of American farming is in his hands."

Mundt said he couldn't find any record of Weiner in Who's Who but that at his request the Library of Congress looked into his record.

Born in Russia in 1902.

"They found," said Mundt, "that he was born March 15, 1902, in Don Brodus, Russia. He came to this country at an early age. He has a law degree from Columbia university, A. B. and LL. B. He has been practicing law in the city of New York ever since, sometimes as assistant corporation attorney, sometimes on the board of transportation of New York City, and sometimes as a special'st in the reorganization division of the securities and exchange commission.

"He came to Washington about two years ago and worked himself up to assistant administrator to Leon Henderson, and then Leon Henderson, as we know, very recently resigned as director of the civilian supply division and Joseph Weiner today is the director. He is today the man on whom millions of hungry people depend for their food, because whe machinery cannot be secured the food cannot be raised.

"All that rests in the hands of Joseph Weiner, New York City attorney, who, if he has had any experience in farming must have obtained it in Russia at a very early age, because there is no farming on the sidewalks of New York," declared Mundt.

Exports Increased.

Rep. Frank Carlson [R., Kas.] reinforced Mundt's charges by observing that while the quota of domestic farm machinery has been slashed, exports of such machinery have been increased. He said that Great Britain, Ireland, Wales, and Scotland today are receiving 111 per cent of their average of 1940-'41 and that other countries also have been allowed more farm machinery from the United States.

Mundt predicted that the new congress, thru a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats will "put an end to burocratic arrogance and burocratic inefficiency." He recommended especially that a special congressional board of review be created to pass upon directives, orders, regulations, limitation orders, rationing rules and other such actions of the burocrats.

Lt. William Campbell with his sister, father, and mother.

Lieut. William Campbell, 25 year old co-pilot of the army bomber which evacuated President Manuel Quezon from the Philippines last March, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, 1526 North Lavergne avenue, yesterday on his first leave in more than a year. He won the distinguished flying cross for his part in the Philippine mission.

His plane also bombed a Japanese transport and a cruiser in the Coral sea, May 5, and a bomber he was flying was strafed in a 20 minute gun battle, with two Zero planes near New Britain in September. Lt. Campbell was an R. O. T. C. cadet at Austin High school, where he graduated in 1935. He enlisted in the air force five months before the war started in 1939.

Clifford Groh, 24, former Northwestern university fencing champion and naval aviation student there, returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George V. Groh, 311 4th avenue, Wilmette, on Tuesday after serving with the Flying Tigers in Burma as their youngest pilot. "Our ground crews found the parts to keep the P-40s flying by searching for wrecked planes in surrounding jungles," he said.

CANNERS OPPOSE ALL SHACKLES ON CROP PROCESSING

The National Canners association approved a resolution yesterday asking that the government place no restrictions on the processing of the food which harvests will make available and that it allocate the full amount of steel, tin, and other materials needed in this processing.

In their annual meeting in the Palmer House the canners also approved a resolution asking that in any regulations to control and distribute man power, their industry be grouped with agriculture in recognition of the importance of processing crops. Another resolution opposed the OPA proposal for compulsory grade labeling of canned goods as "unnecessary and unworkable."

MEAT JOBBERS FIGHT OPA BAN ON THEIR BUYING

600 Vote Assessment to Wage Campaign.

Six hundred members of the United Wholesale Meat Dealers' association met last night in the Stock Yards inn and voted to levy an assessment of $25 on every truck owned by members of the organization to raise a fund to fight to the end a federal office of price administration regulation denying them the right to buy beef from the packers.

Members of the association estimated that if the wholesale meat jobbers are forced to suspend their business, more than 4,000 small meat markets will close by Jan. 1.

G. A. Wezerek, president of the association, said the members deliver meat to 60 per cent of the 8,000 butcher shops in Chicago. Under the OPA rules, he said, wholesale dealers are allowed a commission of ½ cent to ¾ cent a pound on the beef they distribute for packers.

Face Exhaustion of Stocks.

Wezerek said the packing companies notified all the jobbers Wednesday that they could get no more beef because of its scarcity and because of the OPA price regulation. As a result, approximately 5,000 small butcher shops will be out of beef by tomorrow night, Wezerek added.

Monroe Weil of 8123 South Wolcott avenue, a member of the association, said he had been told by a friend in the packing industry that "you peddlers will be out of business before the first of the year."

"The retail dealers must realize that the meat peddlers are the backbone of this business," Weil said. "When the peddlers are forced out, the retailers will be out also." It was Weil who predicted that many of the small shops will be forced out of business.

See Blow at Little Fellow.

Harold Levy, a jobber at 4337 South Wells street, said the action of the OPA and the packing companies was a plan to put out of business all the little fellows—the small butcher shops and the wholesalers who serve them. He explained that large stores and chains of stores would not be affected because they send their own trucks to the packing houses. The average butcher shop owner and small independent grocer has no truck which he can send to the packers and he must depend on the deliveries of jobbers, Levy said.

Mathias Bower, 8226 South Paulina street, a member of the association for 20 years, said he had more than $5,000 invested in equipment. "I've probably lost all that," he said last night. "It looks like I'll have to find a job."

The meeting approved a proposal by Patrick Sullivan, business secretary of the association, to name a committee which will carry a protest to the Chicago office of the OPA today. The association also arranged to meet again at 10 o'clock this morning in the Drake hotel to plan further action to save their business.

O'LEARY QUITS AS PRESIDENT OF GEORGETOWN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Georgetown university announced tonight that the Very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., its president since 1935, has been succeeded by the Rev. Lawrence C. Gorman, S. J., formerly vice president and dean of studies at Loyola college, Baltimore.

The change in the presidency of the oldest Jesuit educational institution in the country came about on receipt of orders from the Very Rev. Zachus J. Maher, S. J., of New York, American representative of the general of the Society of Jesus in Rome.

Dr. O'Leary, who completed 25 years of continuous service at Georgetown this week, has been assigned to parochial duties with St. Aloysius church in Washington. He was born in its parish and was the only native of Washington to head Georgetown university in its 153 years.

Dr. Gorman was born in New York Sept. 28, 1898, and is a graduate of Fordham university and Boston college. He has devoted nearly all his career to teaching chemistry, and is widely known in scientific circles.

DRAFT PROTEST OF JOB TRADING BY 2 PRINCIPALS

The Citizens Schools committee yesterday announced it will formally protest the Lindblom-Harper High school principalship exchange in a letter to James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, and will ask Mayor Kelly to investigate the appointments. Butler Laughlin, Lindblom principal, exchanged jobs with Harry F. Yates a week ago.

Mrs. Walter F. Heineman, member of the school board who appeared at the committee's conference, said the assignment of Yates was made "from motives of personal favoritism" rather than merit. She suggested legislation that would prevent a mayor from obtaining domination of a school system and asked for "a merit system for teachers which would put them out of the reach of politicians."

Kermit Eby, executive secretary of the Chicago Teachers union, attacked the transfer of principals and said the Chicago school system is "operated by arbitrary decision."

POLES' WAR AIMS DISCLOSED HERE BY GEN. SIKORSKI

Want Nation Restored and Baltic Freed.

More than 1,000 persons packed the auditorium of the Polish Women's Alliance of America, 1309 North Ashland avenue, last night to hear Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, former prime minister of Poland and commander of 200,000 Poles who are fighting with the allied armies and navies in Europe. Another thousand persons, unable to get into the hall, heard the speech in rooms and halls outside.

Gen. Sikorski, who spoke in Polish, outlined the war aims of his government in exile. He said the Poles wanted their frontiers restored as they were before the war and they wanted a federation of all the central-eastern European countries.

Wants Access to Baltic.

This federation, he asserted, should have free access to the Baltic sea; that sea must cease to be "a German lake," and must be placed under control of the Baltic nations, Great Britain, and the United States.

"We have no Quislings in Poland," said the general. "The Germans have not been able to find a collaborator."

He read a letter from the women of Poland, which he said had reached him only two days ago via the underground.

In the letter the women described themselves as "the Army of Fighting Poland." It told how the women in Nazi occupied Poland were fighting day and night without respite so that when Gen. Sikorski returned he would find "houses and not ruins, and living man and not decomposed bodies."

Women Battle with Silence.

Silence is the great weapon with which the Polish women are fighting German terrorism, the letter said.

"We are silent when at night they [Nazis] take away our sons and daughters; when they drown a Jewish child in the sewer; when they smash a mother's skull who is bringing food to her family; when they shoot at our husbands and hang them in railroad stations, and round us up with their rifle butts and force us to watch them die," the letter said.

Thoughts of Mercy Are Dead.

The women promised in the letter that when the general returned he not would find the same wives, mothers, and sweethearts alive as when he left. "But there has hardened within us a pain so burning and an agony so terrible that there is no longer any mercy within us," the missive stated.

"We have no use for diplomacy or humanitarianism with regard to the German brutes," it said, "or postponement of revenge until after the war. Why do you not strike now?"

Gen. Sikorski was introduced by Dr. Francis X. Swietlik, dean of the law school of Marquette university and grand censor of the Polish National Alliance.

MARTIN, OUSTED BY NAVY, NOW IS PRIVATE IN ARMY

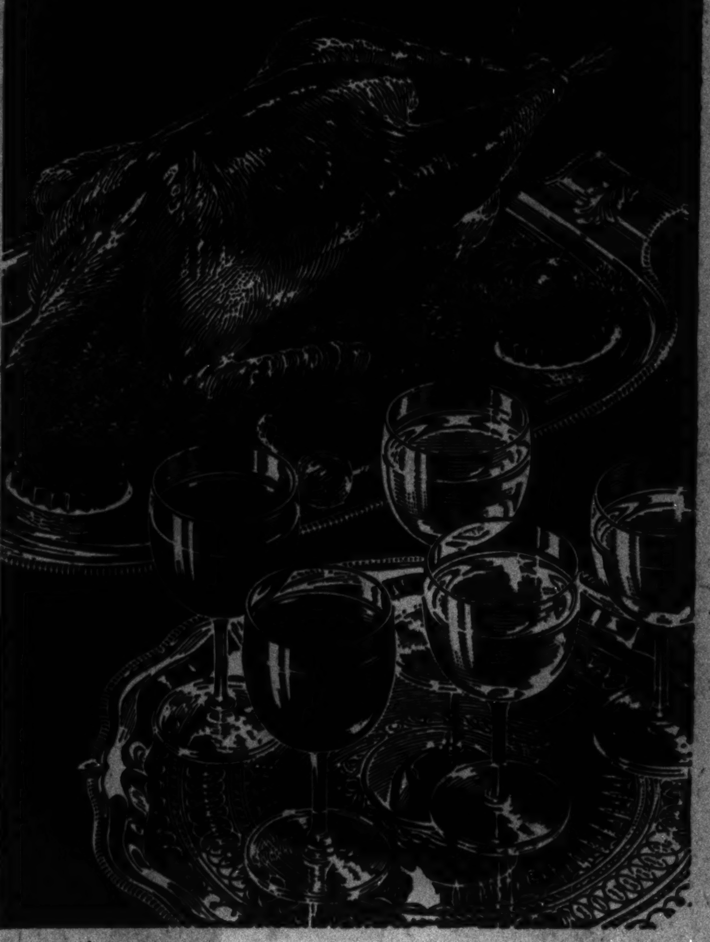
Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17 (AP).—Singer Tony Martin was inducted into the army as a drafted private today and ordered to report to near-by Fort MacArthur Dec. 26.

Martin was dismissed last month from the navy for unfitness after 11 months service.

While in the navy the singer was involved in the court-martial case of Lt. Comm. Maurice Aroff, who was dismissed after a trial at which it was disclosed he accepted a $950 automobile from Martin for facilitating Martin's enlistment as a specialist. Upon his dismissal Martin reverted to the jurisdiction of his draft board.

WINE

for friendliness this Christmas time



This year people are expressing the warm friendliness of Christmas moderately, with Wine. You'll find Sherry being served with appetizers, or with cheese and crackers in the late winter afternoons. At dinner, with the main course, people are serving California red Claret or well-chilled golden Sauterne. And with dessert, or when friends drop in of an evening, mellow full-bodied Port is a great favorite.

Excellent stocks of California wines are available today. Select among them with confidence. You will find them sound, well developed and reasonable in price. Wine Advisory Board, San Francisco.

THREE SMART HOLIDAY IDEAS

PORT AND SHERRY WITH BUFFET SUPPERS: Just set out on the buffet table a tray of small glasses and a bottle each of California Sherry and California Port. Let your guests serve themselves. It makes even the simple buffet supper a great occasion.

CHAMPAGNE: The beverage of memorable occasions. Bring Champagne to your table well chilled. A quart of California Champagne costs little, contains six to eight servings.

HOT SPICED WINE: Grand on cold evenings. To one bottle of Burgundy wine add 8 cloves, 4 tablespoons sugar, rind of 1 lemon, dash of cinnamon. Heat mixture to near boil, strain at once and serve in thick glasses or mugs. Serves 6 to 8 people.

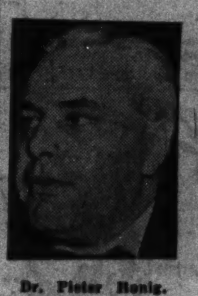
DUTCH AID URGES EXPLOITATION OF COLONIES STOP

The united nations never can expect to build a higher type of civilization until there is an end to the exploitation of people who are dependent on them, Dr. Pieter Honig, commissioner for the board of economic and financial affairs in the Netherlands Indies, Surinam and Curacao, told a meeting of the American Chemical society last night at the Medinah club.



Dr. Pieter Honig.

"There are too many fine phrases and empty slogans about the postwar period," he said. "Instead of using them we should think more about human relations and attain a deeper understanding of our fellow man, regardless of race, by accepting him as a brother. There is a distance between us but we must see that distance and open our hearts."

LEARN NEPHEW NOW A PRISONER IN PHILIPPINES

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Muller, 10743 Wood street, said yesterday they have received work from the war department that their nephew, Lt. Robert Emerson, is a Japanese prisoner of war in the Philippines.

Miss Mary Emerson, sister of the 25 year old army officer, and her brother reside with the Muller family. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Emerson, parents of the two, are deceased. Lt. Emerson was graduated from the University of Illinois and from the former Lewis institute in Chicago. He enter the army in June, 1941.

The last message from him was a cablegram to the Muller family last Christmas.

Fought the Farm Bloc on Parity Issue.

St. Ignace, Mich., Dec. 17 [Special]. —Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.], mentioned in Washington as the probable choice for the price administrator job Leon Henderson resigned today, is an aggressive man of considerable private business experience and a record of independence in congress.

Altho he supported, in general, President Roosevelt's foreign policy before Pearl Harbor, he is not a New Dealer. He opposed the President's scheme to pack the Supreme court and voted against conscription and the extension of military training beyond one year.

Now 53 years old, he has a stocky, rugged build of medium height, and a smooth shaven, usually smiling, round, full face. He dresses conservatively and takes great pleasure in being called a family man—being the father of seven sons and daughters.

Went to Congress in '32.

The family home is maintained in this upper peninsula town, where Brown was born and from which he went to congress in 1932 as the district's first Democratic congressman. He was a football star and honor student at Albion college and, in his youth, played professional baseball, being known as the Babe Ruth of the iron country league.

After a year at the University of Illinois, Brown entered his father's law office. The same year he was admitted to the Michigan bar—1914—he was elected county prosecutor, an office he held 12 years. In addition to his law practice, which for years reached far beyond the bounds of St. Ignace, Brown became president of the town's First National bank, became the owner of a ferry line from St. Ignace to Mackinac, and made himself something of a financial figure.

Appointed in 1936.

Brown was elected to two terms in the house of representatives—1932 and 1934—where he made a reputation for his work on the banking and currency committee and won him the designation of "the Carter Glass of the house," of which he was proud.

In 1936 he was appointed by Republican Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Brown's friend of many years, Sen. James Couzens. Two weeks before Brown had been elected for the six year tenure of Couzen's seat. His appointment gave him seniority rights over new members who took office in January. He was the second Democrat sent to the senate by his state since the Civil war. He was defeated in November by Judge Homer T. Ferguson.

In the senate he became a member of the finance committee and sponsored numerous financial proposals. His most recent senate activity was management of the administration measure to halt inflation. In that rôle he fought the farm bloc's efforts to get farm wage costs included in calculations of parity prices of farm products, a stand on which he was given nonpartisan acclaim for the courage involved.

READING ALL THE OPA RULES HURT HIS EYES, HENDERSON DECLARES

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 17 [Special].—Leon Henderson, who resigned today as price administrator, was asked tonight, after his arrival here for a radio interview and dinner with members of a local rationing board, to comment on widespread reports that he would be succeeded by Sen. Prentiss Brown [D., Mich.].

Henderson shrugged his shoulders and said only: "The President knows about that." Then he added: "We don't have any royal line here in America so we don't let a man create or procreate his successor."

Discussing his health and complaining of his failing eyesight, Henderson said: "Reading the fine print of OPA regulations has been a factor. It's bad enough to have to sign them without having to read them, too." He said he felt the same way President Roosevelt did on an occasion back in the NRA days when he referred Mr. Roosevelt to a summary and the President shot back: "Leon, you don't suppose I read every page of those things. It's bad enough to even lift them without reading them."

Allman Says He Is Studying Cases of 4 on Gaming Squad

Police Commissioner Allman, back in his office after a 10 day vacation in the south, said yesterday that he has "under study" the cases of Capt. Martin McCormick and Sergeants Fred L. Trauth, James Kehoe, and Thomas F. Lee. Dismissal of charges of failing to suppress gambling against the four policemen has been criticized. James B. Conlisk, secretary to Commissioner Allman, said that contrary to rumors, no resignation had been received from Capt. McCormick.

YUKON BARRACKS FIRE ROUTS HALF CLOTHED YANKS

44 Jump from Windows; 1 Gets Tossed Out.

BY WARREN BAKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WHITE HORSE, Yukon Territory, Dec. 16 [Delayed].—Forty-five men of the United States army's northwest service command were routed in underwear and pajamas into bitter north Canadian weather early today when fire gutted a commissary warehouse.

The men were sleeping on the second floor and when the fire call sounded they were ordered by their sergeants to jump out the windows. One man, panic stricken, started to run downstairs into the spreading flames, which were exploding quantities of small arms ammunition stored in the building.

Comrade Tackles Him.

A comrade nailed him with a flying tackle and tossed him out a window. He went to the hospital for treatmen of a scorched shoulder. The only other casualty was a soldier who suffered a sprained ankle.

The fire left only the foundations of the two story building standing, and destroyed quantities of potatoes, oranges, apples, celery, cabbage, and other fresh fruits and vegetables. The building could not be reached by water hoses from the river.

Citizens Give Clothes.

Most of the men were unable even to take time to grab a coat. Citizens of White Horse took them into their houses and supplied them with clothes.

Surveying the "overdone" mess of fruits and vegetables, one soldier remarked, "I suppose this means we eat bacon and beans for Christmas."

SEE JAPS FACING STARVATION AT KISKA ISLE BASE

AN ARMY BASE IN THE ANDREANOF ISLANDS, Dec. 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—Possible starvation and almost certain serious discomfort because of the lack of various essentials appear now to be facing the Japanese occupants of Kiska Island in the Aleutians.

United States army air force and navy activities are believed to have prevented supplies from reaching the island outpost in any appreciable quantities since Sept. 1.

The last ship sighted there was Oct. 9. No new planes have reached the occupied island since midsummer altho at least two attempts—one by air and one by surface ships—have been made recently to give aerial reinforcement. Both attempts failed.

Officers recognize the probability that the Japanese may be able to cling to the island in the face of shortages longer than most white troops because of their known ability to live on a little rice and a few fish.

WIFE, PARENTS AWAIT NEWS OF ARMY CASUALTY

News of the condition of Jack Brutico, 24 years old, an army private reported seriously wounded during recent fighting in the Southwest Pacific, is being awaited here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brutico, 732 South Kenneth avenue, and by his wife, Lena, at 501 South Central avenue. The senior Brutico cabled his son yesterday and the family expects to learn where he is located. The last letter received from him was dated Nov. 10, his wife said. She was notified Tuesday by the war department that he had been badly wounded in action. When she appealed to Red Cross officials here, Mrs. Brutico said yesterday, they told her they could not communicate with him unless they knew the name of his hospital.

OIL CONSUMERS, FACING NEW COLD, TO RALLY TODAY

Ald. Ross Calls Session at City Hall.

Weigel, regional OPA director, and Michael L. Mulcahy, rationing boss for metropolitan Chicago, were asked whether they, too, would resign. Both replied they had no thought of it.

Mulcahy, who had wired Dr. Joel Dean, former University of Chicago professor now with OPA and the man who evolved the complicated fuel oil rationing system, for more oil for Chicago, said he had not received an answer. Mulcahy said he based his hope for more oil on the following regulations:

"Sec. 1394.5781—The Washington office will from time to time by order fix the value of a [coupon] unit. Such order may vary the value of a unit with respect to the area in which, or time when, a coupon is used.

"Sec. 1394.5782—The Washington office may from time to time by order change the valid period of coupons on Class 1 and 2 coupon sheets" [which are for heating fuels].

Will Act Immediately.

At the end of his meeting with the distributors Gov. Green appointed himself and the three experts who sat with him a committee to coördinate all the suggestions made by Spencer and the 15 members of his organization present. He said their work would take the form of recommendations to be made "immediately—not in a week" to Washington.

Spencer said he also had sent his list of some 20 recommendations to Washington. He would not say to which department he had sent them, but indicated he sent a personal messenger and he expected some action.

[Details of the recommendation are in an adjoining column.]

All the distributors again tore into the regulati ns; all cited instances of cold, nonheated apartments, homes, plants, hospitals, and churches. Said E. W. Miles of Standard Oil of Indiana:

"The latest OPC figures show the severity of the cut in oil to consumers is not necessary. Instead of a 33 per cent cut over last year one of 15 to 20 per cent would have been enough. The ration boards say everybody has his coupons. We find at this late date that this is not so. The general condition is very serious. OPA has been advised of it for the last six weeks, but has done nothing. All it has done is pass the buck. I believe the OPA is deliberately stalling.

Bogs Down Quickly.

"I gather this rationing program has been put into effect too quickly," commented Gov. Green.

"Washington has been working on this plan for six months," Miles retorted, "but when they gave it to the public a few weeks ago it just bogged down."

Julius Loeffler, president of the Commerce Petroleum company, said the plan's complications endanger the lives of the aged, the children, the sick, and infirm.

D. G. Malone of the Petroleum Heat and Power company held up a thick sheaf of orders for fuel oil. He said they represented a half day's orders which could not be filled because the home owners had no coupons.

"Our dispatcher handed me these just before I came to this meeting," Malone said. "We couldn't make the deliveries, so now we have to go back and try again when the people get the coupons. We have to violate ODT orders to go back a second time; we are supposed to cut down mileage 25 per cent."

Three Way Waste.

"That's a serious situation," said the governor, "wasting gasoline, rubber, and man power."

"You're right!" said Malone.

Complexities of the present plan were called so complete that the oil men have come "to an impasse," said M. R. Holmgren of the Hughes Oil company. Holmgren continued:

"To fulfill our war obligations we must return to an economic way of operating our businesses. We can't do that under this plan. I hope, Gov. Green, that whatever you do to help, you will do immediately."

All the men who spoke insisted they had many orders they could not deliver for want of coupons. C. R. Jonswold of Triangle Oil company said his was only a small concern, but he had 15 customers a day to whom he couldn't make any delivery. He said the rationing plan was 'absolutely unworkable." It was "given to the people too late," he added.

Many Have No Fuel.

"You say 15 a day come in who are absolutely out of oil and can't get any?" asked the governor.

"That's the case in every one's office," Jonswold said. "The bigger concerns have more, that's all."

F. B. Caldwell, secretary of the oil men's association, said the governor's help was needed due to the "pathetic attempts to enforce fuel oil rationing." He added: "The trouble must be rectified immediately if the over-all war effort is not to be greatly retarded."

DEALERS IN FUEL OIL PRESENT 12 SPECIFIC RATIONING CRITICISMS

Chicago fuel oil distributors, meeting yesterday with Gov. Dwight H. Green, offered a statement covering what they termed the chaotic condition in fuel oil rationing. Among their criticisms and suggestions, presented by Frank E. Spencer, president of the Burning Oil Distributors' association, were the following:

1. Distributors are forced to increase by 40 per cent their average mileage per truck in making unnecessary small deliveries.
2. Thousands of consumers still do not have their rationing coupons.
3. Other thousands of consumers do not have enough coupons to retire their promissory notes for oil given to the dealers and also to qualify for additional oil now badly needed.
4. The present "floor area ceiling provision" based on the number of occupants in a house is discriminatory.
5. No fuel oil consumer's allotment should be cut more than 33⅓ per cent from his last winter's consumption.
6. Full rations should be granted to schools, hospitals, sanitoria, and such institutions.
7. The coupon system should be simplified.
8. Definite gallonage values for all coupons should be established.
9. Coupons should be valid at any time during the rationing period.
10. It is virtually impossible to fill out forms in the ration program.
11. Operating conditions have shown the "thermal periods" under the rationing program are impractical.
12. Dealers are prohibited from using the full storage facilities of their customers.

PLAN INDUCTION OF MARY QUINN AS PUBLIC GUARDIAN

Mary Berkemeier Quinn, who has practiced law in Chicago since 1924, will be inducted today as public guardian of Cook county. She received her appointment to this fee office Wednesday from Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Republican leaders will attend the ceremony in the office of Probate Court Clerk Frank Lyman. They will include Werner W. Schroeder, national committeeman; Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman, and possibly Gov. Green.

In 1938 she was a Republican nominee for Municipal court judge, and in 1939 she was nominated for the Circuit court. Her candidacies have been backed by women leaders and clubs.

LARGE NEW YORK GAS USERS ASKED TO CUT DEMANDS

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Commercial and industrial users of gas in New York were requested today by the Consolidated Edison company to curtail consumption because of a serious shortage of oil needed in gas manufacture. Notice was sent to all large wholesale customers, including bakeries, restaurants and hotels asserting the necessity of reducing gas use.

The company explained its reserves of oil were far below normal. A large part of the gas supplied by the Edison system requires oil in its making.

CITY HALL FACES COAL SHORTAGE; HAS 3 DAY SUPPLY

Survey Shows Big Reserve Stocks Dwindle.

Worries imposed on present and prospective users of coal in the Chicago area by the fuel oil rationing program grew yesterday with the weather bureau forecast that a new near zero wave was headed this way.

This news increased the concern particularly of those responsible for the fuel supplies of large institutions, who have been trying vainly to accumulate coal reserves large enough to tide them over a possible breakdown in already overburdened transportation facilities. As one instance, it was disclosed the city hall and police building have only a three day supply.

Their efforts were doubled yesterday because of the warning telegram sent Cook county officials by Fuel Coördinator Harld L. Ickes, urging that a 90 day reserve be ordered at once for Oak Forest infirmary.

Problem of Transport.

Ickes in New York said yesterday his telegram was not intended to imply an imminent general coal shortage. Both Ickes and a member of his Washington staff, however, indicated that coal production is at capacity now and the railroads are hauling all they can handle.

Thomas J. Thomas, a solid fuels deputy in Ickes' Washington office, said the nation's mines have not yet produced this year's estimated requirements of 560 million tons of bituminous coal. He described the coal situation as "tight," and warned that a big mine shutdown or a transportation tieup could seriously disrupt deliveries.

The Oak Forest warning was issued, Thomas said, after "a highly responsible Chicagoan" said recently the institution had only a few hours' supply on hand.

Ten Day Reserve Now.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, declared this situation has been remedied somewhat, but reported difficulty in trying to enlarge the infirmary's fuel stocks. The present reserve of ten days' coal is being maintained, he said.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt said that the fuel supply for the city hall and the central police building is too low for comfort but that most other city plants and institutions have at least three weeks' reserve. The city hall and police building, which use an average of 2½ cars of coal a day, had only three days' supply yesterday with immediate future deliveries uncertain.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said public schools have a three weeks' normal coal supply in reserve. Only three schools burn oil—Washburne trade, Lake View high, and Hart elementary—and they have adequate supplies in sight, McCahey said.

1,500 Tons at Sanitarium.

The Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium has a 1,500 ton stockpile, about six weeks' supply, according to Dr. Leo M. Czaja, superintendent.

Representatives of large hardware companies in the city told of difficulties in supplying the demands of oil users trying to convert to coal as the government has urged. Small coal or wood burning space heaters have all but disappeared from the market and grates are hard to get, they said.

Tournament Queen

BLACKFOOT TRIBE ASKS RIGHT TO SPEND $125,000

A delegation of seven Blackfoot Indians from Browning, Mont., met yesterday with William Zimmerman, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs for the department of the interior, to ask $125,000 of the $160,000 held for the tribe in the United States treasury.

The delegation explained that tribal members wish to spend $75,000 for additional cattle and sheep; $25,000 to build homes for members of the tribe, and $25,000 to buy certain reservation lots now owned by white people. A spokesman for the group urged that the federal law banning the sale of liquor to Indians be amended. It is now a federal offense to sell liquor to any Indian.

Richard Grant is chairman of the delegation. Other members are: Leo Kennerly, William Buffalo Hide, Adam Whiteman, Theodore Last Star, Joe Iron Pipe, and George Pamburn. The delegates will spend the last two days of their Chicago visit completing their Christmas shopping.

TRIBUNE CHANGES BIG GARAGE FROM OIL HEAT TO COAL

Releases 40,000 Gallons of Fuel to Other User.

Conversion of the oil heating plant in THE TRIBUNE'S new 100-car garage to coal, in accordance with the government's request, was completed yesterday, it was announced by Charles B. James, purchasing agent. The substitution will release 40,000 gallons of fuel oil for other use, he said.

James told of the difficulties of making the change in the big building, completed less than three years ago. The oil burners were replaced with a stoker that can feed 500 pounds of coal an hour.

Speed Averts Damage by Cold.

"We had to shut down completely for 20 hours," he said. "We waited vainly for above freezing temperatures, but our oil reserve got down to three days' supply, so we had to go ahead. We had to work fast to avoid freezing of sprinkler systems and other equipment.

"Tribune plumbers watched temperatures closely, ready to drain pipes if freezing threatened. Salamanders and charcoal were kept ready if needed. Offices and washrooms were heated temporarily with electricity." Mechanics wore heavy clothing, and worked straight thru in a race with falling temperatures in the big building."

Coal Storage Space a Problem.

One of the problems was to supplant the facilities for handling oil tank cars with coal storage space and unloading accommodations near the boilers, James said.

Anticipating the conversion, THE TRIBUNE had accumulated last summer enough coal to supply the stoker for the remainder of this winter, James revealed.

AIR PATROLMAN'S CAR STOLEN.

MARINE WHO DOWNED FIRST JAP IN HAWAII RAID VISITS PARENTS

Corp. Lawrence A. Newman, 21 year old marine credited with bringing down the first Japanese plane during the attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, is in Chicago on furlough, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newman, 5548 South Laflin street.

Newman drove a truck about Hickam field during the attack picking up wounded men until he saw a Jap plane only 100 feet above him. Finding an unmanned machine gun, he took it over. "I couldn't miss," he said. "He came down in a tennis court, with both wings torn off."

Newman was given one of the plane's propeller blades, and it is now on display at the Treasury center, 72 West Adams street. He enlisted in 1939.

Sergt. Irving Tompkins of the marines, who was wounded in action on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons, is visiting his wife, Gwendolyn, at 6078 North Albany avenue. He is 23 years old and has served in the marines for five years.

N. Y. NEWSPAPER STRIKE ISSUE UP TO ARBITRATION

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Arbitration of the controversy resulting in a deliverymen's strike, which kept most of New York's newspapers out of general circulation for three days, began today after the striking union complied with a war labor board order and went back to work.

Arthur S. Meyer, chairman of the state mediation board, who, with Fred C. Croxton, United States conciliation commissioner, was appointed by the WLB to adjudicate the dispute within 10 days if possible, said no statement would be issued until hearings were completed.

The strike, over wage and job guarantee demands, was ended by the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' union, unaffiliated, at 1 a. m. today when most of its 3,000 members voted to return to their jobs in compliance with the WLB order. The case was certified to the WLB yesterday.

ROBS WOMAN IN MOVIE.

Harvey Nelson, 19 years old, 5331 Lake Park avenue, was arrested by Hyde Park police last night after he confessed stealing a purse belonging to Mrs. Sol Barth, 1369 Hyde Park boulevard, in a motion picture theater at 1443 Hyde Park boulevard.

DU PAGE COUNTY STILL GUARDING 17 TONS OF SUGAR

Du Page county officials continued to have on their hands yesterday the problem of the 17 tons of refined sugar now stored in the basement of the county courthouse at Wheaton. Judge Win G. Knoch refused to issue a judgment giving the sugar to Anthony Catalano of 1840 Huron street.

The sugar was found last November, hidden under bales of hay in a barn near Wheaton. Catalano claimed the sugar but officials refused to give it up until satisfied as to proof of ownership and its intended use. In court yesterday Attorney Charles Hadley said Catalano and two companions who helped him store the sugar are serving in the army.

Hadley explained Catalano purchased the sugar in Chicago and brought it to Du Page county to hide it from possible robbers. Judge Knoch, however, refused to act on Catalano's petition until Catalano and his companions appear in court. Meanwhile the sugar is under the guard of the sheriff.

STATION OWNERS ASSURED PART IN TIRE INSPECTION

Earl S. Dunne, tire rationing officer for the Chicago area, said yesterday his office will begin immediately to process applications from filling station operators in the city for tire inspection stations. B. M. Provis, president of the Gasoline Retailers association, had complained to Dunne on alleged favoritism shown tire and automobile dealers in selection of inspection stations.

Provis said there are 1,500 applications for the appointments from filling stations in Chicago, and added that in the suburbs, where the appointments are recommended by the rationing boards, most of the filling stations are being made inspection centers.

Dunne said the suburban boards do the appointing while his office confirms the appointments. He said most appointments have been confirmed in the suburbs, but the list of stations is not ready for publication. Under office of price administration requirements, the first inspection must be completed by Jan. 31.

U. S. TO PUBLISH PHOTO MAGAZINE AS PROPAGANDA

'Victory' to Be Issued in Foreign Countries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—The government will publish a picture magazine called "Victory," for free distribution in foreign countries, the office of war information announced today.

The propaganda magazine, to be printed every two months, will be issued in several languages, including English, but will not be distributed in this country. Approximately 550,000 copies of each edition will be printed. It is intended for distribution to residents in North Africa and other points occupied by American troops, but will not be generally distributed to the troops, OWI officials said.

Will Solicit Advertising.

Advertising will be carried in the publication, and the revenue will go to defray the cost of publication, officials said.

"The magazine will be mainly pictorial and is intended to counter enemy propaganda by showing the character of America, its war aims, and the magnitude of the war," OWI said.

Printing of the publication will be handled by the Crowell-Collier Publishing company on a nonprofit basis, it was announced. Crowell-Collier will also solicit advertising and will be reimbursed for printing and solicitation costs by the government. The OWI will select the material to be used and determine the editorial policy.

The OWI said that use of advertising will "provide an avenue by means of which the American business community may tell the world how American industry is geared for war."

Experimental Issue Out.

The first issue for general distribution will be out within a few weeks, it was announced. Several thousand copies of an "experimental" issue have already been run and distributed abroad. This issue, which carries no advertising, contains 80 pages, including 10 pages of color pictures.

The pictures show United States workers making war weapons, service men in training and in combat, and typical scenes of American citizens in their homes. The issue also carries a full page color picture of President Roosevelt, accompanied by a commendatory biography and character sketch of the President.

De Paul Queen

KATHLEEN FOLEY.

Kathleen Foley, 1048 Rosemont avenue, was elected De Paul "Homecoming Queen" this week by students of De Paul university. She will reign over De Paul's homecoming dance tonight in the De Paul auditorium at 2219 North Sheffield avenue. A student in the secretarial school on De Paul's downtown campus, "Kay" is a graduate of Immaculata High school. She drew a large majority of the 1,000 votes cast by members of the student body.

N. Y. FLUNKS ITS TRIAL BLACK-OUT UNDER NEW PLAN

New York, Dec. 17 [Special].—An unexpected practice black-out tonight led most observers to give thanks that it was only a drill and not an actual raid that was taking place under the new regulations. There were countless indications that city authorities and civilian defense officials had failed to instruct the public.

Confusion and befuddlement were obvious in Times square in the heart of the city where lights blazed after the last of two warnings had sounded. Cars moved thru the streets and citizens paraded in the open.

In some circles the opinion was expressed that the situation might be traced to the recent strike of newspaper delivery men which deprived millions here of their newspapers and left them ignorant of developments.

Air Raid Alert Sounded in Los Angeles Region

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 17 (AP).—The western defense command announced today that a yellow alert was called in the Los Angeles area at 5:25 a. m. today and the all clear was given at 6:42 a. m. The army said an "unidentified target later was identified as friendly."

FIVE ARRESTED IN TWO BOOKIE RAIDS. Five men were seized yesterday by policemen who raided alleged handbooks on the sixth floor at 225 North Michigan avenue and on the second floor at 1957 West 51st street.

HOOVER BLAMES BUROCRATS FOR RATION FAILURE

Urges a Voluntary Basis, as in World War.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

With the quiet directness of an engineer, former President Herbert Hoover yesterday took the present food control machinery apart—verbally—and showed why it doesn't work. He spoke on the basis of his vast experience as food administrator in World War I.

Local famines, "black markets" springing up all over the country, and danger to the whole scheme of bringing order out of chaos in other nations after the war were pictured as results of the present system. Mr. Hoover gave his ideas to reporters in a press conference at the Drake hotel.

Only in the last two months has the administration been moving in the direction indicated by World War I. experience, he said.

Production Is Handicapped.

"After all, the problem in war—especially in total war—is production," Hoover declared. "The best remedy for price and other troubles is to have enough of the commodities wanted.

"I don't think the secretary of agriculture can administer the food problem without the functions exercised by Leon Henderson, head of the office of price administration. I think in terms of functions rather than of individuals.

"It is diminishing production causing some local famines. My first criticism is that there still is division of authority. My second is of the method of price fixing.

System in World War I.

"In the last war, all nations had tried price ceilings from the retail end, then called legal maximums. We realized the debacle which resulted and didn't adopt them. We adopted a system of fixing prices as close to the source as possible, with a percentage profit limit for packers and a percentage limit for retailers.

"The constant shift in demand imposes insurmountable obstacles on the present price ceiling system, in which prices are fixed on hundreds of articles—compared with our 20 odd basic articles—and they have to get out directives for butchers with 52,000 words.

"One result is the growth of black markets all over the United States.

"Then, too, we avoided an enormous amount of detail. We had no ration cards. I think we reduced consumer consumption more in the last war by voluntary methods than has been done by rationing in this war. The need for rationing depends upon the acuteness of the shortage. I don't know whether the voluntary system would work, but it certainly should be tried on some articles."

The New Dealers have taken the wrong tack on the whole food production front, Mr. Hoover warned.

"Every country is short on meats and fats," Hoover said. "On Jan. 1, 1942, our resources of cattle, hogs, and sheep were little larger than on Jan. 1, 1919.

"The primary need is to stimulate production of live stock with all our might.

Farms Must Get Labor.

"That gets back to labor supply. Agriculture has got to be advanced to the very first rank of war industries, because it is as much a munitions industry as any other.

"The first thing to do is to give the farmer labor; and he must have more machinery. Production of farm machinery is permitted to increase 33 per cent, but since it had been cut down to 15 per cent of normal, the increase doesn't mean much.

"Remember, all of this bears on the question of feeding the world after the war. Unless we have great reserves of food we can't do it.

"When the lid came off after the last war we had 3 or 4 million tons of fats. That was because we stimulated production on the one hand and reduced consumption voluntarily on the other.

"Now, the conflict on prices between Henderson and Secretary Wickard squeezes the farmer. Herds could be built up pretty rapidly, if mistakes were corrected. A higher price—of great importance to the farmer—doesn't necessarily mean a big increase to consumers. Say a cent a pound increase is given to the farmer and adequate regulation of the trades sees to it that the consumer pays only a cent more—that would be a real help."

Condemns Fuel Oil Rationing.

Mr. Hoover condemned the rationing of fuel oil in the Chicago area. Because of oil pipelines and refineries here, there is no question of supply or transportation involved, he said.

Aside from his wish to see the Republican party become strong to preserve the two party system, the former President said, he has little interest in politics. He is engaged in putting across "a few ideas" to the country.

"The real problems we have are problems of organizing the war," Mr. Hoover declared. "We have to win it as speedily as possible and with as little suffering as possible to the civilian population."

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1942.

Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political, and religious rights of free men.—Junius.

COURAGE IS CONTAGIOUS.

Courage is contagious. One man stood up to the blunderers who inflicted needless oil rationing on the middle west and within 24 hours the whole tissue of deceit by which they had attempted to justify their actions began to dissolve. For this the people, not alone of Illinois but of the whole middle west, must thank Gov. Green.

When Frank Phillips, chairman of the petroleum industry committee in the midwestern states, came out with the statement that all the tank cars available cannot take enough furnace oil out of Chicago to create a shortage here, he said what has been clear to observers for many weeks. Yet no responsible oil industry executive had been willing to admit the obvious in public until Mr. Phillips spoke up.

The men in the oil business aren't panty-waists. They merely recognized that unless they had an informed public, under courageous leadership, to back them, it would be fatal to dispute the fraud of the burocrats. They kept still because they feared, with good reason, that the vast power concentrated in Washington would be used to wreck them if they told the truth. Leon Henderson can force them to sell at a loss. Harold Ickes can hamstring any or all departments of their business; and Henderson and Ickes are among the most vindictive men the nation has ever seen vested with official power. Before they could be defied Gov. Green had to take the lead in speaking for the people.

As late as Monday the burocrats still thought they might brazen their way out. Mr. Mulcahy, the Chicago rationer, attempted to pooh-pooh the complaints. Dr. Bundesen sought to assure people who knew better from experience that 65 degrees was a comfortable temperature, and besides, would put roses in their cheeks. The New Deal claque in the press started another of its shame campaigns, trying to convince people that it was unpatriotic to protest against needless suffering.

Then Gov. Green spoke up. He conducted his own health inquiry, which produced evidence that the temperatures the rationers wanted to inflict on the public are definitely harmful to health. He invited governors of other middle western states to join in protesting against the rationing mess. And he demanded that rationing be suspended, as a first step toward sanity.

The only reasons why oil rationing was applied to the middle west were political ones. It was done to appease the loony little mayor of New York and those like him who want to see others suffer the same discomfort that they suffer. It was done to punish the west for leading the Republican fight. It was done so that the rationers could show the patronizing expatriates that they are making the American people suffer for the benefit of the expatriates and their overseas friends. It was done for the purpose of tangling the country in totalitarian red tape; and it was done from just plain sadism.

Chicago doesn't care to shiver to please either Fiorello, Paving Block Ed Flynn, un-American Americans, socialistic regimenters or sadists. If it will follow the courageous lead Gov. Green has given it, it won't have to. There is no excuse for rationing as Mr. Phillips demonstrated. It should not be suspended. It should be abolished.

THE AXIS KULTURBUND.

The axis had an anniversary celebration to commemorate the first year of war with the United States. Hitler sent messages to Hirohito and Mussolini. Foreign Ministers Ribbentrop, Ciano, and Tani made speeches and Tani in Tokio gave a dinner party to Ott, the German ambassador, and Indelli, the Italian. They are an odd lot, these collaborators. The Nazis have to overlook the fact that the Japs aren't white and the Japs the fact that the Nazis are. Both have just to overlook the Fascists.

Tani in his dinner speech said that Japan had made a concession to Italy and Germany and, in the interest of harmony, had revised its divine mission to establish the Japanese order all over the world. Hitler and Mussolini can have a cut. The Great Aryan must be fit to be tied when the orientals patronize him. He also once had a divine mission. That was to exterminate Japan after he had knocked Russia into collaboration with him. All he has done against the Japs so far is to give them a pact of friendship and cooperation. He has been too busy and too far away to take the next step.

Geography interferes with both the Japanese and Nazi codes of honor and military technique. Neither can conveniently and effectively attack the other without notice. Eventually this will cause a severe strain, both being required by circumstances to be false to their true selves and remain on the square from sheer inability to be otherwise. We learn from Hitler that hell hath no fury like that of a double crosser baffled.

The collaborators agree that they can't lose because, as Hitler said to Mussolini in his first anniversary message, victory has always gone to nations "which, fighting for a just ideal against an obsolete world order, have dared their all."

The axis kulturbund is the world's most curious congeries of animals who have not yet come down out of the tree.

POINT OF ORDER.

A Philadelphia paper is congratulating itself on having sponsored the proposal that big league baseball be divided into eastern and western divisions to eliminate unnecessary travel. The plan is being given serious consideration by the office of defense transportation, while Ford Frick, president of the National league, expresses himself ready to confer.

We want to say that the idea is rather attractive. It would provide the fans a little variety in scheduling even tho it is probable that the result would be the same as usual, with the Yankees and Cardinals meeting in the world series.

The idea advanced in Philadelphia last Sunday is not unfamiliar to readers of THE TRIBUNE. One of our valued contributors to the Voice of the People, Mr. E. Claude Spry, made the same proposal in our neighboring column last Oct. 19. "Because of the transportation difficulties," said Mr. Spry, "why not have the major league teams in the west form one division and the major league teams in the east form one division to vie next season for the world's championship in baseball?"

Obviously, Vox Pop gets the credit for an ingenious plan to extricate the White Sox from the domination of the Yankees and put them up against the more humane competition offered by the Cubs.

LET CONGRESS PLEDGE LIBERATION.

Col. Conrad L. Lanza, writing in the Field Artillery Journal for December, quotes reports from India to the effect that the Japanese have raised "an undetermined number of native troops" in Java. "According to the British, these are being equipped with captured British ordnance stores, estimated as sufficient for 250,000 men. Other native troops are reported as being raised and equipped in Thailand and possibly [but not certainly] in Indo-China. . . . Manchukuo troops have been reported as present in the Philippine Islands."

The natives of the Dutch and British colonies may not have been overjoyed by the Japanese conquests, but the reports assembled by Col. Lanza indicate that the Japanese have not hesitated to arm the natives and it is improbable that this step would have been taken if the subject peoples had been disaffected and resentful. The evidence suggests that the Malayans, the Javanese, and the rest prefer Japanese to European rule if they must choose between them, but don't like either and want to be free.

The devotion of our administration to the British and Dutch royalties is so intense that Washington has found it impossible to give specific promises of liberation to the peoples now under Japanese rule. The Atlantic charter seems to hold forth national self-determination as the goal of allied policy and Mr. Roosevelt has said that the charter applies to all peoples and not merely to those bordering the Atlantic. On the other hand, Mr. Churchill has said that he isn't going to win the war to lose the empire, and Queen Wilhelmina has been talking not about setting the Javanese free but about reorganizing their government within the Dutch scheme.

From present indications, it appears that if the Japanese are driven out of the former British and Dutch possessions, it will be by force of American arms. That means that these territories will be under our protection and, in some sense, ours to dispose of when the job is finished. It is, therefore, of great importance that the policy of the American people be stated in a fashion that the natives will understand, for it will greatly simplify our military problem if they are on our side and give us every assistance they can.

As the administration is too devoted to the European imperial systems to take a bold stand in the matter, congress should do so. It is incumbent upon the new congress to declare by unequivocal resolution that it is our desire that the native peoples be free. The statement will carry great weight because of our record in the Philippines. A promise of liberation may be worth more to us in shortening the war than a half dozen aircraft carriers. It may make the Japanese regret that they put arms in the hands of the natives.

MERRY CHRISTMAS, BOYS.

Christmas came a little early this year at the County building. The Santa Claus boys on the county board made the owners of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club building a present of nearly half a million dollars, on the sole condition that the delinquent taxes and penalties on the property be paid off at the rate of about 18 cents on the dollar.

The tax bill, with penalties, was $559,000. The Santa Claus boys agreed to accept a bid of $100,000 in a sale ordered thru forfeiture foreclosure proceedings. The county's share of the money received would pay the rent for a couple of months only on the space it rents for offices outside the County building. A previous decision to take title to the property and use it for county offices was, for unexplained reasons, rescinded.

The advantages of this sort of business will not be lost on Chicago homeowners, the tax payments of some thousands of whom will be necessary to make up the revenue the commissioners compromised away. All you have to do is let your taxes run for 10 or 15 years. By that time the penalties will be something more than the original principal of the bills, so when you arrange to pay off at 18 per cent you are really paying almost 40 per cent of what it would have cost you had you been honest and dumb enough to pay on time. Of course, you have to know the right parties. But it's lovely work if you can get it.

The eight commissioners who voted for the deal collected $100,000 in taxes and encouraged fresh delinquency of several millions. Commissioners Frank Bobrytzke, Maurice Kavanagh, and John E. Traeger Jr. refused to vote for the deal. They are to be honored for their refusal.

The odor of this transaction should be enough to stop any more of these so-called voluntary forfeiture foreclosures. Some months ago State's Attorney Courtney, recognizing the potential scandals involved in them, refused to prosecute any more of the actions for the county. Later, he relented in part by agreeing to act only on cases approved by the county board. The danger inherent in that procedure was pointed out at the time in these columns. Mr. Courtney will be well advised to return to his former stand in the matter.

Forfeiture foreclosures should be stopped until provision is made to wipe out equity owners' present unfair advantage in the sales. This can be done thru intervention of the county as a bidder. There is little to the danger mentioned by Commissioner Daniel Ryan that the county will be stuck with white elephants. It can always dispose of property at some price. The price will usually be higher than has been obtained under the system of agreed bids, because the owners of the properties will no longer have the chance to get away with something.

BUT IN WASHINGTON IT'S WARM.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

The lamp is low, the thermometer is low in houses heated with oil, and folks who know that efficient work isn't done at 65 degrees have to shut off part of the house and scheme other ways to manage. And do it all in the name of helping the war effort.

But for this be thankful: The patriots at Washington who decree the low temperatures for others aren't suffering from chill. In the anteroom of Oil Administrator Ickes' office it's 77 degrees, the Baltimore Sun tells us. In the office of Leon Henderson's secretary it's 76. All over Washington it runs from 74 to 78.

Training camps? That's something else; Valley Forge was a training camp. The homes of those who produce? They ought to be tired and go to bed early. Washington offices? You can't expect them to keep warm on the other people's patriotic fervor.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

IN DEFENSE OF TEA.

In this national crisis, when the forces of Gen. Coffee are in full retreat with empty percolators, an editorial writer of a newspaper that need not be named deliberately insults Gen. Tea, a faithful ally whose reënforcements are needed in the emergency. He intimates that if the services of Gen. Tea were of any value, they would have been rationed, and suggests that a nation under the leadership of the renowned Coffee has no taste for the wish-washy aid of the alien Tea, who is not above suspicion of a political leaning toward British aristocracy and oriental dictatorships. All of which this column rejects as insidious defeatist propaganda.

* * *

We have been experimenting with tea of late, and we find that the stuff works. As a between-meals refresher, a mild stimulant for a tired mind, and a soother of rasping nerves, it lives up to its reputation. We had always suspected that 250 million Chinamen could not be completely wrong, and now we are sure of it. For the last week this column, or our share of it, has been written, when it did not want to be written at all, on tea.

* * *

American humorists of the "Me heap big he-man Injun" school have fostered a tradition that tea is a sissy drink, largely because of its association with feminine afternoon gabble. But the Russians go for it in a large way, and the British working classes never complained about a 10 hour day as long as they could knock off for a dish of oolong at 4 o'clock. A glass of Russian tea, we might add, would almost kill a he-man American jester, for it comes boiling hot.

* * *

Coffee was invented by fat Turks who needed a strong dose of caffeine to keep awake in the dullness of their harems. Tea was discovered by a race of philosophers. Britannia never dreamed of ruling the waves until she began to import the Chinese beverage.

QUEEN OF THE ROLLTOPS.

When brave George Custer fought the foe
At his last gallant stand,
Auld desk, ye were a bonny piece
Fresh frae yer maker's hand.
Tho three score years an' sax hae slipped
Alang time's slithery lane,
Queen o' the Rolltops, still ye sit
A-haudin' weel yer ain.
Frae whiskered Grant tae four-term Frank,
A dozen statesmen rare
Hae piloted the ship o' state
An' warmed the White Hoose chair.

At lang last noo the time draws near—
It fairly breaks m' heart;
But smug modernity decrees
That ye an' I maun part.
When oor brave lads come marchin' hame,
At some nae distant date,
Ye maun, auld desk, just do yer part
Oor joy tae celebrate.
A victory bonfire we'll build
An', when it's guid an' hot,
I'll throw ye in the fiery flames—
(On second thought—I'll not.)

Back to the Mustache Cup Era.

I see that the WPB has banned the manufacture of razor blades and razors for civilians. In the future, only soldiers will be clean shaven.

What will that mean to us civilians? It will mean that we shall go back to the days when men were beavers and proud of it, and ashamed if they were not. We shall have again beards of the grand flowing and rippling variety that swayed gently in the soft breezes of summer and froze stiff in the cold winds of winter, with a long icicle on each side, like walrus tusks.

Then we had the mustache mug, a large cup with a shelf inside, in which there was a hole. The coffee drinker grabbed the mug firmly by its large handle with three of his fingers, placed his mustache above the shelf, and drank the coffee thru the hole. The mug held a good pint of coffee.

When about three-fourths of the coffee had been drunk, the drinker would wave the cup around in a horizontal circle to get the last bit of sugar and coffee, and then lift it rapidly to his lips and imbibe its goodness before the coffee and sugar separated once more. This required delicacy, tact, and speed, so that the coffee would not be spilled nor the mustache ruined.

Ah, yes, a mustache mug was an indispensable part of every American home for everyday use, and Sunday, with its best china, was dreaded by all bewhiskered males.

I wonder where the expression "soup strainer," as applied to whiskers, originated? I never have heard of any one straining his soup thru his whiskers. We had a soup spoon made especially for whiskered gentlemen, with a half cover over it and a hole in the middle, thru which the soup was sipped.

Why all this talk about coffee? Just to remind you, my friends. Roy Engel.

DESK CALENDAR, 1942.

Before I clear my desk and toss away
My last year's calendar, quite useless now,
I leaf its pages, contemplating how
These memoranda of a vanished day
In February or the month of May
Important then, inconsequential long,
Were half forgotten till a seething throng
Of memories turned thought again their way.

In quick review a year of total war
Is reënacted, from Manila's fall
In January, now a date afar,
To fighting in Tunisia, Algiers,
The end of the beginning, and the call

BLOODLESS FINGERS—RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

I CAN recall vividly the afternoon when a stalwart young farmer came to my office complaining of "something wrong" with his hands. Fortunately, I caught him at a time when his extremities were blanched completely. There did not seem to be a vestige of blood remaining in his fingers. Later, in discussing his troubles, he stated that now and then the parts were as red as beefsteak.

I explained that the condition was known as "Raynaud's disease" and that the machinery [vasomotor system] which controled the capillaries and finer blood vessels was "out of order." The tiny arteries supplying the digits contracted so completely that not a drop of vital fluid could get thru. An hour or two later, perhaps, they would dilate widely—whereupon the cuticle resumed its normal shade or exhibited deep congestion.

The ailment appears more frequently in women than in men. Damp, cold weather favors its onset. In some respects there is little difference between this disorder and chilblains. Sometimes more distant areas are involved—the tip of the nose, the ears, and the toes. Pain and swelling may ensue.

As a rule, placing the hands alternately in hot and cold water will hasten recovery. The first thing to do is to look to the general health. Nervousness may be allayed and anything that stimulates the sympathetic [autonomic] system may be avoided. Even the omission, temporarily, of tea and coffee may be indicated. Protection against inclement weather must be insisted upon. Two or three pairs of mittens may be required.

Recently some authorities have considered the condition a vitamin deficiency. Heavy doses of B have been employed with excellent results. In addition, histamine has been suggested because of its power to increase the rate of the blood flow. This drug appears to be able to expand small channels and their tributaries while it constricts larger vessels. If there are spasms in the finer branches it will relax them.

One plan advocates driving the drug into the tissues by means of the galvanic current [iontophoresis]. The compound is prepared in ointment form [1 per cent]. This is massaged vigorously into the skin. A hot wet towel is then wrapped around the wrist and a metal plate placed over it. The remaining electrode is attached to the upper forearm in like fashion. The current is turned on and the treatment continued for five minutes. The poles are then reversed in an effort to oblige the preparation to resume its journey outward, altho some may remain within the cells.

Within 20 minutes the episode is concluded. There is no sensation other than that of tingling because of the electrical flow. After it is over, the sufferer may allow the hands to hang downward. Should headache come on, it is a signal to stop. Usually, the physician tests the patient for sensitivity before starting the treatment.

In some cases, symptoms subside with improvement in prospect. One advantage is that histamine is relatively inexpensive. Its effects come on quickly, and last for several hours.

BLOOD DONORS.

A. K. writes: A says that by donating blood you lower your resistance. B says that it purifies the blood. C says both are incorrect. Who is right?

REPLY.

C. One who is in excellent health can spare a pint of blood once a month. Regeneration occurs rapidly. The procedure has nothing to do with purifying the vital fluid.

WOOL REACTION.

M. J. writes: I am 21 years old and am allergic to wool. Will I always be this way?

REPLY.

You will probably outgrow it by establishing your own immunity. For the time being, however, you must shun this material.

DON'T OMIT.

H. C. writes: Should tomatoes be avoided by one with neuritis?

REPLY.

No. While vitamin B is needed particularly, C—supplied by tomatoes—is essential to well being.

CHAIRMAN SPANGLER'S OPPORTUNITY.

Fort Thomas, Ky., Dec. 14.—The decision of the new chairman of the Republican national committee to labor in the fertile fields of the south is most wise. But he is doomed to disappointment if the Republican members of both houses of congress do not show more spunk and gumption than some members of the national committee displayed at St. Louis.

For many years the south leaned more toward the British empire than to the northern portion of the United States because it was more economically dependent on the former. The chief crop was cotton, the bulk of which was sold and shipped directly to the British Isles. But changing conditions have brought to the folks below the Mason and Dixon line the realization that their best interests are more akin to those of the middle west than to the Atlantic seaboard and Europe. Thus the same spirit of intense nationalism that predominates the region west of the Alleghenies and north of the line is now sweeping Dixie.

There is but one obstacle that will prevent this spirit causing party lines to be crossed—Willkieism. The southern Democrat, as a whole, abhors the New Deal and realizes his old party has been sold down the river. But before changing political affiliations he must be assured that New Dealism does not dominate the Republican party also. To many of these southern followers of Jefferson and Jackson, Wendell Willkie and his internationalistic policies represent a New Deal invasion of the Republican ranks, and they may be right.

It is for the Republican members of the next congress to demonstrate forcefully that the party stands unalterably for the preservation of American independence and free enterprise, thus giving the lie to certain "inspired" commentators on the Atlantic seaboard who are loudly proclaiming that the action of the Republican national committee at St. Louis meant the party had abandoned its traditional nationalism and was prepared to accept the New Deal postwar foreign policy. If this is done, then Chairman Spangler will find a warm reception awaiting him when he ventures south to the land of cotton. Otherwise he may just as well save his train fare.

LEWIS R. KIMBERLY.

LOCO BUROCRATS.

Chicago, Dec. 14—I am quoting this from the Missoula, Mont., paper: "D. E. Williamson, a Stevensville rancher, came to town to buy a pump with which to water his cattle, to find that not only had the water on his ranch been frozen but also the necessary pump. He applied to the rationing board, but was referred to another man who told him to apply to Washington. No one is going to buy a pump unless he needs it, but in the meantime what is the man going to do about his cattle?"

They can die of thirst before he hears from Washington, even tho the country wants meat. To me it just doesn't make sense, like a lot of other things too numerous to mention. There are too many priorities and not enough action.

VERA OSBORNE.

A NEW DEALER, AND HOW HE HATES IT!

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 14.—I am a 100 per cent New Deal Democrat, always have been since Roosevelt, and probably always will be. One thing that has got me to the boiling point is the useless oil rationing program in the middle west. I cannot understand the necessity for this move. There is no trouble with transportation, as a pipe line runs into Illinois. Illinois produces some oil itself. I have not agreed with THE TRIBUNE on many things, but I certainly wish it luck in fighting the oil rationing.

Perhaps we are now having a few too many bureaus in control of our government. I do not believe the President has been adequately informed on the need for oil rationing. Some of the men in these bureaus are absolutely incompetent. Our government should investigate and put better informed men at the heads of these departments. Oil rationing in the middle west is not necessary.

JOHN BALDWIN JR.

UNDOING THE VOTERS' WILL.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—What chance have we for government by the people when the President repudiates the voters' defeats of New Deal office holders or candidates?

There is a long list of New Dealers whom the people themselves have purged in elections, but in many cases these defeated politicians are immediately promoted to most important Presidential appointments, and at higher salaries than they formerly received. Space would not permit naming them all, but Frank Murphy, McNutt, Lehman, Josh Lee, and Brown are examples.

MRS. DALE.

BUROCRATS DON'T SUFFER.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—In today's issue you report gas ration board 40-23, 4235 West 26th street, listing 43 individuals granted "C" ration books. Of these, eight are designated as "government officials." Let's see, that's close to 20 per cent of the "C" cards, isn't it? I thought so. Every one must make the sacrifices except the tax-eaters.

H. E. P.

ALL-AMERICAN.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I sincerely hope that the 78th congress, due to assemble on Jan. 4, will go down in history as the All-American congress.

MICHAEL J. CARROLL.

WHY HOMEWORK IS EXCESSIVE.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—After approximately 20 years of teaching in Chicago secondary schools, I feel qualified to say that "M. D.," who objected to excessive homework assignments, was merely airing a fact well known to many teachers. If a teacher can cover the required course of study assigning homework "about twice a week" he must have a good technique. This is not impossible, as "A Not Young Teacher" implies. It is possible. I can remember from university days a professor of literature who almost never gave assignments. He managed to teach the students without it and do a good job of it, too. Very few teachers have the force of personality to do this.

Another reason for "excessive homework" is that many teachers have no hobby besides teaching and consequently throw all their energy into their work. As a result, they may give unreasonable assignments. Judging from my personal experience and the homework my 15 year old son struggles with, there are teachers who give unreasonable assignments. But the thing to do is to remove the cause of the homework and the homework will take care of itself.

A LANGUAGE TEACHER.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

MUST KNOW ENGLISH.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—A friend of mine who is 70 years of age would like to become a citizen. She has been in the United States 50 years but is not able to speak English. Her deceased husband had his first papers. Would they help in any way? Would she be able to become a citizen without knowing the English language? W. L.

Unless the deceased husband completed his citizenship his wife would not be exempt from filing her first papers. She states he took out a declaration of intention; therefore it would seem the prospective applicant must file first papers and wait two years, then file for final papers.

There is no provision of law exempting persons from having a sufficient knowledge of the English language to answer questions about the Constitution and government of the United States when they are examined for final citizenship.

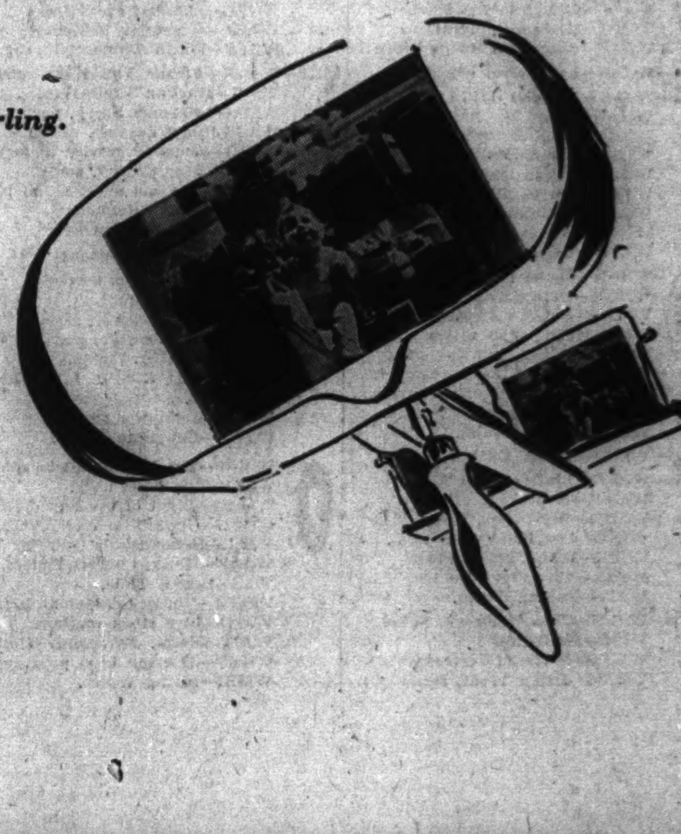
Look forward angel to the Merry Christmas your War Bond will bring when peace is won

The War Bond that Mother and Dad give you now, darling—does it seem nothing more than a scrap of paper crackling in the toe of your Christmas stocking? Look into the future, angel—maybe it's your wedding dress and the organ music playing. Maybe it's the first payment on the helicopter your husband yearns for—or a movie-camera to photograph your young son's laughter. Maybe it's the first leg of a trip around the world and you on a high deck with the salt spray blowing. Your Christmas War Bond will be one of these, darling. But right now it's more. It's rubber and nylon, magnesium and guns—it's tough stuff for the men who fight for you and the wonderful world you're going to inherit. So guard it safely, angel, and Mother and Dad will add to it every day we can—for you, for them, for America.



Give Bonds for a war time Christmas—and the hope of Christmases to come

OPEN DRAFT LIST OF MEN BORN IN SEPT. OR OCT., '24

Last of 18 Year Olds to Register by Dec. 31.

Hopes for childless married men under 37 years old to escape early draft thru induction of 18 year olds soon after the new year faded considerably last night at the close of the first week's registration for youths who have become 18 since last July 1.

Less than 4,600 registrants were obtained in Cook county in the week, a sampling of a representative number of the 180 boards showed, according to Louis A. Boening, Cook county assistant to Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service.

State draft officials had estimated 16,000 youths would be registered in December in Cook county and 14,000 downstate, but the sampling indicates the county will produce less than 14,000 and no more than 12,000 can be expected from downstate.

May Finish School Year.

High school youths who registered in the last week and those who will register in the remaining days of the month may obtain deferment from the draft until the end of the academic year on written application to their draft boards. These deferments are expected to keep many thousands more from being available for military duty until next July.

Starting at 9 a. m. today, youths who reached their 18th birthday last September and October will register. They have until 5 p. m., Dec. 24. From Dec. 26 to 31 those with November and December birth dates will be recorded.

Illinois draft boards yesterday were ordered by Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, to review the cases of all farm workers, including those already ordered to report for induction, and to defer those found engaged in essential war agriculture. Armstrong's order was in compliance with the recent amendment of the draft law which was designed to freeze necessary workers on the farms of the nation.

May Not Leave Jobs.

Hereafter, single men engaged in certain types of farm work will be placed in class 2-C and those with dependents will be placed in class 3-C. Those who leave the farms without the consent of their local draft board are subject to immediate reclassification and induction into one of the military branches.

Eligibility for deferment will be determined by measuring the farm products that deferred workers produce in terms of war units. Local boards will have considerable latitude in deciding the value of the war effort of the individual.

A deferred worker in class 2-C may make written request to leave the farm, but the draft board will determine whether he would be more useful to the war effort in some other industry.

Applications for officer commissions in the navy leaped yesterday after publication of the fact that cancelation of volunteering does not affect officer procurement, according to Capt. E. S. Root, director for the middle west.

Navy Seeks Engineers.

The navy is especially interested in all kinds of engineers and also is taking men up to 38 years old with college training for general duty classification. Traveling boards have obtained some officer material in Rockford and Peoria and next will visit Sioux City and Lincoln, Neb.

Capt. Paul B. Rickard, marine corps procurement officer, 2050 Board of Trade building, also is seeking specialists for commissions. The marines are particularly interested in engineers, but there is no hard and fast rule. "If a man will come in," he said, "we can tell him in a few minutes whether we want him now or in the future."

Unmarried men 18 to 27 years old also are wanted for the United States merchant marine cadet corps, which has shortened its training period from four years to 16 months. Men 18 to 23 years old must have a high school education and those from 23 to 27 must have a year of college for every year of age over 22. Cadets for merchant marine commissions get the same pay and allowance as those in the United States naval academy, according to Lt. Robert T. Sexton, regional enrolling officer, whose office is at 53 West Jackson boulevard.

SALE OF YANKEE RADIO NETWORK HAS PRECEDENT

The sale of the Yankee network of New England, subject to the approval of the federal communications commission, is a development seldom seen in radio. Such transactions, rare since network broadcasting started back in 1926, have a precedent. Somewhat over a decade ago the Columbia network changed hands, from Maj. J. Andrews White, the president, and his associates to the present head of the chain, William S. Paley.

Blue Network, Inc. officials, it is reported, viewed the Yankee transfer with interest. The Blue has been on the market ever since it was segregated from NBC and set up as a separate entity, at the reputed price of 15 million dollars.

The Yankee network is to be sold to the General Tire and Rubber company, with John Shepard III., president and general manager now, to continue in that capacity. The Yankee network is one of the stockholders of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

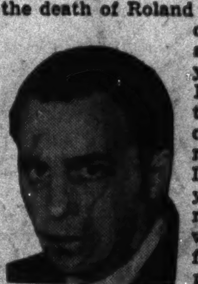
Slaying Investigated

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MRS. JOSEPHINE DAY.

An inquest will be held today into the death of Roland Powers, 37 years old, 2417 Orchard street, who died yesterday in the Henrotin hospital. Powers died of a beating administered by Luther Day, 45 years old, a former prize fighter, when he was found with the pugilist's wife, Josephine, 30 years old, in their apartment at 1 West Walton street early yesterday.



Luther Day.

Day, who fought under the name of Jack Costello, told Capt. Frank Reynolds of the East Chicago avenue police that Powers attacked him with a chair, but that he wrested it from him and broke it over Powers' head and then beat him with his fists. Mrs. Day substantiated her husband's story and said Powers had gained entrance to her flat with a key he had stolen from her purse while she had been drinking with him in a cocktail lounge on North State street.

ONE MAN'S FOOD JUST KNEDLIKY AND ZELI TO HIM

Knedliky and zeli may be a famous and tasty national dish to most Bohemians, but to Frank Moravec, 34 years old, an insurance salesman and a Bohemian, it's just dumplings and sauerkraut that he can buy in any restaurant. He'll get to buy it, however, only with the money left over after paying the $15 a week alimony his opinion costs him.

When Moravec's wife, Sylvia, 34 years old, 5801 South Fairfield avenue, also a Bohemian, appeared before Judge Joseph Sabath, who was born in Bohemia, asking separate maintenance on charges of cruelty and desertion in Superior court yesterday, her attorney, Victor Frohlich, another Bohemian, suggested a reconciliation.

Judge Sabath suggested that the Moravecs spend Christmas together. To clinch a reconciliation, he suggested that Mrs. Moravec cook knedliky and zeli for her husband, and both he and Frohlich smacked their lips as they turned to Moravec. "Nothing doing," said Moravec. "That's just dumplings and cabbage that I can buy at any restaurant."

Judge Sabath's smile faded. "Then," he snapped, "I'll have to give you a different Christmas present," and he granted Mrs. Moravec $15 a week temporary alimony.

KIELY, NOW A 4-H, RETURNS TO JOB AS PROSECUTOR

J. Albert Woll, United State's attorney, said yesterday that John M. Kiely, former assistant United States attorney, who was posted as a draft delinquent while prosecuting draft dodgers, had returned to his staff.

Kiely had been released from his job and reported for induction Nov. 25 after Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, upheld the action of Kiely's local draft board. Kiely, however, was reclassified from 1-A to 4-H under the Presidential order exempting men over 38 years old, and also because of failure to pass physical requirements. Kiely is 40 years old.

"It has been concluded that Mr. Kiely at no time violated the selective service act," Woll announced, "and that he acted in the firm belief that his action was sanctioned by the selective service system." Woll said Kiely would be assigned to special work.

Community Fund Reaches $3,863,976, 4% Over Goal

Chicago's Community Fund established a record high yesterday when post campaign contributions of $48,061 brought the total to $3,863,976, 4 per cent above the $3,750,000 goal, Charles Y. Freeman, general chairman, announced.

$250,000 INFANTILE PARALYSIS DRIVE OPENS IN CHICAGO

Speeding infantile paralysis recoveries thru new treatment methods has increased costs 50 per cent, Herbert J. Lorber, chairman of the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., said yesterday at the chapter's official opening of the 1943 campaign to raise $250,000 in the Chicago area. This is $100,000 over last year's goal.

The 1942 fund, half of which was sent to the national foundation with headquarters in New York, is exhausted. The local chapter is now operating on an emergency reserve. While Chicago was spared a serious outbreak, Lorber said, new cases reached into the hundreds and hospital costs rose to a peak of $700 a day. Victims ranged up to 50 years in age, and more adults than children were stricken.

Lorber broke down last year's county fund into the following expenditures: Hospital, 24 per cent; orthopedic appliances, 9.5 per cent; Kenny hot pack treatment, 7.5 per cent; medical fees, 5 per cent; surgery, 2.8 per cent, and miscellaneous, 1.2 per cent.

Make Yourself A $2,000,000 HIGHBALL

Know how to make a correct highball? Lots of people don't, so we're giving you the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so good!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND THEN DO THIS!

1 Place the ice cubes in an empty 6 or 8-oz. glass. Connoisseurs say the ice must go in first!

3 Fill with club soda or ginger ale. For a perfectly mixed drink, place ingredients in glass in the order given!

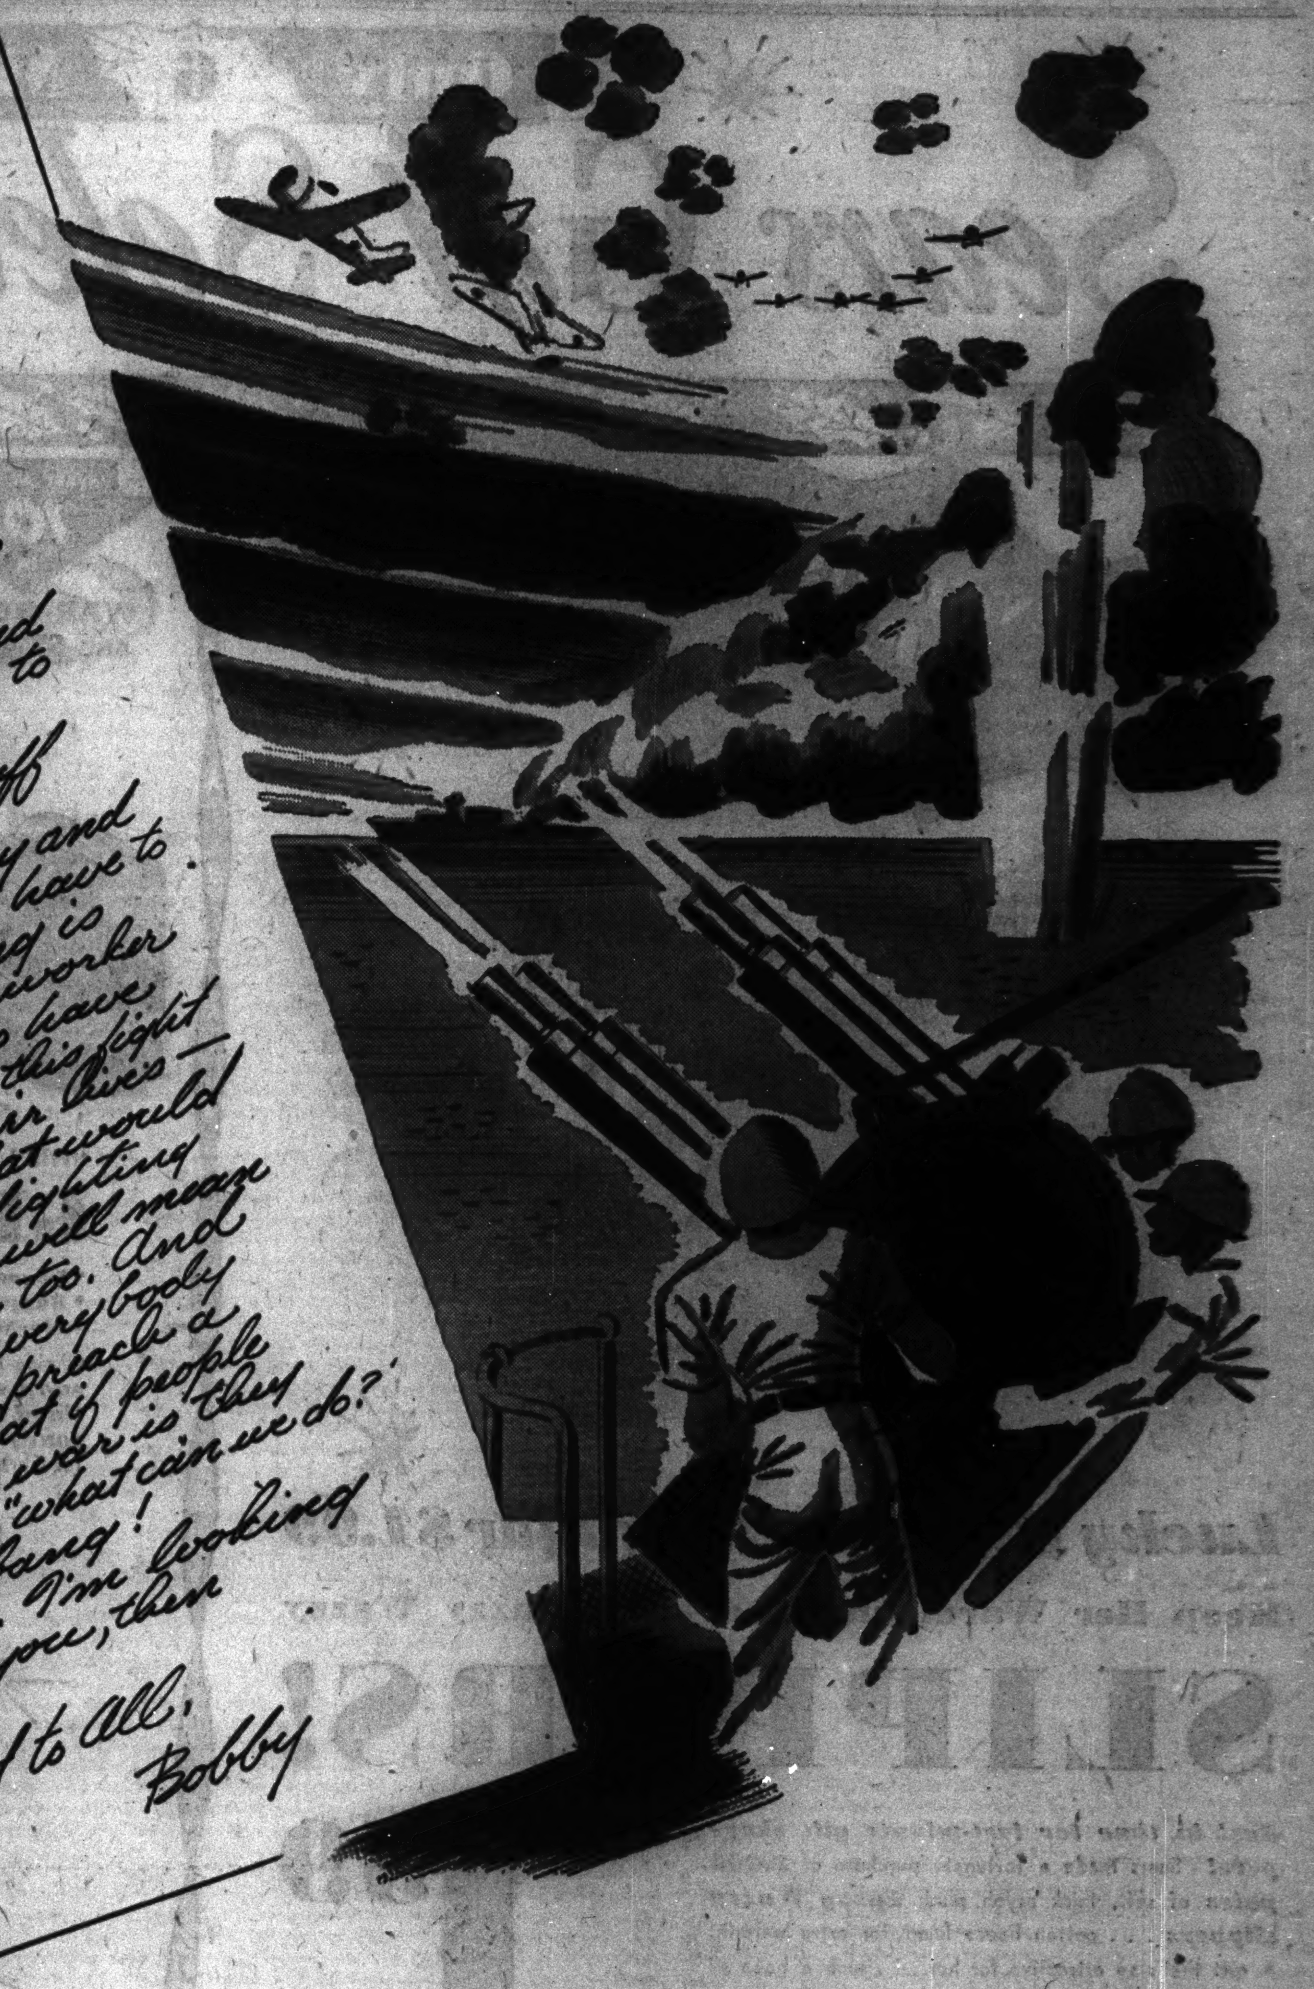
WBBM TONIGHT 6:15 P.M.



Hello Mom and Pop:

Good News! – I'll be home for Christmas – We're back in the good old U.S.A. and I'll have 2 wks. leave while our ship is being fixed up to fight again. Gee but it will be nice to see you all, the kids and Mary of course.

I wish all the boys could have Christmas at home – I'm just lucky I guess. They're the fightingest bunch you ever saw and I'll be rarin' to get back with them and do my part.

Saw Jack in Australia. You know he's in the Army. We had a couple of days together and met a lot of grand guys in the Air Force and Marines. They all pal around together and the Aussies are in there too — real soldiers.

It's such a big war – it takes a lot of men and just an awful lot of all kinds of things for us to keep going. I mean it's up to the folks at home to see that we get more and more of the stuff we need, just as fast as possible.

Yes, I know it's going to cost them big money and hard work and sacrifice. I guess they will have to pull up their belts like we do when the going is tough. What I'm thinking is that if every worker would do their level best and if those who have some dough saved up would enlist it in this fight as generously as the boys have enlisted their lives — right now when Uncle Sam needs it – that would be a swell Christmas present for every fighting man. Of course, us boys feel that this will mean better conditions after the war is over too. And don't think it won't be over sooner if everybody pitches in. Oh well – I didn't mean to preach a sermon but gosh it seems to me that if people understood how really serious this war is they would only ask the government "what can we do?" – then go all the way with a bang!

I hope this finds you all well. I'm looking forward to a few days with you, then to be back on the job.

My Best to All,

Bobby

WHEELER CALLS BIDDLE SEDITION PROBE 'DISGRACE'

Likens Tactics to Those of Daugherty, Means.

tors, dragged in before the grand jury, and people asked if they knew me?"

Sen. Wheeler not only condemned the smearing of organizations which were named in the indictment but not indicted, such as the America First committee, but he also charged "entrapment" and abuse of the conspiracy process in the indictment of the 28 defendants.

"The indictment on its face shows that in order to establish jurisdiction here in Washington, your department had somebody write letters to various groups and organizations to get them to answer, so as to bring them within the jurisdiction of this court, and try them three thousand miles from their home under conditions where the greater part of the population is made up of government workers, or people who are dependent upon the government, either directly or indirectly," Wheeler's letter said. "In other words, your department resorted to entrapment for the purpose of obtaining jurisdiction here in the capital.

"The department of justice under Harry Daugherty did that very thing. It was condemned in no uncertain terms by my distinguished colleague, the late Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, and by other members of the United States senate.

'Whole Proceeding Disgrace.'

"In this country a man is supposed to be tried by a jury of his peers, by people who know something of him, and about him, and not be yanked two or three thousand miles from his home. If these people are guilty of sedition, they should have been tried in their own communities, and not take a conglomerate lot of crackpots and bring them into the jurisdiction of Washington.

"The whole proceeding is a disgrace, and certainly does not reflect to the credit of your department."

Dillard Stokes, alias Jefferson Breem, alias Adam Quigley, a reporter for Eugene Meyer's Washington Post, is the letter writer referred to in Sen. Wheeler's entrapment charge. Rep. Hoffman also has accused Stokes of entrapment.

Attempt to Smear.

In a previous letter to Biddle, dated Dec. 3, Sen. Wheeler said in part:

"In this indictment an attempt is made to smear the America First committee, which was headed up by a group of the most loyal and patriotic citizens in America, some of whom are now serving in important posts in the military forces of this country.

"In all my experience I have never known of the department of justice being used to smear people without foundation, excepting during the reign of Daugherty, Burns, and Gaston Means.

"If the information which has come to me is true, the methods used by your special assistant before the grand jury here in Washington smack of an inquisition of bygone days.

"Reprehensible Move."

"I scarcely know any of the defendants—and certainly do not approve of the things which they are charged with saying and writing. I believe that they were mostly the mouthings of irresponsible people, but, however misguided they may have been, I cannot believe that some of them were guilty of a conspiracy to obstruct national defense or break down the morale of America.

"It is entirely possible that some individuals and organizations may have had that in view, but to draft a catch-all indictment including patriotic organizations and individuals with unpatriotic organizations and individuals for the purpose of smearing them is in itself, to say the least, reprehensible and should not be tolerated in this country.

"Again, let me say that evidence has come to my attention of the way the grand jury here in Washington has been used, and in all candor I must say to you that I think it has been one of the most disgraceful proceedings that has ever been carried on in this country. If it happened in most jurisdictions in this country the prosecuting attorneys would be held for contempt of court.

Calls for 'Review.'

"I believe you owe it to yourself and to the country to review the proceedings of the grand jury and to review the evidence and the law in this matter. I say to you quite frankly that I have discussed this with several members of the senate who are able lawyers, and I have yet to find one of them who knew anything about the matter but who felt that it ought to be investigated and carefully reviewed by you, or that a general investigation should be held by some committee of congress.

"What some of these people under indictment have written, I repeat, is reprehensible, but that they should be indicated for a conspiracy to undermine the morale of the armed forces of this country, and brought thousands of miles from their homes to be tried in this jurisdiction, unless there is a great deal more than appears upon the face of this indictment, is shocking, indeed, to one who believes in preserving freedom of speech and our civil liberties."

GREEN, BROOKS MAY MEET G. O. P. MAYORAL GROUP

Barrett and Lueder Also Available Today.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The advice of Gov. Dwight H. Green, Sen. Wayland Brooks, Attorney General George F. Barrett, and State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder will be available today to the Republican mayoral subcommittee at what may be that group's last meeting.

Sen. Brooks said that he will see the governor today about the fuel oil rationing crisis and that if Green wants to talk about the mayoral campaign he will be glad to do so.

Lean Toward Sheldon Clark.

With the regular G. O. P. organization's decision reported near, preference in the large field of prospective candidates seemed to be leaning toward Sheldon Clark. With Clark as the candidate, it is understood that there would be no difficulty in financing a full dress campaign.

In addition to the 16 men already considered by the subcommittee, others were mentioned yesterday in political circles. Included were Edward L. Ryerson, steel manufacturer and civic leader, and former Judge Edgar A. Jonas. Billy Patts, a Polish radio announcer who has helped Republican campaigns, has sent out letter in Polish styling himself "the people's candidate."

Others on Official List.

Besides Clark, the so-called official list includes the following: Attorney General Barrett, Attorney Roger Faherty, Avery Brundage, contractor, hotel owner, and amateur athletic leader; Morgan L. Fitch, director and past president of the Chicago Real Estate board; Rep. Charles S. Dewey; Arthur F. Albert, former alderman and manufacturer; George B. McKibbin, state finance director; Philip W. Collins, state tax commission chairman; Robert L. Hunter, chairman of the state civil service commission; Thomas E. Wilson, the packer; Ralph A. Neff; Walter Olson, rug manufacturer; Attorney Ferre C. Watkins; Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith [6th], and former congressman Patrick Moynihan.

The fusion idea, with an independent Democrat running on the Republican ticket, still had its proponents working behind the scenes. Political gossip yesterday included a report that State's Attorney Courtney, a Democrat, could raise $300,000 for a fusion campaign. Chairman John T. Dempsey of the mayoral subcommittee said this was news to him.

HULL VOICES WORLD PLEDGE TO AVENGE JEWS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The United States and other united nations governments joined today in condemning Germany's policy of exterminating the Jews and pledged themselves to visit retribution on those responsible.

Emphasis was added to this pledge by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who told his press conference that practical steps were being taken to identify, apprehend and punish the guilty persons.

Hull recalled that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and other heads of government, in recent months, had announced plans to discover and assemble all facts relating to inhuman acts in war areas. All pertinent facts and names were being collected, he said, with the aim of apprehending and punishing war criminals at the earliest possible opportunity—not later than the end of the war.

In Poland, "the principal Nazi slaughterhouse," the Hull announcement said, ghettos established by the Germans when they invaded the country now are being systematically emptied of all Jews except a few skilled workers valuable to the war industries, and "none of those taken away are ever heard of again."

G.O.P. RETAINS TOWNSEND FOR 1944 CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Former Sen. John G. Townsend Jr. of Delaware was reappointed today to the chairmanship of the Republican senatorial campaign committee to serve thru the 1944 campaign.

Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon, Republican floor leader of the senate, notified the 71 year old former legislator and governor of the appointment in a letter which said:

"Your splendid services as chairman of the national Republican senatorial committee are sincerely appreciated by the members of the senate and governor of his reappointment.

Townsend, one of the peacemakers in the recent intraparty scrap at St. Louis which culminated in the compromise selection of Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa as national chairman, believes the G. O. P. has a "good chance" to gain control of the senate in 1944.

The house Republican campaign committee, now headed by Rep. J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania, will not pick its 1944 campaign chairman until the middle of January.

ANNUAL HEBREW MEDAL AWARD IS GIVEN TO WILLKIE

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie today accepted the American Hebrew medal for outstanding achievement in promoting unity between Christians and Jews, and urged that the word "tolerance" be discarded in connection with group relationships.

"No man has the right in America to treat any other man 'tolerantly,' for tolerance is the assumption of superiority," he said in accepting the award. "Our liberties are the equal rights of every citizen."

The annual award was presented by Joseph H. Biben, editor and publisher of the American Hebrew Weekly.

Statement by Girl Names Former Revivalist.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 17 (AP).—The federal bureau of investigation today announced the arrest in Louisville, Ky., of George C. [Uncle George] Cates, 60 year old retired minister and former revivalist, on white slave charges.

FBI Agent Guerin said Cates, operator of Uncle George's Child Homes, Inc., for underprivileged mothers and children, recently was indicted by a federal grand jury here on charges of transporting for immoral purposes a New Orleans girl to Gulfport, Miss., site of one of the homes. The girl, 19, is the mother of two children.

Claim Another "Home."

Another branch of Cates' homes is maintained in Louisville, Ky. Guerin said Cates would be brought here to answer charges.

Guerin said the girl gave special agents a signed statement in which she asserted Cates had subjected her to immoral practices, beginning with an outing trip to Cates' "home" in Gulfport in 1930, when she was 7, and continuing until about a year ago.

The girls' purported statement claimed a marriage was arraigned between her and a stranger in New Orleans Aug. 1, 1940, "so that her unborn child would have a name." The statement said Cates paid the man $10 to go thru with the ceremony and that she was told later by Cates that her husband had been shot and killed in California. Her first child was born soon afterward; her second is 3 months old.

Charge Second Wedding.

The indictment charged that Cates accompanied the girl and another man to Gulfport on July 11, 1941, and officiated at another wedding, arranging a "honeymoon" for the couple at his Gulfport home.

Officials said the second man to whom the girl allegedly was married is being held in jail here as a material witness.

2 INSTITUTIONS GET $200,000 OF WELLS ESTATE

The Presbyterian hospital and the Glenwood Manual Training school are to receive $100,000 each from the estate of Mrs. Katharine Adams Wells, who died Nov. 15 in Orlando, Fla., her will, filed in Probate court here yesterday, disclosed. Attorney Stuart J. Templeton said the will was probated here as well as in Florida because of $458,000 of property in Cook county. He did not estimate the estate total.

After listing $100,000 in bequests to friends and relatives and giving her Orlando home and furniture to her chauffeur, Fred Ratzer, Mrs. Wells' will lists the following bequests: Adams Memorial library, $50,000; Country Home for Convalescent children, West Chicago, $50,000; United Charities, $50,000; Northwestern university, $50,000, to be used for a medical department; Old People's Home of Chicago, $30,000; Chicago Society for the Hard of Hearing, $25,000; First Presbyterian Church of Wheaton, $25,000; Presbyterian home, Evanston, $25,000; Visiting Nurses' association, $25,000; Children's Memorial hospital, $25,000; Chicago Boys' club, $10,000; American Societies for the Hard of Hearing, $5,000, and the village of Wheaton, a square block of property to be used as a park and $5,000 for conditioning. The will directs that the estate residue be divided among Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., Berea college, Berea, Ky., and Park college, Parkville, Mo.

Mrs. Wells, who was 82 years old at the time of her death, was the daughter of John Quincy Adams, one of the founders of the Chicago Board of Trade, and the widow of Frederick Latimer Wells, a Chicago manufacturer.

FIND PLANTER'S SLAYER DEAD IN VIRGINIA WOODS

Danville, Va., Dec. 17 [Special].—Members of a sheriff's posse of 100 armed men today found the body of Sam Valentine, Negro farm laborer, hunted three days as the slayer of F. C. Beverly, 65 years old, tobacco planter and brother-in-law of the late Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson.

The body was found in a woods less than a mile from the scene of the slaying in Beverly's home. Officers said he apparently had died of a heart attack for no marks were on the body other than a partly healed flesh wound in the biceps apparently inflicted by Beverly in trying to defend himself. An empty pint bottle, believed to have contained liquor, and a loaded shotgun lay near by.

Beverly was slain when Valentine entered his home and shot at his estranged wife, Catherine Valentine, the planter's Negro cook. Valentine recently had served six months in jail for a previous attempt on her life. Police expressed the belief he lurked in the vicinity of the home, after slaying Beverly, in the hope of making a third attempt to kill his former mate.

PHOENIX OUSTS OFFICIALS IN WAR TO CLEAN UP VICE

Aroused by Army's Boycott Threat.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 17 (AP).—A new city manager, chief of police and city clerk-magistrate, placed in office by a group of aroused business men, went to work today to clean up vice conditions in this capital city of 65,000 and make it acceptable to the army.

In an action unprecedented here, chamber of commerce directors drafted nonpolitical appointees for the positions and insisted that the city commission put them in office. The program took shape Tuesday when the business leaders met the commissioners in a conference, expressed a lack of confidence in municipal officials, and bluntly demanded action. They got it, and their selections took office yesterday.

Declared Off Limits.

Eighteen days ago, after preliminary warnings that prostitutes were operating unchecked and the venereal disease rate was mounting, army authorities declared Phoenix off limits for the thousands of officers and men in this vicinity.

A few days ago the federal security agency presented Gov. Sidney P. Osborn with a report showing Phoenix and certain other communities of the state were permitting prostitution to flourish and that disease endangered the welfare of soldiers and war workers.

The governor told law enforcement officers to clean up the state or he would invoke martial law.

City Manager Resigns.

Under their program City Manager Richard H. Smith resigned and was replaced by Roy J. Heyne, 39 year old business man. Heyne then ousted Police Chief Don C. Steward, and James T. Duane, Maricopa county undersheriff, took over. The city commissioners removed John H. Udall as city clerk and magistrate.

BUNDESEN SUIT CHARGES PIRACY OF HIS WRITINGS

In a suit filed late yesterday in federal District court Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, asked an injunction against two firms who he accused of publishing material "pirated" from his book, "Our Babies." The suit seeks to restrain the firms from any further infringement of copyrighted material and asks an assessment of damages to be fixed by the court.

Those named in the suit are: The Baby Book Publishing company, 343 South Dearborn street and two officials, F. P. Fleren and Raymond T. Herz and the Printing Products corporation, 124 West Polk street, and five officials of that firm.

Specifically the suit charges that a book entitled "Your Babies' Health and Care," published early this year by the defendants contained a large amount of original copyrighted matter copied from the Bundesen book. The case was assigned to Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Last June Dr. Bundesen was one of eight defendants in a $400,000 damage suit filed in Superior court charging that they conspired to injure the business of The Baby Book Publishing company by organizing a corporation to transfer distribution of Dr. Bundesen's book. It is still pending.

Ridgewood, N. J., Dec. 17 [Special]. —David C. Thornhill, 80 years old, detective and personal bodyguard for Edward Windsor when, as prince of Wales, he visited the United States in 1932, died last night at the home of his daughter.

In addition to being a skilled detective, bringing to justice scores of notorious criminals, Thornhill was noted as an instructor. Among his pupils was former New York Police Commissioner George Dougherty, in charge of all detective work of the New York City police department. Thornhill's father, Capt. William Thornhill, was master of the British clipper ship, Golden Gate, which sailed between New York and Hongkong.

WAAC WHO WENT AWOL BARRED BY THEATERDIVISION

Kathryn Gregory, the girl who was discharged from the WAACs for being AWOL and dancing in a Des Moines burlesque house, will get no engagements in theaters or night clubs supplied by the Amusement and Recreation Division of the Chicago Defense council.

Harold Halperin, chairman of the executive board of the organization, said his group represented about 400 men who operate entertainment establishments in this area, and that they had agreed not to "play" the former WAAC, who came to Chicago seeking work after her discharge at Fort Des Moines.

Halperin said, however, that there is nothing to prevent the owner of some night spot outside the board's fold from engaging the girl.

GET YOUR YULE LETTER ON ITS WAY TOMORROW

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen yesterday warned those who intend to mail cards and parcels for delivery before Christmas not to delay mailing beyond tomorrow, even tho the mail is intended for Chicago. The postoffice, he said, cannot otherwise guarantee quick delivery. One thing slowing up deliveries is the fact that many persons have misconstrued a treasury department recommendation, and are using war stamps in place of postage stamps. Envelopes without postage stamps, Kruetgen said, are returned to the sender or are held for future delivery to the addresse.

HOUSING PROJECT TRUCE EXPECTED IN ROCK ISLAND

Concessions Made by City, U.S. Agents.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 17 [Special]. —Fred C. Bergeson, city building inspector, returned to Rock Island today from a conference with federal housing officials in Chicago, and reported that if the cost is not excessive, changes will be made in the $379,000, 136 unit federal housing project here to provide larger water and sewer lines and stronger construction by means of braces and heavier foundations.

He said concessions had been made both by the city and the government in their controversy over plans for the project. It was understood the government's top price on changes would be about $2,500.

Water Supply Peril Told.

For some time the city of Rock Island had been waging a fight for revision of plans for the houses, during which time David Goodwin, president, and Fred Schaar Jr., secretary of the Goodwin Construction company of Chicago, contractors, were fined $5 each in police court for violating the city building code. During the controversy the city was warned that the federal government might condemn the city's waterworks and take over its operation if water is not supplied to the project.

Although Brig. Gen. Norman F. Ramsey, Rock Island arsenal commandant, sent a letter to the city, asking that permission be given for the project to proceed because of the need for additional housing, Mayor Robert P. Galbraith said the city was willing to coöperate but that the administration must not overlook the possibility that small water mains in the project will result in pollution of the city's water supply, thus endangering lives of persons living outside the area.

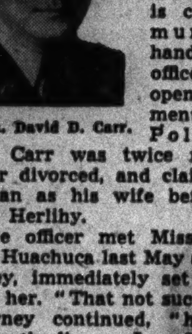
Foundations Too Shallow.

City inspectors charged, among other things, that the footings are too small and that the foundations are not deep enough, that only 1¼ inch water pipes are to be used to furnish water to eight families, when they are sufficient only to serve two families; that 8 inch instead of 6 inch sewers should be installed, and that the frame construction is similar to that normally used for garages, and "would be blown over by a strong wind." They also objected to heating facilities which include a heating stove on the first floor of the buildings with a smokepipe furnishing heat to the second floor.

The government at one time during the controversy threatened intervention by FBI agents and declared the city had no control over structures that were to be temporary—only for the duration.

CLAIMS 3 WIVES CAUSED OFFICER TO TRY MURDER

Bisbee, Ariz., Dec. 17 (AP).—Capt. D. D. Carr was so troubled by his complicated marital affairs, Defense Counsel W. E. Polley said today, that he attempted to kill Margaret Herlihy, his secret bride, who is charged with murdering the handsome army officer. In an opening statement to the jury Polley asserted that Carr was twice married and never divorced, and claimed a third woman as his wife before he wed Miss Herlihy.



Capt. David D. Carr.

The officer met Miss Herlihy at Fort Huachuca last May and, declared Polley, immediately set out to conquer her. "That not succeeding," the attorney continued, "he took her across the line on June 21 and caused her to become intoxicated in order to persuade her into a void Mexican marriage with him."

Defense counsel contended in an unsuccessful motion for a directed verdict that the state itself had proved a case of self-defense and involuntary intoxication for Miss Herlihy. Judge Hall ruled that this was a matter for the jury to decide.

"Wedding Postponed"

By Susannah Shane

[Copyright: 1942: by Harriette Ashbrook.]

SYNOPSIS.

Guests arrive at the church for the wedding of Tessa Devlin and Jayson Plaice, partner of Tessa's uncle, Tom. The minister announces the wedding has been postponed. The guests do not know that Tessa is running away from a cottage where a woman has just been murdered. A 10 months' flashback tells what has happened up to the time of the murder. Tessa's mother died when she was born. Her father, a prospector, left his baby with the Shaws, medical missionaries, and failed to return. [illegible]

INSTALMENT XXIX.

LADIES' MAN.

Brisson, with the authority of his shield and his suavity in extracting information from reluctant tradesmen, had been helpful.

Yes, Black, Starr & Frost had made the ring. Set it, that is. The stone was one which Mr. Jayson Plaice already had in his possession in an old fashioned gold setting popular two decades ago.

They had only set it in the new ring which they had designed to his order. No, they did not have the original setting. That had been returned to Mr. Plaice.

"Not much." Nunn noted ruefully, later when he had returned from New York and had rejoined the inspector.

"But just what the doctor ordered."

"What's going on at the Devlin house this morning? Did you check on finger prints in Tessa Devlin's room?"

Steelman shook his head. "Why waste time on that? Everybody's finger prints are probably all over the place. Everybody was quite properly in the room last night. And furthermore, when there's really dirty work afoot, the fellow doing the dirty always wears gloves. I'm surprised you and Beatrice didn't think of that."

Nunn looked unconvinced and shocked. To reassure him, Steelman said, "But I did put a tail on Plaice, Masterson. He telephoned just a little while before you got here. Plaice has gone back to the yacht. That's where we're going, too. Right now. Better get your topcoat. It's beginning to rain."

As they stepped into a police launch to ferry them out to the Falcon, Nunn amended the inspector's forecast. "And blow," he said succinctly. Smaller craft were already rocking in the white caps of the bay, and even the big Falcon was heaving a bit.

The forward lounge on the main deck was not quite steady as it had been the night before. Nor was Jayson Plaice quite so suave. Courteous still, to be sure, but underneath it there was a certain tightness of nerves that had not been there the night before.

As the inspector noted this in the first swift glance, he wondered whether it was the result of the previous night's entertainment, or of the story which the afternoon papers carried on the death of Mrs. Carol Kimbark.

It could be either or both. He cast a quick glance around the lounge. There were no newspapers, but that didn't necessarily prove anything. Plaice had come from his own cabin to greet them.

He showed surprise, but Steelman was sure it wasn't genuine. The inspector, on his part, was figuratively taking off the suede gloves he had used the night before. He had so many more bullets in his gun now, and he had an idea that they weren't all blanks. Particularly that one he had spent most of the morning working on.

A shot in the dark, and a bold one, based in large part on mere assumption. And yet . . .

"I'll have to confess, Mr. Plaice, that since I saw you yesterday, Detective Nunn and I have been delving somewhat into your private affairs."

Plaice managed a smile. "I rather imagined you would. That's your business, isn't it? Do let me know if you've found anything interesting. Personally, I feel my life's been rather dull at times."

"Perhaps we can liven it up a bit." Steelman smiled, too, but rather crookedly, and came to the point. "Where did you get the stone in Miss Devlin's engagement ring?"

Plaice seemed startled and puzzled. "Black, Starr & Frost. But what's that got to do with it? If you will consult with them, however, they'll bear me out."

"I already have and they don't. I still want to know where you got the diamond. They furnished only designs, setting, and workmanship."

"You have been combing thru my private life, haven't you? Even uncovering small details that had escaped my mind. Very well, the stone was my own. What of it?" Plaice's tone was offended and defensive.

"Where did you get it?"

"It was in a ring I once took for a bad debt."

"From whom?"

"Is that relevant?"

"Extremely."

"Very well then. From a Mrs. Frome."

"Who is she?" The inspector probed every angle of the suddenly introduced Mrs. Frome. How had Jayson Plaice met her, when, where, under what circumstances. The answers were tawdry.

He had met her about 10 years ago in a Chicago hotel. He had enjoyed her hospitality, discovering that she was heavily in debt, and had loaned her $300 taking the ring as security.

"And I suppose," Steelman went on, "you can tell where I can find this Mrs. Frome now?"

"I'm afraid not. She was killed in an automobile accident a year or two later."

"So that I have only your word for all this?"

"Unless you'd be interested in consulting the hotel register."

"I shall be, and shall do so, altho such evidence as may be found there will not necessarily be conclusive proof. Have you the original setting from which the stone was taken?"

"I suppose so. I didn't pay much attention to it. I just chucked it somewhere or other in my apartment in town."

"No."

"No, of course not. It might destroy the sweet aura of romance to know that it was the pay-off of a bad debt transaction."

"You're rather crude."

"But accurate. Has Miss Devlin broken her engagement to you?"

"Certainly not. Why should she?"

"She still has the ring which you gave her?"

"Of course."

"You have made no attempt to get it back?"

"No."

"Then what were you looking for in her room last night?"

A tremor, barely perceptible, seemed to go thru Plaice. "And don't," Steelman said, "tell me you don't know what I'm talking about."

"Very well then, I won't. I suppose you're referring to a scene last night in Miss Devlin's bedroom. May I ask how you learned of it?"

"You may, but I'm not obliged to reply. Let's get back to my question. What were you looking for in that room last night?"

"I wasn't looking for anything. I was just satisfying a most natural curiosity. After all, when you're awakened from a sound sleep in the middle of the night by some sort of rumpus, you get up to find out what it's all about."

"I'm not referring, Plaice, to that trip to Miss Devlin's room. I'm referring to the one before."

"Before?"

"I'm afraid, Inspector, you're being ridiculous."

"And I'm afraid you're being evasive. Did you or did you not enter Miss Devlin's bedroom last night thru the bath, and the adjoining room?"

"I'm afraid you're confusing the nightmare of a highly wrought up young woman with fact. You're——"

"Answer the question, please. Did you or did you not enter that bedroom by stealth last night?"

"I do not."

"Do you know of any one else who did?"

"I did not."

Plaice's answers were quick, unequivocal—and the inspector was not inclined to believe a word of them. But he knew the futility of pressing the point further.

He paused and lit a cigaret slowly, taking plenty of time. His next question was a complete non sequitur.

"Have you ever been married before?" The inspector seemed interested only in examining the tip of his cigaret, but he was really watching Plaice for a start or a tremor. There was none. Only evasion again.

"No."

"You were never married to Mrs. Carol Kimbark?"

"Mrs. Kimbark has had three husbands, but I am not one of them."

"Has had . . . Present perfect tense. Not past. He hadn't read the papers yet!

"Does Miss Devlin know of your—past?"

"Miss Devlin, in spite of her alien upbringing, knows the facts of life. I never discussed the matter with her."

"Very wise of you."

INCREASE IN GAS THEFTS PROMPTS REWARD OFFER

Motor Club Posts $100 for Conviction.

Concerned with reports of gasoline thefts, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, offered a $100 reward yesterday for information leading to the conviction of any person who siphons gasoline from the automobile tank of a member. Hayes urged motorists to park their cars in protected garages or yards.

The motor club also informed motorists they may appeal to their local rationing boards for additional gasoline allotments if they are convinced that their present rations are inadequate and that they are entitled to more. The club said appeal applications should be filed with local boards which will transmit them to the area director for decision.

The appeal should be made within 30 days after the ration board has either denied or reduced supplemental gasoline rations. The motorist's case should be recited on OPA form R-122.

Names of more individuals or firms granted "C" gasoline allowances were announced by rationing boards. In the following list all are war industry or constructon workers unless otherwise identified.

GIRL POINTS OUT ACCUSED RAPIST AS POLICE WAIT

Joseph F. Guardiola, 21 years old, of 117 East 114th place, was arrested by waiting policemen in the Randolph street Illinois Central station last night as he started to apologize to a 17 year old girl who accused him of raping her. The girl told police she rode past her station aboard an Illinois Central train Monday night while on her way home from work. She asked directions of Guardiola, who was seated beside her, and he left the train with her, ostensibly to guide her. Suddenly he brandished a knife, she said, and forced her behind a house at 11152 Michigan avenue where he attacked her.

LOAD ON TRANSIT LINES UP 15% IN 2 WEEKS PERIOD

Gasoline Rationing Brings Sharp Upturn.

Fifteen per cent more Chicagoans are riding in street cars, buses, and elevated trains than a year ago, a survey covering the first two weeks of December disclosed last night. The sharp upturn was attributed to gasoline rationing which started Dec. 1.

Transit engineers asserted that the passenger load this month will be the heaviest since 1930.

They said that altho operating schedules have been largely adjusted to the new traffic requirements, the systems will encounter jams and delays. Straphanging during rush hours and cramming of passengers into the last bit of standing room will be the rule unless the rubber shortage is relieved, they said.

Figures on Traffic Gains.

A summary of passenger traffic in the first 15 days of December compared with that in the same period of 1941 follows:

	1942.	1941.	Pct. Gain.
Surface Lines	36,980,000	31,389,000	17.8
Mot. Coach Co.	3,146,090	2,886,523	8.9
Rap. Transit Co.	7,928,949	7,191,925	10.25

The motor coach company lagged behind the other two systems because it cut its bus mileage 15 per cent to comply with an order by the office of defense transportation. The company is moving 9 per cent more passengers with 15 per cent less available bus miles. Observation disclosed extreme crowding and slower service.

Railway Traffic Mounts.

Riding on the surface lines has leaped 20 per cent ahead of last year on Saturdays and Sundays, it was reported. The uptrend was attributed to 7 day a week operations in war plants and to heavier Christmas shopping.

The Illinois Central railroad reported that its suburban trains carried approximately 1,900,000 riders, or 24 per cent more than in the corresponding two weeks in 1941, to set a record. A. D. Martin, passenger traffic manager for the Rock Island lines, asserted that the suburban trains are moving the heaviest passenger load in the company's history. Other roads did not have current reports on passenger traffic.

Traffic on Chicago's three principal mass transit lines rose almost 7½ per cent this year to the highest level since 1930. Based on reports to date the 1942 passenger movement is expected to reach 994,456,000 riders compared with 925,680,408 in 1941 and 1,062,432,000 in 1930.

CUT ALLOWANCES FOR USE OF AUTOS OF CITY WORKERS

The city council finance committee announced last night the elimination of all allowances to aldermen for the use of their personal autos in city business and the reduction of allowances granted to others of the 640 city employés who drive their own cars in their work.

The total reduction will amount to $115,000 per year. Last year the 640 employés were budgeted for $477,000 in car allowances. The aldermen received $47 a month for use of their cars last year. All of them, it was announced, are driving on "A" ration books. The remainder of the 640 city workers have "B" books, entitling them to a maximum of 560 miles of travel a month.

Eleven city employés who formerly received $70 per month for the use of their cars will now receive $56; of the 353 who received $47 per month, the aldermen have been eliminated and the others will receive $35; and the 154 who received $33 per month now will get $30. It was estimated that the elimination of the aldermen's allowances would save $28,000 per year and the reductions in other classes would save $87,000 a year.

COURT UPHOLDS 15 YEAR PRISON TERM OF PELLEY

Associate of Publisher Also Loses Appeal.

The conviction of William Dudley Pelley, former leader of the Silver Shirts, on a charge of criminal sedition and his sentence to 15 years' imprisonment were upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a unanimous decision.

The court also affirmed the conviction of Pelley's business agent, Lawrence A. Brown, and Pelley's Fellowship press. Brown was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and the Fellowship press was fined $5,000. All the convictions took place in the federal District court in Indianapolis, Ind., last August.

The court of appeals decision was written by Judge Evan A. Evans and was concurred in by Judges J. Earl Major and Otto Kerner.

Raise Three Issues.

Among the issues upon which the defense attorneys based their charge of reversible error were that intent to commit the crimes was not sufficiently alleged, that counts of the indictment were ambiguous and defectively stated, and that women were excluded from serving on the grand jury which returned the indictment.

The argument that proof of Pelley's intent to commit crimes against the United States, as evidenced in his publications, is lacking "hardly needs consideration," the judges agreed. The text of their opinion asserted "it is hardly conceivable that a writer or speaker would have written such propaganda, at a time when his country was at war, save as he entertained the hope of weakening the patriotic resolve of his fellow citizens in their assistance of their country's cause."

Hold Charges Exact.

"The alleged ambiguity and vagueness of the indictment are an empty challenge," the opinion continues. "We can conceive of no more easily worded count than one charging intentionally false utterances in time of war. The precise quotation of the offending statement pins down the illegal act to an exactness rarely achievable in the charging of crimes."

On the charge that women were excluded from the grand jury, the judges said 300 names were supplied by the state circuit judges in response to the request for persons qualified to act and that there is no evidence that there were no women among the names supplied, nor that their names were not placed in the box.

The Appeals court ruled that Brown's rôle in preparing the publications was a secondary one but that "both [Pelley and Brown] are conspirators" and the degree of moral turpitude involved is not a material factor in determining guilt, tho it may make the punishment different.

$50,000 Fire Damages N. Y. Botanical Gardens

New York, Dec. 17 [Special].—About 20,000 flowers and hundreds of tropical rubber plants were killed by fire, cold, and water today at the New York botanical gardens in the Bronx when a blaze destroyed the heating system of the park's propagation unit and damaged one of the six huge greenhouses. Park authorities set the damage at $50,000—chiefly in the loss of flowers and plants. The plants included cryptostegia which were being used in rubber experiments.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

Have you ever benefited from an illness or injury?

WHERE ASKED.

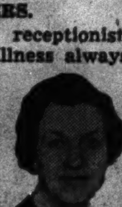
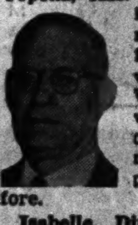
THE ANSWERS.



Winifred Halderman, receptionist, 11225 Vernon avenue—Illness always had been rare for me, so I took my good health for granted. After I was down in bed I began to realize that I had been pretty lucky. Since then I've been appreciating every day of good health.



F. T. McClure, railroad supervisor, Topeka, Kas.—Not until I was sick in bed with flu did I realize how many good friends I had. They were all considerate. What's more, when I was recuperating I became acquainted with neighbors I was completely unaware of before.

Isabelle Dinisman, stenographer, 5124 University avenue—A couple of years ago I learned a new art when I was sick in bed for a while. A friend taught me to knit and like it. I started right out on a complicated sweater and had enough time to finish it. It's one of my favorite pastimes now.

Henrietta Veenstra, file clerk, 1914 West 189th street, Homewood—I was scheduled for a couple of weeks of recuperating and really improved my reading habits. Usually I read lighter fiction and stories for amusement, but, because I had so much time, I concentrated on biographies and learned to like that type of literature.

Pauline McGill, stenographer, 6849 Ridgeland avenue—There were few things I enjoyed doing while I was recuperating. I was tired of reading, so I decided to try writing some short stories. I never had had time before for the attempt. I wrote three or four stories that were quite successful.

L. J. Moss, clerk, 7113 Parnell avenue—About twenty-five years ago I had a lot of time to spend at home after an operation. I had never cared much about reading, but, because I couldn't be very active, I started paging thru books. Before I realized it, I became a habitual reader.

JUDGE URGES FBI PROBE OF WRIGHT, NOTED ARCHITECT

Believes He Played Role in Student's Draft Case.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17.—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone announced from the bench today he would ask the federal bureau of investigation to inquire into actions of Frank Lloyd Wright, expressing belief that the famous architect may be "obstructing the war." Wright conducts a private school at Spring Green, Wis.

Judge Stone made his statement in passing upon the case of Marcus Earl Weston, 27 years old, Spring Green, a Wright apprentice, charged with refusing to appear for induction into the army. He allowed Weston until Jan. 12 to "think it over."

Denies Wright Acted.

Weston denied that the architect had advised his apprentices to escape military service by representing themselves as conscientious objectors. However, Judge Stone said after Weston had pleaded guilty:

"I think you boys are living under a bad influence with that man Wright. I'm afraid he is poisoning your minds. I think he should be investigated and if he is obstructing the war he should be indicted. I am going to ask the FBI to investigate."

Fred L. Holmes, Madison, an attorney who appeared for Weston, told the court that Weston sincerely objected to war on religious grounds, but did not raise that issue with his draft board because a doctor advised him he could not pass a physical examination.

Describes Wright School.

Weston said Wright's school is made up of 12 architectural apprentices who work on Wright's 600 acre farm during the day and spend their evenings working in the drafting room. No formal classes are held, but Wright delivers frequent lectures, he said.

Weston is a Spring Green High school graduate who worked as a grocery clerk and paper hanger before joining the school in 1939.

Wright was informed of the court's remarks and replied, at his Spring Green headquarters:

"As far as I'm concerned Judge Stone is entitled to his opinion and welcome to make any investigation which he as a patriot feels he is entitled to make or have made."

He denied he had advised apprentices to avoid military service.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relations of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. O. writes: "My husband is being transferred, probably overseas, and I am expecting a child within the next week or so. I would like to know whom I should notify when the baby is born, in order to receive the $12 allowance permitted for the first child. I may not be able to get in touch with my husband for at least several weeks."

ANSWER: It will be necessary for you to obtain one of the official forms used to report change of status. The number is 641, and the blanks are obtainable thru the Army Emergency Relief society, room 521, 433 West Van Buren street. It also will be necessary to provide a certified copy of the public record of birth or the church record of baptism. The form with the supporting evidence should be sent to the office of dependency benefits, 213 Washington street, Newark, N. J. Be sure to include complete identifying information, including your husband's complete name, rank, serial number, and organization.

Mrs. J. G. writes: "My son is in the army as a private. I am now receiving a widower's pension, due to the fact that my husband was a veteran of another war, and I am also working part time. Can I be considered as a class "B" dependent and entitled to receive an allowance from my son? He is unmarried."

ANSWER: It is my understanding that eligibility of class "B" dependents, as far as a family allowance is concerned, depends on whether or not such persons are substantially dependent upon the soldier in service for a major portion of support. The receipt of a monthly pension would not necessarily eliminate the possibility of a family allowance, but if the income which you earn, plus that pension, is sufficient to maintain you, I doubt if you can be considered a real dependent. Your son may, of course, send you a class "E" allotment, which would be a voluntary contribution deducted from his pay.

Mrs. M. S. asks: "Can you tell me anything about the accommodations for guests at the various army camps? My husband will be unable to come home for the holidays, and I would like to visit him sometime after the first of the year. However, I am not sure that I can obtain living accommodations near his camp. Can you advise me?"

ANSWER: The Travelers Aid society, 608 South Dearborn street, has a complete directory of the facilities available near camps thruout the country.

Mrs. J. P. writes: "My husband is in the army on active duty in North Africa. I recently received a "V" letter from him saying that he arrived safely, but he did not give a return address. I know the government sends out cards telling of safe arrival and giving a postoffice address, but we have not received any as yet. Will you please tell me where to write to obtain the army postoffice number? I know he was very anxious to receive mail."

ANSWER: I have been informed that because our forces in North Africa are moving very rapidly, in many instances there has not been sufficient time to set up any army postoffice. These men are on active duty on the fighting front, and it is not always possible to provide all conveniences for them. I can only suggest that you wait until you hear again from your husband. There is no agency in Washington that would supply the information.

U. S. AIDS STRIVE TO SPEED PACT, AVERT 'L' STRIKE

Three department of labor conciliators worked yesterday with officials of the Chicago Rapid Transit company and "L" union employé representatives in the Hotel Sherman in an effort to reach an agreement on wage inchease demands in time to avert a strike of 4,500 employés of the "L" lines at 12:01 a. m. Sunday.

William G. Murray, chairman of the three-man panel, said evidence was presented by both sides in the hope of reaching possible methods of adjustment. He said in the event this conference failed, the records of the hearing would be turned over to the certification committee of the department of labor and the national war labor board. Sitting with Murray were Paul S. Williams and Byrne Badenoch.

The union is asking a 9 cent increase for all classifications except lower paid employés, where a 14 cent increase is demanded. Company officials, who estimate this will boost labor costs $2,500,000 annually, declare the company, now in receivership, cannot meet this increased expense.

The conference will be resumed at 10 a. m. today.

FAMILY'S TANGLE BAFFLES EVEN A LEARNED COURT

Tangled family relationships were too much yesterday for Judge Mason Sullivan in Shakespeare avenue court, so he dismissed a charge of disorderly conduct against Herbert Patton, 21 years old, 2144 North Rockwell street. Patton had been arrested Wednesday night for creating a disturbance in a tavern. Mrs. June Patton, 18, of 1852 Milwaukee avenue, told the court she did not love her husband, Melvin, but loved his stepbrother, Herbert. "They are both my sons," said Mrs. Vera Patton, "but this is too much for me to handle." Judge Sullivan agreed.

Fresh pears are an all purpose fruit, good for eating, baking, pie making, and excellent for salads. Anjou pears come to market in early fall and they're available thru the winter until mid-April or May, so you'll have ample time to try some of these salad suggestions:

1. Serve with cheese stuffed prunes in the hollowed pear half.
2. Diced pear, shrimp, onion salt, and French dressing.
3. Equal parts diced pears and oranges, French dressing.
4. Pear half and one banana sliced lengthwise, chopped walnuts, and mayonnaise.
5. Diced pears, chopped celery, chopped nuts, mayonnaise; garnish with half walnut or pecan.
6. Pear-grape cluster: Cover peeled pear half, rounded side up, with diluted cream cheese; stick seedless grapes close together, covering pear half.
7. Pear half filled with pineapple wedges, topped with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.
8. Chopped pear, walnuts, marshmallows cut in pieces, served with dressing made of ½ cup whipping cream, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.
9. Fill pear half with cream cheese mixed with chopped green pepper, top with stuffed olive, or use cottage cheese, mixed with pimiento.

Good Relish Can Be Made from Raw Cauliflower

Raw cauliflower makes a good relish when part of the head is broken into small flowerets, crisped in the refrigerator or ice water, then marinated in French dressing. Serve on the relish tray with radishes and pickles. Or combine diced raw cauliflower with chopped raw carrots, diced celery and leaves, and French dressing, and serve in lettuce cups.

Tip on Baking Fish.

Fishy hint: Any kind of fish or fish fillets may be baked. But if he's a lean critter like pike, red snapper, bass, or flounder, brush him well with butter or lay bacon strips across before baking.

OLD TIME COOKY FAVORITE IS MADE WITH APPLESAUCE

Here's a new recipe for an old-fashioned cooky favorite to add to your files. The mixture will be somewhat stiff, but you'll find the cookies nicely moist when baked.

Applesauce Cookies.
[About four dozen.]

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour, sifted
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup thick unsweetened apple sauce
½ cup chopped nuts or raisins

Cream the shortening and add the sugar gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add the unbeaten egg and mix thoroly. Sift flour with spices, soda, and baking powder and add alternately with the apple sauce. Mix well. Drop the batter in small teaspoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet, about 2 inches apart. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for about 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

CASSEROLE DISH MAKES A HEARTY AND TASTY MEAL

Fresh Apple and Nut Salad Goes Well with It.

Savory meat and vegetables are mingled in these simple, inexpensive casserole dishes to make hearty meals for a hungry family. Topped with a golden brown biscuit crust or individual biscuits, they're something to remember.

Choose a salad of diced fresh apples, celery and nuts with mayonnaise and any dessert you like to complete the dinner menu.

Lamb En Casserole.
[Serves 6 to 8.]

1 pound stewing lamb, cut in inch pieces
½ cup sliced onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups boiling water
1 bay leaf
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup finely diced carrots
1 cup finely diced potatoes
2 cups canned tomatoes
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
12 unbaked baking power biscuits, ½ inch thick

Brown lamb and onion in butter in heavy pan. Add water and bay leaf. Cover and simmer 30 minutes, or until meat is almost tender. Add salt and pepper. Then add vegetables and continue cooking 30 minutes longer, or until vegetables and meat are done. Remove bay leaf. Pour off liquid and measure 2 cups; if necessary add water to equal that amount. Add stock and tapioca to meat mixture; mix well. Turn into greased baking dish. Place biscuits on top. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 20 minutes, or until biscuits are done.

Heart and Vegetable Pie.
[Serves 6 to 8.]

½ beef heart [about 2 pounds]
1 quart water
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced onions
2 tablespoons melted fat
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup green beans, cut in 1-inch lengths
1 cup diced celery
1¼ teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Wash heart thoroly. Remove veins and arteries. Cut in about 6 pieces. Add water and salt and simmer 1 to 1½ hours or until tender. Drain and measure 2½ cups stock. Remove fat from heart and cut heart in ¼-inch slices. Sauté onions and heart in fat until slightly browned. Cook carrots, beans and celery in stock until just tender. Drain; measure liquid and add water to make 2 cups. Add heart, onions and liquid to vegetables. Add remaining ingredients and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Turn into greased shallow casserole. Top with baking powder biscuit crust rolled ¼ inch thick. Make slits in dough to permit the escape of steam. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 20 minutes, or until crust is brown.

BAKING POWDER BISCUIT CRUST—Sift 1½ cups flour, measure, add 2½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Sift again. Cut in 5 tablespoons shortening. Add about ½ cup milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around the bowl. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll dough ¼ inch thick. Fit over mixture in casserole.

What could be sweeter than old-fashioned apple dumplings, cooked the way grandmother used to make them? Only one of many delightful ways of serving Michigan apples. Patriotic, too, because Uncle Sam urges fruit for a healthful diet, particularly home grown fruit. Canned Michigan apples and canned apple sauce supply the flavor and wholesomeness of fresh Michigan apples in convenient form.

WONDERFUL NEWS, MOTHER!

Once again you can afford to give your family all the Orange Juice they need daily!

Florida's are Back!

Florida oranges mean you can AGAIN serve BIG glasses of orange juice without denting your budget . . . because these thin-skinned oranges are chock full of juice (far more than you've had from navel-type oranges).

Florida oranges mean more Vitamin "C" . . . more of the essential minerals that every growing child needs.

And with the cost of living still sky high . . . you know how important it is to shop wisely. So remember this, Mother . . . when you buy oranges, here's how to pick the real juice-orange:

If it's juice you want, remember to select the thin-skinned FLORIDA orange. You'll get far MORE juice, more vitamins, for much LESS money!

Science Discovers Vitamin B1 Necessary To Help Transform Bread Into Energy

New "Patented Flavor" Wonder Bread Now Proves Doubly Good

① Because It Contains Vitamin B1 To Help Transform It Into Energy
② Because It Stays Fresh Longer

What everybody knows is that bread is a major source of energy—millions of people rely upon their daily bread for 35% of their energy.

But what you may not know is that, according to present scientific findings, you must have Vitamin B1 to properly transform the bread you eat into the energy you need every day.

This brings up the question—do you get enough Vitamin B1 naturally from the food you eat—the way Nature intended? According to U. S. Government Health Officials, 3 out of 4 people fail to eat a good diet to get plenty of Vitamin B1.

Now this does not mean that you do not get enough Vitamin B1 so that the bread you eat does you no good. What it does mean is this—unless you have sufficient Vitamin B1, you cannot transform bread into energy properly.

It's Up To You

The facts show that 90,000,000 man-days' work will be lost this year due to nutritional illnesses alone. A New York State Committee estimates industrial production could be increased 25% by better food. The problem will be solved when wives and mothers put better food on the table and in the lunch boxes of the nation.

A New Kind of Bread

One place to start is bread. Remember—bread accounts for 35% of the daily energy millions need. Now, wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B1 into wheat. But unwise man took it out—trying to make bread whiter.

Then, the noted mining engineer, Theodore Earle, patented a way to prepare wheat for milling which keeps in the flour more natural vitamins and minerals than ever before thought possible.

Further additions made possible the baking of a loaf containing the Vitamin B1 needed.

The name of this new loaf is "patented flavor" Wonder Bread. A bread better for flavor and better for health than old-style white bread. So much so, it has already taken the place of the old kind in over 540,000 American homes.

You see the difference. Gone is the chalk-white look of the ordinary baker's bread. Instead, this new "patented flavor" kind has the color of the cream on the top of a bottle of milk.

To obtain this amazing new "patented flavor" loaf—ask your grocer today for the new Wonder Bread. And see for yourself why women everywhere are quitting ordinary white bread for this new creamy kind at the rate of over 5,000 weekly.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it. Because slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

Remember—this new "patented flavor" Wonder Bread contains Vitamin B1. Get it at your grocer's today. You'll be glad you did!

Only Wonder Bread has "patented flavor." Because only Wonder Bread is made this way from Earle Patented Process Flour under U. S. Pat. Nos. 2143306, 2232697, 2155219, 2232696.

WONDER "PATENTED FLAVOR" BREAD

FRESH WHEN YOU BUY IT—DOUBLY FRESH—FRESH WHEN YOU EAT IT

THE STAGE . . . . By Cecil Smith

The advent of Zasu Pitts in "Her First Murder," one of this column's exclusive predictions, will occur at the Erlanger theater on Monday evening, Jan. 4. Let us hope that the management is unruffled by the fact that Miss Pitts' mystery comedy will open in competition with the premiere of "This Is the Army," an event promising to overshadow anything else that happens that evening. The booking of "Her First Murder" is made this way, of course, because "Priorities of 1942" vacates the Erlanger on Jan. 3.

The latest, and presumably final, information about Maxwell Anderson's "The Eve of St. Mark" names the Harris theater, and not the Selwyn, as the locale of that war play. The first night, Jan. 18, has not been changed. There will be no conflict of openings that week, for "Lady in the Dark" is now officially and finally committed to Jan. 19 at the Civic Opera house.

Since the quick disintegration of "Adamant Eve," that musical adaptation of Sardou's "Divorcons," in San Francisco a month or so ago, news from the Pacific coast takes on a tentative aspect. Louis Cline, the publicist who once promised us "Adamant Eve," now writes of "The Barber Had Two Sons" as another California production scheduled for an early winter engagement in Chicago. The authors are Thomas Duggan, the actor who caricatured Hitler in a Jack Benny picture earlier this year, and James Hogan, Hollywood motion picture director. Melville Burke will direct, and the cast will be headed by Blanche Yurka, Edit Angold, and Herbert Corthell. After a Santa Barbara tryout on New Year's night, a San Francisco run of indeterminate length will begin Jan. 4. If the response there is favorable, Chicago may really see this play.

"It seems to me," writes Marie H. Olmstead, "that the Goodman theater is neglected by the critics. The current 'Importance of Being Earnest' is worth a review." The answer is simple. The Goodman does not want its performances reviewed, feeling that its student actors are not yet ready to face professional criticism, or even, in some cases, to deserve it.

But without violating the request of the Goodman staff, it is not talking outside of school to point out that "The Importance of Being Earnest" [which closes tomorrow evening] is one of the great masterpieces of stylized high comedy, and that the Goodman performance by no means obscures all its wit and amusement.

Exciting Young Pianist Makes Great Success

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, William Steinberg, guest conductor; Leonard Pennario, pianist, in Chicago debut as soloist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Dec. 17, 1942. The program:

"Pinocchio," a merry overture..........Toch
Concerto for Piano and Orchestra......Bliss
[First performance in Chicago.]
Suite, "Schéhérazade"....Rimsky-Korsakoff

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Three notable debuts adorned last night's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall, converging in a triple triumph when Leonard Pennario introduced Arthur Bliss' concerto for piano under the direction of Wilhelm Steinberg.

Mr. Pennario is 18 years old and as exciting as fireworks. He has a wiry brilliance, an almost fabulous dexterity, and a sensitive feeling for the poetry of a phrase. Playing the Bliss concerto, which is a spacious and difficult work, he had a catlike security of timing reminiscent of Horowitz—that same trick of pouncing on a phrase at the precise instant of orchestral impact.

Even more important to Mr. Pennario's future than his brilliance with orchestra is his ability to sustain a solo passage. He had the fluid facility for a gleaming cadenza, and he had, too, the quality that set forth the theme of the slow movement with a gentle beauty that held the keynote of what was to come. Heard in this new concerto, the young pianist had so much to offer it would be a pleasure to hear him again later in the season. He scored last night the kind of success that means box office.

Conducting the concerto from score—he worked otherwise from memory—Mr. Steinberg achieved a solid success of his own. Mr. Bliss wrote the piano concerto for the New York world's fair, dedicating it to the people of the United States, and it was played at Carnegie hall with Adrian Boult conducting and with the English pianist, Solomon, as soloist. Since then all has been silence and it is extremely unlikely that Mr. Steinberg had much time to study the score.

Yet he conducted it clearly, forcibly, and flexibly. It is a big and attractive work, not particularly unconventional and certainly not audacious. Except for tricks of dissonance it has the color and style of music in the romantic mood. The last movement has a good deal of vitality and may easily be Mr. Bliss' notion of what Americans are like. If he thinks we are both a nervous and a lyrical people who blend the moods in a kind of syncopated rhythm, then that movement is a neat compliment from a not too bewildered Britisher.

What Mr. Steinberg did with the concerto was typical of his way with the entire program. He found our orchestra in virtuoso mood and he apparently enjoyed working with it as much as the audience enjoyed listening. For the quicksilver moods of the Toch overture he had precision, resilience, deftness. For the "Schéhérazade" suite he had those things, too, plus a sensuous feeling for the long curving phrases that gave solo instruments a special chance to shine. Altogether it would be pleasant to have some more of Mr. Steinberg, too.

FASHIONS By ANGELA

Here are three simple evening dresses to wear dancing under the mistletoe, or to attend the bride on her wedding day. This year, of course, parties, and weddings, too, will be much less dressy and extravagant than is the normal habit at the holiday season. But there will be plenty of opportunity in spite of that fact to wear a fluffy, feminine frock. Any of these dresses is quite appropriate to the times.

Velvet and chiffon combine in the first dress. Velvet of a heavenly blue is shirred into a basquelike bodice. Chiffon of a matching blue is gathered into a full, flattering bouffant skirt which flutters over a taffeta slip.

The slinky dinner dress comes in a variety of colors. The one sketched was black with gold sequins bordering the rippling peplum and covering the buttons and notched collar. Or you can get it in white with silver, aqua and silver, or gold with gold sequins. It's a rayon crêpe material, built on pencil slim lines. Under $15.

Horizontal stripes of watermelon pink alternate with white shot with gold threads in a crisp taffeta material for the short sleeved bodice. And from under the perky peplum ripples the sheer white skirt.

COMING ATTRACTION.
F. V. and P. notebook for 1942.
Coming sooner than you think.

Man Power.

A Chicagoan who has just completed that 20th century pilgrimage which has drawn far more seekers after something than the Crusades to the Holy Land [namely, a trip to Washington] reports that upon arrival in that haven of turbulent discomfort he hopped into a cab driven by a husky young man. The h. y. m. immediately began to yawn. "That's why I was rejected physically by the army," he mused. "I stay awake for 36 or 48 hours, then drop off suddenly for 24 hours." Our pilgrim disembarked with alacrity and went into a building. Here the elevator operator was an elderly woman. After she had closed the elevator doors, she turned to him. "Does pulling the lever this way make us go up, mister?" she asked. The pilgrim assured her it did. "Then what do you do to stop it?" she quavered. "This is my first day. Nobody told me nuthin'."

Purists All.

Charles Rand, a Chicagoan stationed on an island in the South Pacific, wrote his mother that he and two pals, having little else to do at the moment, decided to improve their diction by renouncing slang. The first night they got along nicely, but the next morning they found a cross erected outside their shelter tent. On it were the words, "St. George's Chapel." Nothing deterred, they continued to speak in exquisite prose and the following night went to an outdoor movie. They were sitting calmly watching the film when suddenly a flashlight was turned on their heads and out of the night called a voice, "Dim your halos!"

Q.—What are the articles of war?
A.—Guns and ammunition.
Q.—Name a lung irritant.

Q.—Ordinarily, who is the first to render a salute?
A.—The Indians, by holding up the hand.

Christmas Note, 1942.

A near north side bookshop has some Christmas cards made of newsprint washed with blue or white or green paint. One, a white card with a cut out Christmas tree of green, was made from the want ad section. Perceptible thru the green of the tree are the words:

For Sale, cheap—17 wooded acres near Lake Placid, complete with motor boat and canoe, cottage with eight bedrooms and servants' quarters and four bedroom guest house.

Military Doodling.

If you are wondering what the American public thinks is the best site for an allied landing in Europe, restaurant tablecloths indicate that it is Italy. The Linen Supply Association of America says that for the first time in a long time amateur strategists are in agreement in the maps they draw on table linen. Since the American landing in Morocco, they have drawn little except the African coastline and Italy.

Pastors Issue Peace Charter of Four Points

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

When Japan launched its attack on Pearl Harbor a year ago, religious peace organizations were blown up with the battleships and other units of the United States Pacific fleet. Among these organizations was the Ministers' No War committee, 740 Rush street, headed by Dr. Albert W. Palmer of Chicago Theological seminary.

Clergy who had declared they would not support the country's participation in war changed their minds when the country was attacked. But in this season of the Prince of Peace these former pacifists and peace leaders have turned their thoughts to the conditions of the peace they were willing, until Pearl Harbor, to fight for if a lasting peace is ever to be achieved out of the present conflict.

Out of the personnel of the ministers' no war committee has emerged the churchmen's committee for a Christian peace, with headquarters at 740 Rush street, with Dr. Palmer at its head, and with the Rev. Dr. Charles F. Boss Jr. of the Methodist peace commission its secretary-treasurer.

Following a retreat and after consultation with some of the most widely known Protestant clergymen in America, the committee issued a Christmas manifesto, which is addressed to churches of all names "in the Christmas spirit of 'peace on earth.'" It points to "confusion in the minds of many Christians with respect to the churches' responsibility in relation to the peace which should follow this war."

Any charter of peace in the coming days, the manifesto points out, is the responsibility of congress. But it adds that congress also is able to formulate public opinion in any matter which it believes the people desire to have crystalized and promulgated as the expression of their sentiment and purpose.

On this ground the manifesto's only call on congress is for the appointment of a congressional commission on the country's peace aims, "containing representatives of all political parties and the most trusted leadership of the churches, education, international law, science, and philanthropy." The manifesto suggests constant sessions of the commission during the war, conducting public hearings and giving due consideration to proposals for peace aims from whatever responsible source they may come.

Based on a democratic creed which dignifies the worth of man and emphasizes "interdependence in the family of God," the manifesto, seeking abolition of imperialism in all areas of life, political, social, economic, educational, and religious," sets forth a four point program.

These points cover the rights of man, the rights of nations, freedom for all peoples, and opportunities for the individual citizen. These points are advocated for study by youth and adult groups in churches, schools, and communities.

The manifesto was signed by 70 clergymen of many communions across the nation. Among Chicago signers are the Reverend Doctors George M. Gibson, Harold L. Bowman, Albert B. Coe, Fred Eastman, C. Wesley Israel, Harold Lunger, Lynn J. Radcliffe, Harris F. Rall, Harold Ruopp, Ernest F. Tittle, Charles L. Venable, and the Rt. Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Randall. Among other signers are Harry E. Fosdick, New York; Bernard E. Clausen, Pittsburgh, Pa.; John Haynes Holmes, New York; Mark Shaw, Boston, Mass., and Edwin M. Poteat, Cleveland, O.

Stritch to Be Celebrant at Christmas Eve Mass

Archbishop Samuel H. Stritch will celebrate the solemn pontifical mass at midnight Christmas eve in Holy Name cathedral. The Rev. Charles Meter will direct the cathedral choristers in the singing of the mass. The proper will be sung by members of the Quigley Plain Chant choir. The Rev. Joseph P. Morrison, pastor, will preside at the novena each evening at 8 o'clock up to and including Thursday.

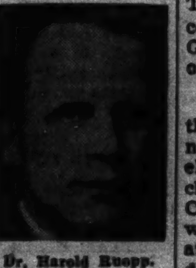
Rev. Donald Kline to Start His New Ministry Sunday

The Rev. Donald Boyd Kline, recently ordained by Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, will begin his ministry Sunday as pastor of the Church of Our Saviour, 530 Fullerton parkway. Bishop Conkling announced the appointment of the new pastor.

Christmas News Notes

With Christmas day falling late in Christmas week this year, many churches have designated next Sunday as Christmas Sunday. Programs of many prominent churches are listed today in this column.

Dr. Harold Ruopp will preach on "God with Us" at Central church, Orchestra hall, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The Central church chorus, under the direction of William Hughes, in coöperation with Dr. Ruopp, will sing the Christmas story in Scripture and song, Daniel Protheroe's "Joyful Morn" and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" will be included in the service.



Dr. Harold Ruopp.

"When Love Touches Life" will be Dr. Lynn J. Radcliffe's Christmas Sunday sermon subject at First Methodist church, Oak Park. Dr. Francis S. Moore, organist and choir director, announces the "Hallelujah Chorus" and the Pastoral symphony from Handel's "Messiah."

The 91st Christmas at the former New First Congregational church, Union park, will bring a notable religious program for services on Sunday. At a recent meeting of church officials, the name of the church was changed from New First to First Congregational church. Dr. Oswald W. S. McCall, minister, will preach at 11 o'clock on "Wings Over Bethlehem," and Dr. William Lester, organist, will play his own arrangement of a rhapsody on Christmas carols.

"The Pageant of the Holy Nativity" will be presented at Fourth Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night. This pageant by David McK. Williams, a tradition in Fourth church, will be directed by Mrs. Robert G. Peterson, with Barrett L. Spach, organist, in charge of the music. The cast includes members of the Sunday Bible school. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor of the church, will preach the Christmas Sunday sermon at 11 o'clock.

Prof. Albert Beck is director of "Rays of the Star of Bethlehem," a pageant to be presented at 7:30 o'clock Christmas eve during children's services in First St. Paul's Lutheran church, Goethe and La Salle streets. The Rev. Henry Kowert, pastor, will conduct Christmas day services in German at 9 and in English at 11 o'clock.

The congregation of St. Paul's Lutheran church, North Canfield avenue near Higgins road, will have a remodeled, refurnished, and rededicated church for its Christmas eve and Christmas day services. The church will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states, will be the dedication preacher.

Holiday services at Moody Memorial church, Clark street and North avenue, will open at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, with Dr. H. A. Ironside preaching on "Incarnation." The chorus will sing under the direction of J. Stratton Shufelt.

A patriotic pre-Christmas program will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday night in St. Peter's Catholic church, Clark and Polk streets. Youth groups will sing carols at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Tower chimes on Reformation Lutheran church, South Jeffery boulevard and 80th street, will be dedicated at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Rev. John M. Spaid, pastor, to the memory of the late Ensign George Metz, who was fatally injured in an airplane accident while in training at Pensacola, Fla. The chimes, with an amplifying device, were given by Ensign Metz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Metz, 8139 Euclid avenue.

A worship-gift service will be held Sunday morning at Irving Park Presbyterian church, Keeler and Belle Plaine avenues. The Rev. Dr. G. A. Papperman, minister, will deliver the Christmas address.

Nuns in War Work

[THE TRIBUNE would be glad to hear of special war services by pastors or members of religious communities who are helping win the war in addition to their regular duties. Address the Rev. John Evans, Religion Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

Least publicized of the nation's woman volunteers, many Catholic nuns thruout the country are going "the second mile" for the war. Some are air raid wardens, others operate farm tractors where help is short, and still others are teachers of aeronautics, nursing, and welfare work in addition to their religious duties.

At Institutum Divi Thomae, Cincinnati, O., long research by sisters has helped produce biodyne, which some call the "wonder preparation" for the treatment of burns. This is a great war time boon to service men sufferers and to civilians. The Chicago fire department carries five pounds of the preparation in each of its life squad cars.

Sister Mary Petronella Schroeder, C. PP. S., of the institute, has developed a method for sterilizing drinking water and sewage by electrolysis and salt instead of by the use of chlorine, which is needed in many war industries and in some synthetic rubber production processes. It is estimated her method will release thousands of tons of chlorine for war.

Six Sisters of Charity of Seton Hill at St. Vincent's college, Latrobe, Pa., are members of a class of army glider pilots. Sisters are enrolled in aeronautics at Loyola university, New Orleans, La. At Ursuline college, New Rochelle, N. Y., sisters are studying Morse code, motor mechanics, and map interpretation in order to teach these subjects.

Sisters at Mount Alvernia, Reading, Pa., have adapted themselves to agricultural pursuits, and sisters are cultivating a large farm acreage at Nazareth college, Rochester, N. Y. At Lemont, Ill., Mount Assisi nuns last August harvested grain with scythes and rakes.

Santa Cruz, Cal., "model" defense city of the Pacific coast, is so called because of the leadership of Sister Madeline, a Sister of Charity of St. Paul. Five hundred and eighty-six nuns of 22 communities have received their certificates as air raid wardens in St. Louis, Mo., after completing courses in fire and gas defense.

Nancy Palmer Will Be Among Holiday Brides

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHRISTMAS debut parties may fall well behind Christmas weddings this winter, for each day brings new wedding plans. The Dudley C. Palmers, who have returned to Winnetka from the east, are issuing hurried invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, and Lt. Robert G. Plunkett next Wednesday in Christ church chapel, Winnetka, and to a reception following at the Indian Hill club.

The wedding plans were made suddenly when Lt. Plunkett received a four day leave between leaving his present post in California and reporting for duty in Louisville, Ky. He will arrive next Tuesday, it is hoped, the day that his parents and young sister, the Edmund Robert Plunketts and Molly, are coming from Pelham, N. Y. They will stay with Mrs. Plunkett's brother, John Gardner, in Highland Park.

Miss Palmer will have her sister, Mrs. David Schoonmaker, as her matron of honor. Lt. Schoonmaker, U. S. N. R., and his wife now are in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Harold Wilder is giving a luncheon on the day of the wedding, and there will be an informal dinner the night before provided Lt. Plunkett is here.

Shower Will Be Given for Courtney Ann Reid.

Mrs. John Coffin is giving a kitchen shower and tea today for Miss Courtney Ann Reid, who will be married on Christmas day to the hostess' brother, Midshipman James H. Ingersoll. Tomorrow night the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Reid, will give the bridal dinner in their Ellis avenue home.

Mrs. Walter Pace and her daughter, Miss Joan, will be hostesses at cocktails on Tuesday for Miss Reid, and on the following day Midshipman Ingersoll's aunt, Mrs. Stephen L. Ingersoll, is entertaining for her nephew and his fiancée. On Christmas eve young Mr. Ingersoll will receive his commission as ensign from the naval reserve school at Northwestern university. The 4:30 o'clock wedding on Christmas day in St. Paul's Episcopal church will be followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Robert S. Ingersoll, who is the bride's sister as well as wife of the bridegroom's brother, will be matron of honor in the wedding, and her little daughter, Lynn, is to be flower girl.

Isabelle Johnson Being Married Christmas Day.

Miss Isabelle Johnson and Earle Adare Channer Jr. suddenly have decided to be married on Christmas afternoon, so that the bride's brother, Horton, may give her in marriage before he reports for service with the army. The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock in the Kenilworth home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Homer H. Johnson. Miss Caroline Johnson, who arrived at home yesterday from Vassar college, will be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Channer will serve as best man for his son.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Channer will give a dinner party for the two families at their farm in Libertyville. Their son and his bride will live on the north shore while he is awaiting his call from the army air corps.

Drake-O'Brien Wedding to Take Place Dec. 26.

When Lt. Gene Francis Drake arrives on Christmas eve from Westover field, Springfield, Mass., he will have just two days to prepare for his marriage to Miss Shirley McCormick O'Brien. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock on the 26th in Christ church, Winnetka, with a reception following in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. O'Brien of Winnetka.

Lt. Drake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford W. Drake, will give the bridal dinner on Christmas night in their Wilmette home. The rest of Miss O'Brien's prenuptial parties will be over by the time her fiancé arrives.

Yesterday Miss Marjorie Clark and Miss Betty Eberhart gave a shower for her, and the night before Mrs. John Hopkins entertained at dinner. Tomorrow Mrs. John Searle, whose little daughter, Susan, will be Miss O'Brien's flower girl, is giving a tea and kitchen shower. Miss Carolyn Gubbins' tea on Sunday, the spinster dinner which Miss Mary Virginia Donovan will give on Monday, and a luncheon Tuesday, with Miss Dorothy Amend and Miss Nancy McCloud as hostesses, conclude the list of parties.

Debutante Linda Meyer to Be Luncheon Guest.

The Robert Tiekens are practically snowbound at their Libertyville farm, but their debutante daughter, Miss Linda Meyer, plans to follow the

Private School Pupils Sharing Christmas Joy

Collecting clothing and toys for less fortunate children has become a part of the Christmas holiday closing time program of many of Chicago's private schools.

Form one of the Boys' Latin school has been collecting toys and clothing. The pupils in the Bateman school are filling stockings for bluejackets. The youngest students at the Faulkner school yesterday brought presents to the school to hang on the big Christmas tree. The older girls stripped the tree and delivered the toys, and clothing, too, to Fellowship house. Students at the Harris schools will bring presents to the school tree today which later will be distributed at the Margaret Etter crèche and the Visiting Nurse association.

The Girls' Latin school is closing its holiday festivities with the middle school's play and carols today. The school's Girl Scout troop gave a Christmas party for the Olivet Settlement school troop.

The North Shore Country Day school will close today after the ninth grade play, John Masefield's "The Coming of Christ," is presented. There will be no classes today at the Roycemore school. Alumnae have been invited, to the upper school's annual program of carols and Scriptures at 2 o'clock.

At the Francis Parker school, eighth grade and high school age pupils and their parents will gather for the Christmas vesper service at 5 o'clock today. The Bell school in Lake Forest will close at noon today after a program of carols. The kindergarten children will give a party for their mothers.

The Harris' first and second grades will present "The Little Engine That Could" today, and then classes will be over until Jan. 5. The Faulkner school smallest children will give a play today, and then classes will be over until Jan. 4.

Holiday Ball to Be Given by Army and Navy Club

The Army and Navy club is giving a Christmas ball for the army, navy, marine, and coast guard officers in this area on Tuesday, Dec. 29, at the Lake Shore club. The party will start at 9 o'clock.

Thru the Looking Glass

For those men who wander into the shops these days with money in their pockets and a harassed look in their eyes, muttering bashfully about something extra-special for the little woman we can suggest a couple of costly perfumes today. They're frankly expensive, but worth it.

One, at $35 an ounce, is a rarely beautiful fragrance with all the elegant distinction a perfume at that price ought to have. Its base is tuberose, than which nothing is more lush, and it's subtly blended with other notes that combine to make it one of the most warm, stirring fragrances we have. It's an eloquently rich perfume, made for the woman who loves elegant clothes.

There are perfumes with more exotic tones, but few with as much of the romantic quality. It's simply bottled, classically packaged—but the amber colored liquid itself is concentrated value in fine scent. Naturally, because its essences are of the best, it's one of the most lasting perfumes. It must be used on flesh or fur; its oils will stain many fabrics. It's an aristocrat among the fine perfumes that originated in France.

Another, at $100 an ounce, is a haunting jasmin, an Egyptian translation that is heavy and heady. The chunky, cut crystal bottle is appropriately jewellike. There isn't a great deal of this in town, of course, but for the woman who likes a perfume she knows few other women can wear, and one that is languorously lovely, it's the answer to some male shoppers' prayers.

Last Minute Shopper Will Find Aid Here

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Have you left that all important gift for him or her to the last? Or do you have to rush out and get a last minute gift for Aunt Susie or Uncle Tom who slipped your mind in your early Christmas shopping?

If either of these emergencies is at hand, now is the time to do something about it. Chicago stores are still stocked with lovely, appropriate gifts for men and women. Your only worry is to decide among a wealth of practical and luxurious items certain to please even the most fastidious woman or man.

For her, an ideal gift would be a pair of velvet pajamas, warm and beautiful. One pair on display in a large department store is of dark, blue chiffon velvet, the trousers draped and high, the jacket, embroidered in bright, red and green wool flowers. This garb would be perfect for entertaining when the house is patriotically at only 65 degrees.

Strictly a luxurious item, is a hammered silver belt to dress up any tailored frock. Made by the Indians in the southwest, the belts are decorated in Indian motifs and several abound in aquamarine stones. For that special appearance in polite society, there are white kid gauntlets, soft and impeccable. One pair that is certain to stand out, is trimmed in gold leaves for very formal occasions.

Gold is a good note this season and among glittering gifts are gold earrings, clips, pins, and bracelets. One entire set uses a graceful modernistic bird as a design.

The charm of fine linens would be appreciated by Aunt Susie. There are luster cloths in the most delicate pastel tones, and gay, bright, cocktail napkins that compliment any hostess. One cocktail napkin set uses figures of the gay '90s for amusement. If Aunt Susie is very special, there is an expensive but breathtaking tablecloth of fine white organdy with two encrusted panels of gold leaves running down the center. The napkins are three-quarters linen for practical purposes.

Uncle Tom, the golfer, would be pleased with a dozen golf balls made of reprocessed materials or a box containing gloves for his favorite woods and scores of sturdy, red and white tees. If his outdoor sport is hunting, a luncheon case would be appropriate. One case of simulated leather with zipper top holds two quart thermos jugs and a large food box.

For him there are many things; a matched luggage set or a satin lounging robe being among the favorite items. One luggage set is very masculine, dark brown leather with beveled rounded edges and thick, practical straps. The lounging robes come in dark blues, maroons, startling black and white designs or solid colors.

For inexpensive items to fill up the gaps beneath the Christmas tree there are handsome gold plated cuff links with simulated jeweled stones, leather clogs with crossed thongs, and lucite military brushes and comb. For the traveling man, soft leather bedroom slippers and a matching case, which take up little room in a bag, are clever.

For a man's den and bar, there are loads of unusual items—a bottle opener concealed by a handsome, wooden horse's head; gayly painted wooden ducks for decoration; a cigaret lighter fitted into a small leather boot; and book ends of bright wooden birds.

If practicality must be served first this Christmas and what he really needs is a hat, there is a solution to the problem. It is definite that a woman cannot pick out a hat for a man, but she can give him a certificate for one. An attractive idea being sponsored by several stores, is a small hat box containing a cellophane top hat of Walt Disney figures. Beneath the hat is the certificate for his gift.

But whatever your shopping problem is, there are hundreds of solutions in Chicago stores and the time to straighten it out is now!

Women in War Work . . . . By Kate Massee

The original WOWS, the "girls behind the man behind the guns," will mark their first Christmas with a party at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon for fellow employés of the Hurley Machine company in Cicero and service men from the Chicago area. Members of Post No. 1, Women's Ordnance Workers, Inc., will hold their party at the Warren park community house, 56th court and 16th street in the village, in a holly and tinsel setting far removed from the drone of war machinery.

Two Christmas trees are being erected for the occasion, and the program, according to Miss Stephanie Gondek, chairman, will be rich with variety. A Christmas skit will be presented, followed by dancing, refreshments, and games. Miss Gondek isn't quite sure of the number of service men who will attend. "We've invited army, navy, marine, and coast guardsmen from nearby bases, tho," she said.

The WOWS came into being at the Hurley Machine company on Sept. 22 when E. N. Hurley Jr, president of the firm, excused the women workers for a half hour meeting. The group proved an immediate success, and more than 75 plants all over the nation have inquired about its activities. Post No. 1 has 700 members and other posts have been organized at the Chicago Thrift company, the Elgin Watch company, and a plant in Syracuse, N. Y. Still another post, composed of women workers at the Ammunition Container corporation in Harvey, will start its program on Sunday.

The aims of the WOWS are to maintain health, promote patriotism, and develop friendship and coöperation among women workers within its organizations. Mrs. Josephine Novak,

The Chicago Business and Professional Women's auxiliary of B'nai B'rith, which set out a few weeks ago to sell $75,000 in war bonds, went far beyond the original expectations, for members sold $201,800 worth—enough to build a light bomber. In making the announcement, Mrs. Louis L. Mann, chairman of Jewish women's activities for the Chicago and Cook county war saving staff, paid tribute to the efforts of the members.

Fifty women are among the 73 students who will complete their studies today in two classes in war mapping at the University of Chicago. The course in topographic map drafting will be completed by 41 women. Nine will wind up their specialized training in photogrammetry—the making of maps from aerial photographs.

Henry M. Leppard, director of the course, said that because the need for cartographers capable of making military maps is so urgent, every woman in the class who is willing to go to Washington, D. C., can be placed at once with the United States geological survey.

Three new courses in mapping will be started on Jan. 6, and applications for enrollment are being accepted now. High school graduation is a prerequisite for enrollment in topographic map drafting. Two years of college training, with emphasis on mathematics or the physical sciences, is required for the photogrammetry course. Two years of civil engineering will also provide a basis for admission, if the applicant has had trigonometry and mechanical drawing. A third course in cartography is open to college seniors or graduates. Women registering for the courses should be willing to go to Washington, or wherever their services are required.

The 1,000th WAAC to be enrolled at the new Chicago recruiting office, 16 West Van Buren street, was sworn in yesterday. She is Mrs. Frances Malo, 27 years old, of 4822 North Hamilton avenue, formerly a timekeeper for an electrical manufacturing company. Mrs. Malo said that she was anxious to help because her husband, Edward, is a third class radio operator in naval service somewhere in the south Pacific, and her brother, George McNicol, a marine paratrooper, in action overseas. She was among 60 enrollees accepted for training.

A war engineering course for women, designed to relieve the shortage of male engineers, will be started on Feb. 8 by the Illinois Institute of Technology, Henry T. Heald, president, has announced. The enrollment will be limited to 100 women who are high school graduates. They will attend classes 40 hours a week for three semesters of 16 weeks each.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Celebrate Mother Cabrini Anniversary on Tuesday

A celebration of the 25th anniversary of Mother Cabrini will be observed by the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart in the Columbus hospital next Tuesday. Lingerie of Silk Makes Perfect Christmas Gift

BY REA SEEGER.

The woman doesn't live who will not thrill to a gift of lingerie. This year the welcome will be even more audible if you send pieces of real silk, and that means they probably are worth their gossamer weight in Fort Knox gold. Lingerie of silk is the glamor gift, something to make a lasting impression, whether costume slips, soft clinging negligee and matching nightgowns, or the nightgowns. There are silk lingerie pieces available that you'd think they'd keep in padded cases locked securely, but some of the most delectable nightgowns ever trimmed with frills and foams of lace ribbon and handwork are hanging temptingly in one shop, just for the benefit of Christmas gift shoppers.

There are comparatively simple gowns of crêpe and gleaming satins, and others with the bodice tops made of fine lace in alternate bands with the satin or crêpe. There are filmy silk chiffons and a few ninons in flesh, pink and white and that indescribably lovely sky blue so flattering to blondes and coppertops. Many of the blue, flesh, and white satin gowns are accented with bands of chiffon or net. Some have elaborate applique motifs along the yoke lines and repeated along the tie-belt in front.

Simply designed nightgowns without benefit of lace, embroidery or handwork accent, do have semi-tailored details such as fagoted bands, tiny thread thin tucks, and flat shirrings and some with dainty patterns of smocking.

Ninon gowns are especially delightful gifts for summer wear as are the many lovely floral printed chiffons. Many of the beautiful matched nightgowns and negligees are still available, some with the gown of satin and the negligee of matching colored sheer. The wicked all-black lingerie, gowns, negligees, slips, and chemises made of chiffon and black lace are the choice of all the masculine shoppers, according to the records!

Frocks Play Varied Roles

TWO NEW WINTER FROCKS.

Your dresses this winter should be the kind that play double or triple rôles. Two such frocks are those in our patterns today. At the left, a social minded model with ruffling for trimming. Right, a frock with suit ideas.

Style No. 3365 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material with 1½ yards of ruffling.

Style No. 3551 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch fabric with ¼ yard contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

All the Tree Trimmings Can Be Homemade

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Just what the supply of Christmas trees will be this year seems to be uncertain right now. In answer to my inquiries I have received rather conflicting reports. Certainly, reduced labor and transportation facilities will be factors. So I shall go ahead on the basis that there will be trees, but not as many as usual.

In buying Christmas trees, those of us who have operated on a limited budget know that the larger, more symmetrical trees are the more expensive, and as I remember, this is especially so of the balsams. If you are limited in expenditures, and especially if your tree is to be placed in a corner of the room, you can get by with a tree that is well shaped almost all the way around by turning the less beautiful side toward the wall. We usually made our choice, however, in favor of a smaller tree, but one perfect in shape.

If you are still further limited, you can trim your ideas down to a tree of large table size. The children can derive from it just as much Christmas joy as out of a towering one. In fact, for the baby's first or second tree I think a very little one is preferable, and, when decked with only silver or white decorations, or both, its size and intimacy make it seem more suitable.

If the tree is not to burst all trimmed as a surprise upon the children, or if they are past the belief-in-Santa-Claus age, there is lots of fun for them to be had out of trimming the tree and even making things for it. And, incidentally, I believe it's worth bearing in mind that a tree doesn't have to be loaded with decorations to be entrancing.

It might be fun, one year, to trim your tree entirely with articles made at home.

Strings of snow white, home popped corn come next. Use white thread, quite strong; but be sure the darning needle is not too coarse. Start and end the string by tying on a piece of corn to prevent slipping.

Tiny toys, such as little trucks or dolls or reindeer or Santa Clauses or other inexpensive gifts, might be put on by mother and father after the young tree trimmers are in bed.

Tarlatan in red or white, if it is still to be had, is very jolly and old fashioned if made into bags and sewed with red worsted in big stitches. The shapes may be square or oblong. Filled with popcorn or goodies, they may be tied with a draw string of the worsted, and hung on the tree.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Keeping Flexible.

The girl was describing her job. "My two bosses," she said, "are direct opposites. One is a penny pincher; the other a magnificent spendthrift; one would haggle over 5 cents; the other thrills to orders on the books and never looks to see if there is a dollar profit at the end of the month; one likes to see the wheels go 'round; his partner cares only for the ring of the cash register. Some days when I nod in the direction of first one, then the other, the back of my neck gets a bit lame, but, on the whole, it's good for me—it keeps me flexible."

As she talked I thought: "This is one of the essentials of a good business personality: adaptability to different temperaments and points of view. It's one of the main considerations in the employment of an older woman: she must convince the boss that the years haven't given her an inelastic mind. Men don't like a rumpus; they don't want to fuss with an employé to get something done their way. Whether they're at their desks or at home in their slippers, they want some one around who is comfortably adaptable.

"And," I thought—still talkin' to meself—"why do we grumble because we have to cope with other people's quirks? It's a break that we do; it's what keeps us livable people. We'd be pretty terrible otherwise, wouldn't we? Would we want to try to get along with some one who had lived in a hut all alone for years . . . who had forgotten how to say, 'Excuse me' . . . or 'I'm sorry'?

"What can you do to keep flexible? Do you like the ballet? No? Then go to it! Give it a whirl! Do you enjoy symphonic music? No? Listen to it on the radio! Do you wear red? Never? Buy some red costume jewelry! Do you read biographies? Too dull? Get one from the rental library! Does the girl at the next desk look like some one you'd care to know? Not by a long shot? Take her out to lunch! Get her point of view. Stretch . . . take a deep breath and stretch your mind."

Spelling Words.

Muriel sends these words to add to the spelling list: Detector, perforated, canvass [the verb], ordnance [munitions, as opposed to ordinance, a law], practicable, reversible, principal [a sum of money].

Telephone Service.

Countless letters of appreciation come to the telephone company for quick, helpful service in an emergency, yet there are many persons who are not aware of how many times, when all else fails, the telephone girl steps in and saves a life.

Last week a young woman who had retired from an office job to look after her family was taken seriously ill in the night. The husband telephoned for a cab. A cab? Why, there wasn't a taxi to be had that cold, wintry night! Then the young husband called the police to see if there was some way to get his wife to the hospital. "We have no control over the taxicabs" the sergeant said, and that was that. A moment later the telephone rang. It was the telephone supervisor. Were they having trouble? Indeed, yes. It was imperative to get the young mother to the hospital. Less then 10 minutes afterward a taxi drove up to the front door—courtesy of the telephone supervisor . . . nothing at all . . . merely part of her job, she said.

Women Sought to Take Men's Jobs for Army

Tulsa, Okla, Dec. 17 (AP).—The army is seeking women to teach those one-time masculine subjects of hydraulics, aeronautics and electrical systems.

Women—and men over draft age—will be used to release to combat duty youngsters now assigned as teachers.

At the request of the air forces technical training command, third district, the Women's National Aeronautical association has started a nation-wide drive for 5,000 to 10,000 qualified women and over-age men instructors.

Capt. Earl M. Knighton, in charge of civilian employment for the third district AFTTC, said the command began training some women as instructors about a month ago.

"Women make excellent instructors and are doing exceptionally well," he said.

Brig. Gen. H. C. Davidson, commanding general of the Mississippi delta area for the AFTTC, said instructors were needed because of a reduction of the ratio between students and teachers.

"Instead of having a large group of men sitting in a classroom listening to a lecture, we are taking small groups of five to eight men out where we can give a practical demonstration," he said.

Those with teaching, technical or aviation experience may qualify. Those qualifying as student instructors, at $1,620 yearly, will be given a short period of intensive training, and then become junior instructors at $2,000. The instructors will be civil service employés and will teach such subjects as basic fundamentals of aeronautics, hydraulics, propellers, instruments, and electrical systems.

Sunday Evening Club Will Hear Carols and Bishop Hobson's Talk

The 36th Christmas celebration of the Chicago Sunday Evening club will be opened Sunday night by 100 children carolers singing amid holly and poinsettias on the great stage of Orchestra hall. The carolers are from the Civic Music Children's association. The main speaker at the 8 o'clock service will be Bishop Henry Wise Hobson of the Episcopal diocese of southern Ohio. Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago and Clifford W. Barnes, president of the club, will take part in the service. Bishop Hobson, a major in the first World war who was decorated for bravery under fire, has been recalled to the club pulpit many times.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

There are times when one should "slow up" partner with discouraging responses or rebids; there are other times when one should give him a bright green "go ahead" signal. The catch, of course, is to decide which of these is the correct action on the hand in point.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

There was nothing to the play of the hand. Twelve tricks were readily available. There were, however, several points of bidding decidedly worthy of notice.

Many readers probably will take violent exception to South's enthusiastic bidding on what they will conceive to be anything but a strong hand. The fact is, however, that South bid his hand magnificently! For one thing, he avoided two successive pitfalls into which most players would inevitably tumble. The first of these was his rebid after North's original jump take-out. Ninety-eight per cent of players, I fear, now would bid two no trump on the South hand in an effort to show balanced distribution, "no extra values," and with the desire of dampening North's ardor. This particular South had a vastly different idea. The fact that he had absolutely nothing in spades, and that he did have the fitting diamond queen, was enough, in his eyes, to justify the raise of diamonds. On the next round, after North's three heart bid, South persisted in his refusal to "sign off" at no trump. If North had diamonds and hearts, and presumably some sort of fit with clubs because of his original jump take-out South had no intention of "slowing up" North by implying values in the spade suit, which North would regard as worthless. South had no such values, hence there was no reason to fear "duplication."

Rather than make the discouraging rebid of three no trump, South shrewdly preferred the highly unorthodox action of rebidding his four card club suit. Now, when North showed club support, South virtually had a photograph of the North hand. South was so sure about North's singleton spade [at most] that he had no hesitancy in jumping all the way to six diamonds, this jump being based largely on the fact that his queen of clubs, in connection with the ace and king and with North's club raise, guaranteed club solidity.

Good Morning!

D-d-d-DON'T be scared! The "death doctor" is dead. But, O me, O my, what a blood curdling cuss he was! By day, a suave and respected professor of abnormal psychology. By night a soup kitchen saint before and a homicidal maniac behind. [Like one of those whitefaced dolls that's a black faced doll when you turn it around. . . . You've guessed it, I've been buying toys.]

This anomaly is known by day as Prof. Brenner. . . . Night time finds him Karl Wagner, who operates a mission and soup kitchen as a cover-up for varied criminal practices. Human life is just a succession of poufs to him. . . . Use a man—and then kill him so that he can't turn squealer. . . . Into this spider's net come escaped criminals, believing that with Wagner they've found safety. Each man is assigned to some job—safe breaking or what have you—that has been his specialty. . . . When he returns with the goods, the boss' killers take care of him.

Or so thinks the boss. Little he knows of what goes on in the mind and the secret haunts of Doc Brooks—a once famous surgeon, sunk low. . . . I think you'll be rather agreeably surprised by some of the developments in this game of horror hockey.

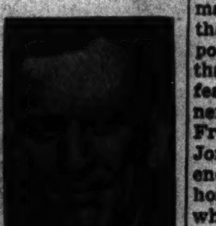
The unimportant romantic angle is provided by the pretty blonde social worker who assists Wagner and a young man named Dennison, who's a student in Prof. Brenner's psychology class.

The picture is well provided with coffins, secret passages, graves, and gentlemen with fearsome faces. . . . It speeds right along under able direction and, for all its improbability, holds your interest. The acting is just what the story needed.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 17.—Noel Coward has done his England a great service. I've always contended the screen, properly used, is the finest medium for good ever put in the hands of man. And Coward's picture, "In Which We Serve," will do more good than all the statesmen, lecturers, and politicians combined have done in our country. After seeing it, I now know why "Mrs. Miniver" wasn't so popular over there. With the exception of Dame May Whitty and Teresa Wright, the characters in that were too noble for the English people. Noel's picture shows that war isn't noble. War is hell. It's not entertaining, but it will stick in your mind long after you've forgotten the pictures which are. . . . When Merle Oberon finishes three pictures here, she'll go to England to star in "War and Peace," which her husband, Alexander Korda, will produce there. Her leading man again will be Laurence Olivier, who will be given time out from his war duties. It was in Goldwyn's "Wuthering Heights" that Merle and Olivier did their finest acting.



Noel Coward.

Don't We Have Fun.

That's a quaint suit of Madeleine Carroll's over her income tax, claiming French orphans as dependents. It'll be interesting to see how it turns out. You've got to give her an "A" for trying. . . . It's expected Col. Daryl Zanuck will fly out from Washington, D. C., over the week-end to see his family. . . . Louis B. Mayer may be held up in New York longer than he thinks—he can't get transportation home. . . . Understand that Edward G. Robinson, who was a feature on the contract list at Warners for 10 years, is no longer there. From now on he'll free lance. . . . Jon Hall goes into the coast guard end of this week. . . . It was old home week for Sergt. Billy Haines when he took 25 of his buddies over to Metro and Eddie Manix took time out to show them all over the lot. . . . John Sutton, Englishman, has taken out his first citizenship papers.

You Can Relax Now.

More rumors have circulated about what Jean Gabin will do next. First, he turned down "Tampico"—didn't like the story. Then he was set to do "Jean Val Jean." Now it's "Candle in the Wind," the Maxwell Anderson play which Helen Hayes and Paul Henreid did on the stage. The story deals with an American movie actress and her French sweetheart in Paris during the German invasion. . . . MacKinlay Kantor has the job of putting "Mr. Bullfinch Takes a Walk" into screen form. Mr. Bullfinch was the nom de plume Winston Churchill used on his trip to South America. Churchill will be played by either Thomas Mitchell or Cedric Hardwicke. . . . That fine actress, Mary Servoss, is doing the part they wanted Fay Bainter for in "So Proudly We Hail." Mary's so good, she may get a contract.

Still Building.

Some nine years ago 14 year old Dawn O'Day played in "Finishing School." It was written by David Hempstead and starred Ginger Rogers. Today Dawn, now known as Ann Shirley, was set by Producer Hempstead for the second lead with Ginger Rogers in "Gibson Girl," which Ginger plans to do after finishing "Lady in the Dark." . . . John Steinbeck speaks, or writes, to Nunnally Johnson and states the picture, "The Moon Is Down," carries on where the book and play left off, and is infinitely better than either, or both. In fact, John, who's a reluctant cuss with words unless he's being paid for them, went off in paeans of praise.

New Title.

You can call Bugsy Siegel a life saver. Because of his friendship for George Givot, he persuaded George, who had a plane reservation, to stay over a day longer in Chicago. Plane was the one that crashed near Salt Lake, and 17 lives were lost. Now George can't get transportation home. . . . Jennifer Holt is entertaining two English flyers—friends of her friend, Robin Sinclare. And because they couldn't buy silk stockings for their girls in England, Jennifer handed over 10 pairs which she was hoarding for the future. . . . Mitchell Leisen just signed a million dollar contract at Paramount, which will keep him directing there from now on. . . . Hank Bell, a cowboy with the handle bar mustache, for some unknown reason got himself into the present Jean Arthur picture. When a friend cracked, "How in heaven's name did they get you off the range and into society?" Hank flipped, "Every son-of-gun gets to Washington these days."

Trying to Help Out.

Stepping into George Thomas' office at Paramount, found his desk and all office space piled high with filled stockings. When I said, "How come?" he told me his wife had the idea of filling them for the man who couldn't get leave on Christmas and were stuck back in the hills and the valleys doing the loneliest and toughest kind of jobs. Already 4,500 stockings have been filled and are ready for delivery. Nor is Hollywood forgetting those thousands of men stuck down in the desert at Camp Young. We're trying to make their day a little less lonely by piling up presents for those who can't come into the canteen or USO. . . . And the Metro secretaries, bless 'em, filled 200 stockings. Turned them over to Travelers Aid to be given boys coming thru on Christmas day. One of the girls I know over there writes letters to 12 boys weekly. How she squeezes it in with her tough job is beyond me.

The Blackhawks this morning will welcome Defenseman Art Wiebe, their prodigal teammate, who has been busy making victory biscuits and succulent cookies up in Alberta. Only trouble about the joyous welcoming program was that the reception committee last night was so enthralled with the prospect that the members forgot to play hockey until well along in the third period of their game with the Detroit Red Wings. As a result of their preoccupation, they took a 3 to 1 licking before 7,048 in Chicago Stadium.

The Hawks averted what would have been their first shutout in 17 games this season when Red Hamill scored on an assist by Earl Seibert in 8:25 of the final period while Doug Bentley of the Hawks and Don Grosso and Jim Orlando of the Wings were in the penalty box.

Howe Breaks Away.

After they found they could score the Hawks played with belated ferocity, but, tho there was a span when Brown and Alex Motter were serving minor penalties and Orlando a misconduct term, the Chicagoans obviously couldn't catch up to the two second period goals of the visitors. To make things the more depressing, Syd Howe broke away and scored on a solo with 56 seconds of the game to go.

The defeat was the first of the season administered to the Hawks by the Detroiters. One game in Detroit was a 3 to 3 standoff and the Hawks were victors here Nov. 19, 6 to 2. The result sank the Hawks from their second place tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs to a third-fourth place tie with the Wings, a game behind Toronto and 2½ games behind the leading Boston Bruins, whom they will meet in the Stadium Sunday night.

The first period of last night's affair not only was scoreless but listless and the second session presented nothing better until after the half way point.

Behling Hits First.

With both teams at full strength, Dick Behling counted in 11:43 of the second period. Conny Brown picked up the rubber on neutral ice, passed the blue line in an arc toward his right, then passed across the mouth of the cage to Behling who batted home the game's first tally without much of a challenge.

Five minutes and 11 seconds after their first goal, the Wings netted another, this time with the Hawks shorthanded because Red Mitchell was serving time for interference. The Wings promptly put on a power play, and the Hawks almost had it broken up when Joe Carveth shoved out to Bill Jennings who was on his right boards about ten feet inside the blue line. Jennings took a backhanded swish of the kind that always has steam but rarely accuracy. However this one was on the beam and sailed past a cluster of both Wings and Hawks and into the cage.

Howe Adds an Extra.

Then came Hamill's goal and stepped up play, with the Hawks developing many chances but nary a goal. The Howe goal was made after the Hawks had gone forward to press for a tie. Syd went straight at Goalie Bert Gardiner on the break away and was easily out of reach of all Hawk challengers to make the superfluous marker.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE text of today's discourse is: War and Its Effects on Small Minor Leagues. . . . Why, may we ask, should curtailment of motor travel affect attendance adversely? . . . As the Wake remembers it, owners of minor league clubs were complaining 20 years ago that the increase in the use of the automobile was threatening their existence. . . . The paved roads, they said, were beckoning the fans to the golf course and to the picnic grounds on Sunday afternoons. . . . If we are returning to horse and buggy days, then why not to the sports of the same era—the most popular of which was baseball? . . . Every crossroads settlement, large enough to boast a postoffice, also had its Tigers, its Clippers, its Terrors, or whatnot, and the wooden bleachers around the skinned diamond at the edge of town were jammed every Sunday in summer. . . . The draft, you will say, in taking boys of 18 and 19, is robbing the prospective managers of material. . . . The answer to that is, many of the clubs of the lamented "good old days" were made up of combinations of mature athletes and boys of 16 or 17. . . . The play may not have been of all-star caliber, but who cared about that when the local Clippers were battling the Terrors from five miles down the pike? . . . If semi-pro baseball can come back, as it seems sure to do under the no gasoline setup, why cannot the small minors do the same? . . . If the viewer with alarm pleads the shortage of railway cars, let him examine the plans of the major league clubs, which expect to operate on a day coach basis if necessary. . . . If the big fellows can make their 1,200 mile jumps sitting up, the little ones should be able to endure their tours of three or four hundred miles or less. . . .

Jo-Jo White, the former Tiger, who thru the fortunes of war, is returning to the big leagues with the Athletics, should give the A's speed on the bases if nothing else. . . . He is rated only a shade slower than the Senators' George Case. . . . Johnny Papke, trainer of Golden Gloves fighters for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, already has filed the names of three city champions for the competition which opens in the Arena Jan. 28. . . . They are Mike Laquatra, flyweight; Chuck Hunter, lightweight, and Wally Vrbancic, light heavyweight. . . . Joe Platak of Chicago, the perennial national handball champion, is now a cook aboard a submarine. . . . Lou Boudreau says the Indians drafted Pitcher Jack Salveson from the Pacific Coast league because he finally has developed a fast ball. . . .

A Word to Poseurs [Male].

You've often passed this man upon the street,
That type whom if you ever chanced to meet,
You'd know that he would be the perfect bore—

Right now I have a certain man in mind,
And he is not the first one of his kind
I've met, so if you put all males in groups,
For these I do advise the heading, "droops."

This man, when in a crowd, instead of talking
Will strike an attitude and hope you're gawking;
But any guy with any sense sure knows

BASEBALL'S PART IN WAR RELIEF IS $1,314,825.03

Plan Bigger Program for Next Season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Organized baseball set a terrific and pleasing pace last season in its endeavor to steer dollars into various service relief and recreational funds.

The total was $1,314,825.03, a sum which, while high, is expected to be duplicated with interest as the result of war-aid activities planned for 1943.

Of the above sum the two majors alone amassed $1,054,953.16, according to data assembled by Earl Hilligan of the American league service bureau. The minor circuits collected $259,871.87, a commendable amount considering that the latter weren't in a position to put on money getting attractions such as is possible in the majors.

It Started a Year Ago.

Baseball's contribution to the service began a year ago this month with $1,000 voted by the Baseball Writers association. The majors came thru with $24,000 the same day, all of this going to the Bat and Ball fund, which provides paraphernalia at camps. The remainder of the money came from the two all-star games, the world series, and the 16 benefit games, one in each major league city.

In the split up of the grand total the Army and Navy relief societies received $567,026.51. This included money from the 16 benefit games as well as $60,925.72 from the all-star attractions in New York and Cleveland. The world series pool, which included $100,000 paid for exclusive broadcasting rights, was given the USO.

Here's Where It Came From.

American league Army-Navy relief.	$ 238,205.24
National league Army-Navy relief.	267,895.55
All-Star game, New York [of which $50,000 went to ball-bat fund].	89,314.58
All-Service game, Cleveland [of which $50,000 went to ball-bat fund].	71,611.14
World series [includes $100,000 for broadcasting rights].	362,926.65
To ball-bat fund from two leagues and commissioner	24,000.00
To ball-bat fund from Baseball Writers association	1,000.00
Grand total	1,314,825.03

Along with 109 of its players in service, a score or more American league players are employed in defense plants. The significance of this is that many of the players thus engaged will continue at their jobs instead of returning to baseball in the spring. The Cleveland club alone has eight players in defense jobs.

James T. Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, struck one appendix from the club's assets yesterday. The item was removed from Pitcher Bill Fleming, who is wintering in Marysville, Cal.

LARKIN AND JACK BOX TONIGHT FOR NEW YORK TITLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 17.—Tippy Larkin and Beau Jack will fight tomorrow night before 15,000 spectators in Madison Square Garden. The New York state boxing commission will recognize the winner of this 15 round bout as the world's lightweight champion, replacing Sammy Angott, who vacated the throne several weeks ago. The National Boxing association, however, has refused to give this bout a title ranking.

Jack, a Georgia Negro, whose real name is Sidney Walker, is a former locker room attendant at the Augusta National Golf club. He gained the ranking of a championship contender recently by stopping Allie Stolz, who was generally considered the No. 1 claimant for the honor of succeeding Angott.

Larkin, a Garfield, N. J., fighter of Italian antecedents, is generally believed to have considerably more boxing skill than his rival but not such dangerous hittin: power.

More Fuel for the Hot Stove League

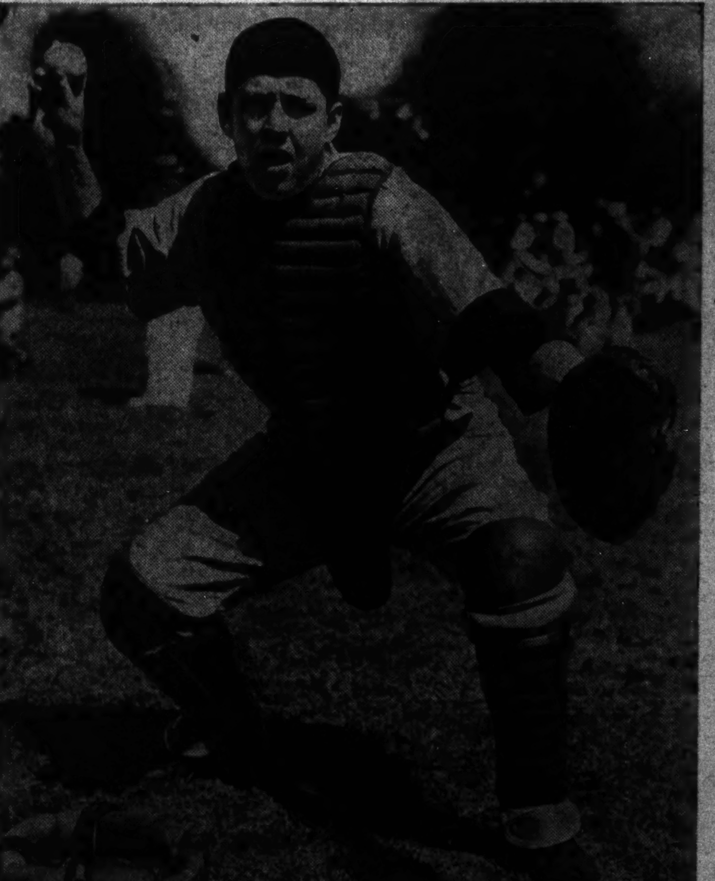
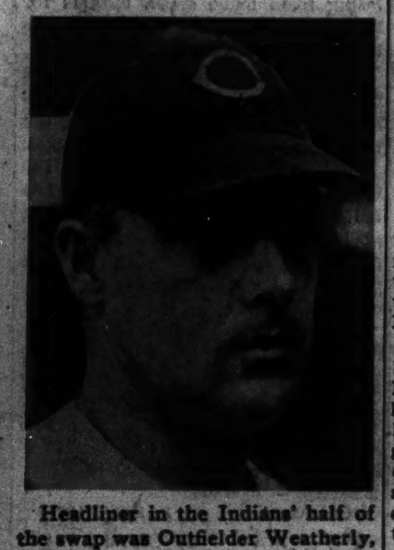
While rival owners were wondering what to do about plans for the 1943 season the Yankees and Indians engineered a four player trade yesterday. One of the chief pawns was this much traveled outfielder—Roy Cullenbine—who was swapped by New York along with Catcher Buddy Rosar for Cleveland's Roy Weatherly and Oscar Grimes.



Rosar, shown above in catching pose, was at one time counted upon as successor to Bill Dickey as No. 1 receiver. He incurred Manager Joe McCarthy's displeasure last summer by jumping the club to try for a position on the Buffalo police force. [Acme Photo.]



Headliner in the Indians' half of the swap was Outfielder Weatherly, who at times has shown promise of becoming one of the best hitters in the American league.

Michigan Deals 36-35 Defeat to Selfridge

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 17 [Special].—A last second shot by Don Lund gave Michigan a 36 to 35 triumph over Selfridge Field tonight in Yost fieldhouse. It was the Wolverines' third straight victory and the first defeat in eight games for the Flyers.

Lund led the winners in scoring with 10 points, followed by Capt. Jim Mandler with 9. Curley Waddell paced Selfridge with 7 points.

Michigan Takes Lead.

Michigan took an early lead on Ralph Gibert's long toss and pushed further ahead on successive field goals by Lund and Mandler. The flyers started peppering the board from mid-court as the half neared the end and went ahead, 15 to 14, on George Weese's basket from the center circle. Bob Wiese broke into the scoring column just as the half closed with a left handed push shot from mid-court and the gun boomed at 16 to 15 in Michigan's favor.

Close All the Way.

The flyers, rested after the half, eased out in front and were leading 33 to 29 with five minutes to go. Gibert scored a free throw and Mandler tossed in a pivot shot to make it 33 to 32 for the flyers with two minutes to go. A double foul on Mel Comin gave the Wolverines their chance to take the lead. Herm Fuetsch put the flyers in front with a field goal. Then Lund came thru as the game ended.

CULLENBINE AND ROSAR TRADED TO CLEVELAND

New York, Dec. 17 [Special].—In the year's biggest baseball deal, the New York Yankees today sent Outfielder Roy Cullenbine and Catcher Buddy Rosar to the Cleveland Indians for Outfielder Roy Weatherly and Infielder Oscar Grimes. It was a straight player transaction with no cash involved, the Yankee management announced.

From the Yankee standpoint Grimes is the key man in the trade. An all-round infielder, he provides the Yanks with infield insurance, desperately needed now that Red Rolfe has retired, Phil Rizzuto has gone into the navy and Frank Crosetti won't be allowed to play for 30 days after the season opens because of his world series run-in with Umpire Bill Summers.

Indians Need Catcher.

From the Indians' viewpoint Rosar is the key man. Cleveland sorely needed a catcher. Their backstopping was split up largely last year between two inexperienced youngsters—Jim Hegan and Otto Denning.

Both the Yanks and Indians unloaded malcontents on each other. Rosar had been in the Yankee doghouse ever since last midseason, when he quit the club for several days to go to Buffalo for a police civil service exam. Weatherly was under suspension several times in the last couple of years because of training violations.

Both of the new Yankees are 27. Weatherly, a native of Texas, is the father of one child. Grimes, a native of Ohio, has three children. Weatherly, no doubt, will step right into the right field post that Cullenbine filled after he was bought from the Washington Senators Aug. 31 to replace Tommy Henrich, now in the navy. Roy, unhappy in Cleveland, played in 128 games and batted .258. A left handed hitter, he knocked 22 doubles, seven triples, and five homers, and batted in 39 runs.

Best Year 1940.

Weatherly broke into organized baseball with Opelousas of the Evangeline league in 1934. He moved up to New Orleans of the Southern association in 1935 and, after batting .368 for the first couple of months in 1936, was brought up to Cleveland. Finishing out the season with the Indians, Roy batted .335. But in 1937 he got off to a poor start and was sent back to New Orleans. In 1938, the Tribe recalled him, and he had been with them since. His best batting mark was .310 in 1939. However, his best all-around year was 1940 when he batted .303, collected 12 homers, 11 triples, and 35 doubles and, in the field, pegged out 10 enemy base runners.

Weatherly, born Feb. 25, 1915, is 5 feet 6½ inches tall and weighs 175.

Grimes Is Versatile.

Grimes entered organized baseball with Butler of the Pennsylvania State league in 1935. He played with Zanesville, New Orleans, and Milwaukee before joining the Indians late in 1938. He was a regular in 1939, but early in 1940 sustained a fractured cheekbone in batting practice and was out most of the season. He played in 77 games in 1941 and last year performed in 51. He played all around the infield—one game at first, 24 at second, one at short, and eight at third, the others being pinch-hitting appearances. A right handed hitter, he batted .179, but Yank officials believe this was due mainly to inaction.

Grimes comes from a baseball family. His father, Oscar Ray Grimes, played first with the Cubs and Phillies in the early twenties and his uncle, Roy, was with the Giants in 1920. Oscar stands six feet and weighs 180.

Rosar Switch Expected.

Rosar's departure was expected after his run-in and run-out last year. A native of Joe McCarthy's home town, Buffalo, Rosar had been a favored member of the Yanks' organization since '35 when he broke in with the Binghamton New York-Penn league farm club. He never quite lived up to expectations when he was brought up in '39 from Newark after hitting .387 the previous season. He played in 69 games last year and batted .230.

Cullenbine was with the Yanks for only the month of September, but was one of their hitting stars in the world series. In organized baseball since '34, Cullenbine now goes to his sixth major league club in four years. He has served with Detroit, Brooklyn, the Browns, and the Senators.

Carl Fischer, Former Major Leaguer, Ordered to Army

Albion, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—Charles W. [Carl] Fischer, 37 years old, pitcher for the Seattle Pacific Coast league club last season and former American and International league hurler, has been ordered to report for induction, the Orleans county selective service board announced today. Fischer is married but has no children.

SOUTH SHORE IS WINNER OVER MT. CARMEL FIVE

Triumphs in 2d Overtime; Wells Wins 6th.

South Shore was forced to go into a double overtime period before downing the Mount Carmel junior basketball team, 33 to 31, on the latter's floor yesterday. In the fourth period South Shore rallied to score eight points while holding Mount Carmel to two to tie the score at 31 to 31. The tying basket was made by Guard Poulos. After a regulation overtime period in which neither team scored, they went into a "sudden death" period and the winning basket was made by Ralph Wasserman. In the senior game Mount Carmel won, 43 to 22.

The Wells juniors chalked up their sixth basketball victory in seven starts by trimming St. Ignatius, 56 to 30, on the Wells court. Scoring honors went to Wally Mroz with 16 points. Mitchell Piatek scored 15, as did Ed Klodzinski.

Morry Weiss and Irv Kopelson led the Tuley junior basketball team to a 49 to 37 victory over Harrison on the latter's floor yesterday in a practice game. Weiss made 16 points and Kopelson contributed 12.

The Crane Tech senior basketball team won its seventh consecutive victory yesterday by defeating Farragut, 45 to 28, on the Crane floor. The home club led, 31 to 20, at half time. Red Weber was high scorer for Crane with four baskets and four free throws, while Frank Holan paced the losers with 15 points.

A field goal by Alvin Nichols in the closing seconds of an over time period gave the Phillips senior basketball team a 31 to 29 decision over Morgan Park on the Phillips floor. The score was 27 to 27 at the conclusion of the third period. In the junior game Phillips won, 38 to 29.

Gage Park Beats Harper.

Ed Bucz accounted for eight field goals to lead the Gage Park seniors basketball team to a 39 to 38 victory over Harper on the Gage floor in a practice game. John Neuman of the losing team made seven baskets for runner-up honors. In the junior contest, Harper triumphed, 24 to 16.

KICKER WHO BEAT ARMY NOW BOOTS JAPS FOR GOALS

Lt. Slade Cutter Returns from Pacific Battles.

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Dec. 17 (AP).—A fighting giant who used to be a navy football star has come home from the war front convinced that the lessons of the athletic field pay off on the battle field.

The giant is Lt. Slade Cutter, 30 years old, of Oswego, Ill., football player, boxer, submarine officer. He's a blond, easy-moving chunk of brawn weighing 225 pounds, and this is what he says:

"Sports make you offensive minded. That's the big thing.

"After all, this war is much like a game; it's you against the other fellow. It's the intelligent application of your offensive power. Take a submarine crew. It's nothing but a big team, each doing his job, all working together.

Weigh Risks Carefully.

"Sports also teach you to weigh each risk carefully. None of this suicide stuff that the Japs are supposed to be using, but an intelligent study of a situation to see whether a given objective is worth the risks."

Fellow officers at the submarine base assert that Cutter might—if he were less modest—cite his own experiences to back his conviction.

But Cutter skilfully parried attempts to get him to talk about himself. Instead, he launched into eloquent praise of the fighting qualities of American youth.

"I had some doubts on how American youngsters would fight," he confided between classes at the submarine school. "But I can tell you now that they fight like hell, and they sure can take it. There's nothing to worry about in the younger generation."

Urges Intramural Program.

Cutter contended that intercollegiate contests in the midst of war are not enough in themselves and expresses the belief that emphasis sould be shifted to "an intensive intramural program that reaches the many rather than the few."

Altho it was as a right tackle and place kick specialist that he achieved fame at Annapolis, Cutter singled out boxing as the sport best suited to train men for war.

"Boxing is the finest sport for teaching a man to think on his feet in the midst of distractions," he said.

Demons Have a Classy, Balanced Team.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ten years ago De Paul university's basketball team went thru its season without a defeat. The Blue Demons won 17 games. No De Paul squad has had a perfect record since, but when Coach Ray Meyer's boys meet Southern California tomorrow night in Chicago Stadium they hope to advance one more step toward the goal of perfection.

Now, we have no idea that De Paul will win all its games, nor do we think De Paul should, since basketball of this era is the most uncertain of sports. Your team may be red hot tonight—and can't make a field goal tomorrow night. But it requires no perspicacity to forecast that De Paul will continue to play top flight basketball thruout this campaign.

Demons Well Balanced.

De Paul marked up its fifth consecutive triumph last Saturday night in the Stadium's first double header program by whipping Purdue. The manner in which the Demons accomplished their victory, their calmness in withstanding Purdue's final drive that narrowed the leaders' margin to four points, indicates lessons well learned. This De Paul squad has team balance, it has height, sufficient speed, and it is a well knit defensive unit.

This information may come as a surprise to the touring Trojans from Southern California. Last year Southern California opened its transcontinental trip with the Blue Demons and won, 54 to 48. Actually the score did not reflect the Trojans' superiority.

Coach Ernie Holbrook will bring his Trojans into town tomorrow noon and he has announced a starting lineup composed of four veterans and one reserve from last season. Alex Omalev and Gene Rock are slated for the forwards, Jim Seminoff will be the center, and Capt. Ted Gossard will pair with Dick Bailey at the guards. Bailey is the reserve player from last season.

Mikan Cashes on Height.

De Paul probably will rely on six or seven men tomorrow night, the course of the game depending on how long other reserves are used. Coach Meyer, of course, has no player who can replace George Mikan, his 6 foot 8 inch center, who possesses surprising coördination for his height. Mikan is invaluable on follow-up shots and will have many opportunities from the penalty line in the natural course of events. Against Purdue, however, Mikan only made four of his 10 chances from the free throw line. He accounted for six field goals, and all were from under the basket or in close.

Jimmy Cominsky, senior forward, is the bellwether of De Paul's long distance attack. His best shot is from the corner. Mel Frailey, former Lane Tech star, works well with Cominsky and Dick Triptow, another Lane graduate, is up in the running for a regular berth.

Illini, Sailors Are Fast.

Dick Starzyk is the outstanding guard. He fouled out against Purdue and the Demons' defense visibly suffered. Tony Kelly and Cliff Lind are dependable guards. Kelly normally will be a better scorer than Lind.

Illinois and Great Lakes, which meet in the other portion of tomorrow night's double bill, also are undefeated. This game may not be any more closely fought than the Southern California-De Paul contest, but it is certain to be faster.

ILLINI SEND TWELVE.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 17 [Special].—Coach Doug Mills today selected a traveling squad of 12 men for the Great Lakes game in Chicago Stadium Saturday and Camp Grant at Rockford Monday as follows:

Forwards, Andy Phillip, Ken Menke, Ed Parker, Chuck Fowler, Ollie Shoaff; centers, Capt. Art Mathisen, Alton Shirley; guards, Gene Vance, Jack Smiley, Ken Parker, Bill Miller, John Kjellstrom.

The squad will travel to Chicago tomorrow afternoon and work out in the Stadium. The players will go to Rockford Sunday to play Camp Grant in the East High school gymnasium Monday.

De La Salle, Fenwick, and Loyola Win

Tourney Facts

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
De La Salle, 34; St. Mel, 16.
Loyola, 43; St. Rita, 37.
Fenwick, 38; De Paul, 13.

GAMES TONIGHT.
St. Gregory vs. St. Michael [7:30].
St. Patrick vs. St. Philip [8:30].
Mount Carmel vs. St. George [9:30].

De La Salle, Loyola, and Fenwick moved into the quarter-finals of St. George pre-season high school basketball tournament last night by virture of their victories in opening games of tourney competition. De La Salle's team gained the honor of triumphantly opening the meet by defeating St. Mel's, 34 to 16, while Loyola followed with a 43 to 37 decision over St. Rita, and Fenwick subdued De Paul, 38 to 13.

From the spectator's viewpoint, the game between Loyola and St. Rita was the highlight of last night's activities on the St. George court. Coach John Connolly, who, incidentally will be directing the Loyola university quintet tonight against Brigham Young in the other portion of his coaching work—sent a team out on the floor at the start of the second half that featured a set shot artist named Bert Dolan, who threw in eight field goals to demoralize a St. Rita attack that had previously controled both backboards.

De La Salle and Fenwick had little difficulty in their portions of the proceedings last night. De La Salle experienced some trouble early in its game with St. Mel, but sprinted to a 15 to 7 half time lead after holding a slim 6 to 5 margin at the end of the opening quarter. Superior height, particularly in the person of John Kerris, the south siders' 6 foot 4 inch center, enabled De La Salle to maintain almost complete possession of the ball for the final period.

Coach Tony Lawless' Fenwick team, which will be the host at Chicago's only other pre-season high school basketball tourney beginning on Dec. 26, led all the way in the night's final game. Lineup:

Ceiling Set on Bowling, Pool and Billiards

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Price ceilings for bowling, pool and billiards will go into effect next Wednesday, the office of price administration announced today. Explained Price Administrator Leon Henderson:

"Members of the armed forces and war workers by the thousands find relaxation and recreation playing these games, and this regulation will insure that they are not overcharged for this recreation."

Ceilings for bowling are based on charges in September, 1941, plus an allowance for increased cost of labor, especially pin boys' fees, and materials, especially pins and balls.

Henderson said the bowling maximums represented a national average reduction of one cent for every three games of league bowling and one half cent a game in open bowling. He estimated there are 16,000,000 bowlers in the nation.

For league bowling, the maximum is the highest price charged for each classification in September, 1941, plus 10 cents in the case of duck pins and candle pins and 7 cents in the case of 10 pins for each group of three games. For open bowling the maximum price is fixed at the highest price charged for each classification in September, 1941, plus 4 cents for duck pins and candle pins and 3 cents for 10 pins, for each game.

Cost Has Increased.

OPA said it found that cost increases had been greater for duck pins than 10 pins. Duck pins, particularly popular in the east, are played with a small ball and squat pins, while 10 pins are larger and require a larger ball.

CHICAGO ALLEYS NOT AFFECTED.

Chicago bowling alleys will not be affected by Price Administrator Leon Henderson's order yesterday for a general reduction in the cost of bowling, as most establishments have been operating at the price levels in effect before September, 1941, the date on which ceiling prices will be based.

A special rate of 10 cents a line for open bowling during certain slack hours of the day is in effect for service men while 25 cents a line is charged other bowlers.

Selections Name 6 Charles Town Winners, Double

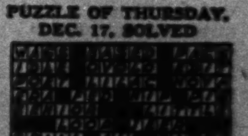
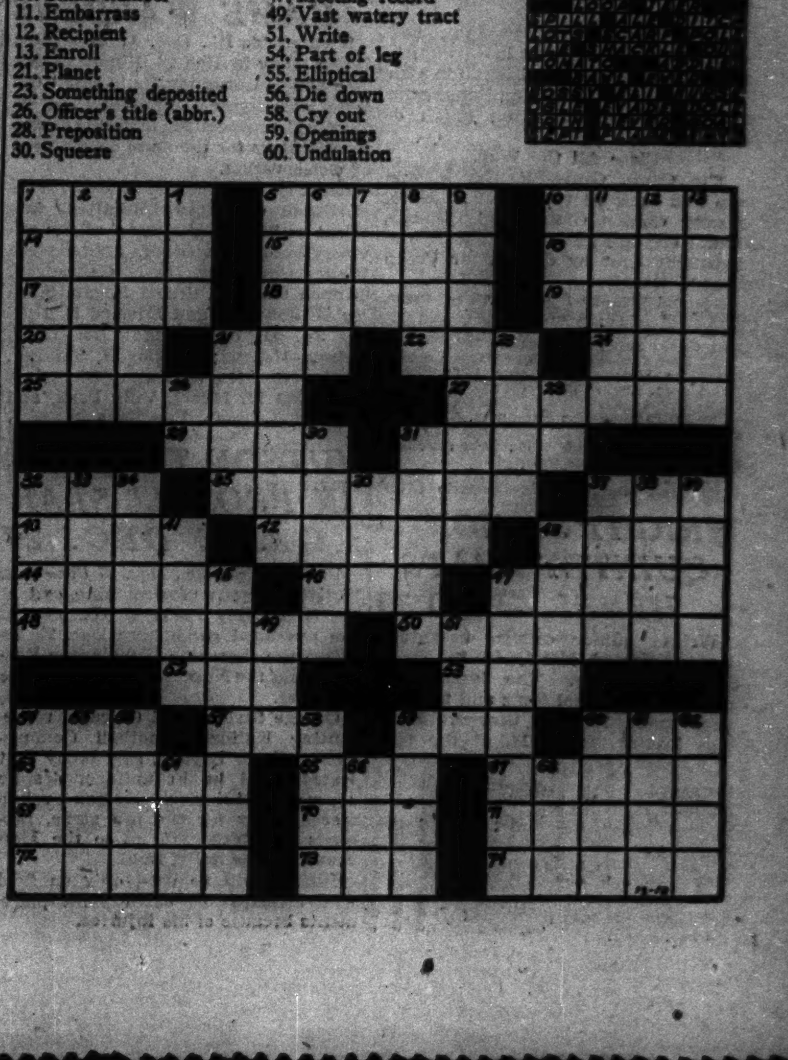
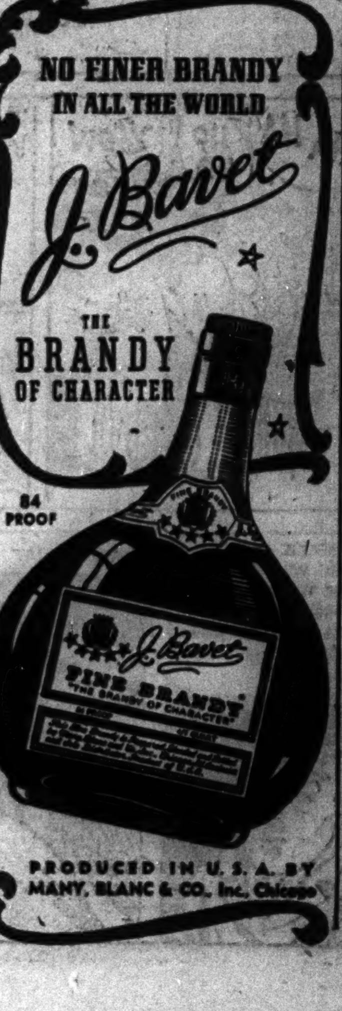
PUZZLE OF THURSDAY, DEC. 17, SOLVED







JOHN ROESING & COMPANY, Exclusive Distributors, Chicago, Illinois 100 Proof

COLD WEATHER GIVES SKATERS EARLY SEASON

Jam Parks, Playgrounds in January Fashion.

Chicago is having its war time heating problems but Chicago's youngsters are enjoying their first old fashioned winter in many years. Three weeks of wintry weather have sent the boys and girls to the flooded parks and lagoons and to the toboggan slides to enjoy sports few have ever enjoyed early in December.

Chicago's parks and playgrounds are floodlighted and each evening the youngsters and some of our citizens who are much older are enjoying ice skating that in other years has been limited to a few weeks in January and, on occasion, has failed completely. Without recourse to the records, officials of the Illinois Skating association aver Chicago already has had as much skating weather as it might receive normally in January.

Best Skating Weather in Years.

"Our list of ice skating meets is limited to January," Herb Knudten, president of the Illinois Skating association, said yesterday, "because we have learned not to expect good skating ice any earlier. Moreover, we never have been able to hold meets consistently in February. Lake Michigan affects Chicago weather so that a cold wave seldom hangs on and February marks the breakup of the ice skating season. We haven't had sub zero temperatures except for a night or so, but the continuation of freezing weather has given us our best skating weather in years."

Chicago's weather has insured the city's skaters of a central location for all meets. This is important this season because of transportation problems. Garfield park lagoon already has nine inches of ice, more than sufficient for the largest group of skaters.

First Meet Dec. 27.

Equally as important is the fact youngsters will have opportunity to practice for the skating season. Last year Chicago didn't have skating weather until the first week in January and the first two skating meets were canceled. Peirce playground will sponsor the first meet of the season on Dec. 27 in Garfield park. A full list of competitors already is assured.

Entries for the Peirce playground meet are now being received by the Illinois Skating association and by Fred Gohl, director of Peirce playground. Registered skaters of the Illinois association will receive permanent racing numbers for this meet which they will continue to wear thruout the season. The committee in charge of the meet, appointed by President Knudten, consists of Gohl, Sid Novak, Carmen Tortorello, Phil Pritikin, Earl W. Solem, Frank M. Kalteux, Bert Tilden, and Pete Miller, president of the Amateur Skating union of the United States.

The 26th Silver Skates races, annually sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, are the high point of the season. These will be held Jan. 16 and 17 in Garfield park. An entry blank will be printed daily in these columns beginning Dec. 27.

87th Street's Fighters Beat Glenview, 3-2

The 87th Street Naval Training school beat Glenview air base, 3 bouts to 2, in a fourth round match in the Service Men's Amateur Boxing league tournament before 1,200 cadets, enlisted men, officers, and their wives in the new drill hall at Glenview last night.

Ready for Another Big Season

Loyola Faces Tall Brigham Young Squad

The Brigham Young university basketball team will stop off at Loyola university tonight for a game before returning home to open its conference schedule with the University of Utah on Jan. 8.

The Loyola game will wind up the Mormons' eastern tour, which took them to Canisius college and Long Island and Temple universities during the last week. They have a big, rangy team which probably will cause plenty of trouble for the speedy Ramblers.

The loss of Mickey Rottner, star guard and sparkplug of the Loyola five last year, to the army has been felt in the Ramblers' first two games. Probable starting lineups:

ST. LOUIS CARDS WIN RANKING AS TEAM OF YEAR

Bears Get Second Place in Sports Writers' Poll.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—For the 11th straight time baseball has produced the outstanding team of the year with the honor for 1942 going to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Taking over the spot dominated by the New York Yankees since 1932, the Cardinals rolled up 206 points in the Associated Press' annual poll of the sports writers. Forty-seven of the 84 experts participating in the balloting thought the Cards' feat of overcoming Brooklyn's 10 game lead and then whipping the Yanks in the world series worthy of the No. 1 position. Thirty-four others placed the Red Birds either second or third.

Bears Are Second.

The Chicago Bears, winner of 24 straight games before being knocked off by the Washington Redskins in the National Football league playoff last Sunday, was the only team to offer the Cardinals an argument and it was not very serious. The Bears, with 30 votes for first, 24 for second, and 10 for third, received 148 points on the basis of three for first, two for second, and one for third.

The reason the Redskins received only seven votes might be explained by the fact that most of the ballots were on file before they turned in their upset 14 to 6 victory.

Ohio Gets Votes.

Ohio State and Georgia football teams received the only other first place votes. The Buckeyes, named first on five ballots, polled 65 points for third place. Georgia with 19 on the basis of two firsts, four seconds, and five thirds, was fourth.

The remainder of the votes were scattered among 19 teams with one writer lumping Great Lakes' basketball five, baseball team, and football eleven as his third best team performance.

The voting:

Team and sport.	1st.	Pts.
St. Louis Cardinals, baseball	47	206
Chicago Bears, football	30	148
Ohio State, football	5	65
Georgia, football	2	19
Tulsa, football	0	11
New York Yankees, baseball	0	8
Washington Redskins, football	0	7
Stanford, basketball	0	4

STOCK AVERAGE SWEEPS TO HIGH FOR 14 MONTHS

Trade Volume Sets 1942 Record.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—The stock market made one of the broadest rallies of the year today with average prices setting peaks since October, 1941, on the fastest dealings in 12 months.

The list turned up after some hesitancy at the opening, and gains of 1 to 4 points were well distributed in virtually all departments by noon. The pace slackened a trifle toward the close, but quotations held around the tops.

Strong reinvestment demand, a revival of the speculative urge on the idea that recent easy absorption of tax selling was a bullish indicator, the better than expected earnings outlook for some companies and favorable war news combined to extend the forward swing which got under way yesterday.

Average Sets New Peak.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 0.8 to 41.3, highest since Oct. 24, 1941. The size of the advance equaled that of last July 8, which was the second largest of 1942.

The breadth of the climb was exemplified by the fact 913 individual issues were traded and 643 of them were up. Only 100 declined, and 170 were unchanged. Transfers totalled 1,307,730 shares, compared with 906,200 yesterday.

Reaching new highs were such stocks as Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodrich, Goodyear, Firestone, Warner Brothers, Zenith Radio, Philco, International Harvester, Deere, Air Reduction, American Can, Union Carbide, and United States Gypsum.

Other prominent gainers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Tire, J. I. Case, Sperry, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Westinghouse Electric, Dow Chemical, and J. C. Penney.

CHICAGO LIST RISES.

Issues setting records for the year were Chicago Flexible Shaft at 64, up 2; Deere & Co. at 25, up 2¼; General Motors at 44, up ¾; Goodyear Tire & Rubber at 24¼, up ⅜; International Harvester at 58⅛, up 1⅛; Middle West corporation at 4½, up ¼; North West Utilities 7% preferred at 11, up 1; Peoples Gas, Light & Coke at 47⅛, up ⅞; Standard Oil of Indiana at 27⅞, up ⅝; Standard Oil of New Jersey at 45, closing at 44⅞, unchanged; United Airlines at 18¾, up ½, and Zenith Radio at 20⅛, closing at 20, up ⅛.

RAILS LEAD BOND RISE.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Corporate bonds rallied strongly today under leadership of rails. With only scattered dissenters, the list moved steadily upward over a broad front to score gains of small fractions to 2 points or more in every group except foreign issues, most of which were neglected. Trading was the most active since Oct. 21, with sales of $12,313,600 par value, compared with $8,504,000 yesterday. Brokers associated the rise with strength in stocks.

United States government loans eased in quiet trading as main investment interest continued centered on the 9 billion dollar Victory fund drive.

Army Consolidates Field Transport Supply Corps

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Consolidation of the field agencies of the transportation corps, army services of supply, into transportation zones corresponding to the nine service commands was announced today by the war department. Each zone will be divided into transportation districts. The officer in charge of the 6th zone is Col. Dan A. Hardt, Chicago.

Terms Chicago Area's Rubber Potential Vast

Chicagoland has the facilities and labor skill to manufacture enough synthetic rubber eventually to supply the nation with all its rubber needs, Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director for the Universal Oil Products company, said yesterday in a radio talk.

The research scientist, who also is president of the American Institute of Chemists, predicted that when the pressing synthetic rubber program has been developed into adequate production activity the average automobile tire will have a life of at least 100,000 miles of average pre-war style driving.

"This synthetic rubber tire will ultimately be the best tire ever made," Dr. Egloff said. "This doesn't mean at all that the day of natural rubber is past, but there is little doubt that synthetic rubber is going to do a lot of the work formerly done by natural rubber."

Gary Action Deplored.

He deplored, without attempting to criticize, action of the government in forcing abandonment of plans to construct a 100 million dollar synthetic rubber plant at Gary.

"No better job could have been done anywhere than could have been accomplished at the projected Gary plant," Dr. Egloff said. "Chicago has practically unlimited quantities of crude oil available, and the scientific brains and skilled labor necessary are available in more than sufficient quantity."

He expects that by 1945 there will be enough synthetic rubber manufactured so that a sufficient number of tires for civilian use will be ready.

Answers Question on Rubber.

Meanwhile, a meeting was called at the Chicago offices of Bauer and Black division of the Kendall corporation at the suggestion of the war production board to make available for immediate production the new synthetic sponge rubber recently developed by Bauer and Black researchers.

A large number of processors, among them the nation's largest rubber manufacturers, were given the opportunity of producing the new sponge rubber thruout the war period. The new product will be used for war purposes only, such as for linings of crash helmets and lighter linings in soldiers' metal helmets.

PROXY REVISION, SIMPLER FORMS ADOPTED BY SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today adopted several long-anticipated revisions of its proxy rules and simplification of registration and financial reporting requirements.

Proxy rule changes provided for more information on compensation and dealings of corporate managers, more information on directors, annual reports to stockholders to accompany or precede proxy statements, limited space for stockholders making proposals opposed by management, and exemeption for certain types of solicitations thru newspaper advertisements.

Several SEC staff proposals were not adopted, the commission said, and many suggestions received from industry were adopted.

Simplification of registration and reporting requirements, the SEC said, will result in "considerable saving of paper work" while preserving for investors "the protection afforded by the statutes."

SAVING IN 1942 TO SET RECORD OF 26 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The department of commerce estimated today that individual savings in 1942 would amount to 26 billion dollars, a new record.

The record savings was attributed by the department's survey of current business mainly to the sharp rise in incomes, curtailment of durable goods purchases and price ceilings.

WHOLESALE PRICE INDEX REACHES NEW PEAK FOR 16 YEARS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The bureau of labor statistics today reported its wholesale price index rose 0.4 per cent last week to 100.5 per cent of the 1926 average. It was the highest level reached in more than 16 years.

The rise was the result of sharp advances in prices for grains, cotton, peanuts, and certain fruit and vegetables.

The index for the week ended Dec. 11, 1937, was 81.9. In December, 1929, it was 93.4

PLAN 3 PLANTS IN MIDWEST FOR GRAIN ALCOHOL

Muscatine, Omaha, Kansas City Sites.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Plants estimated to produce 40 million gallons of grain alcohol a year from farm products will be established at Omaha, Kansas City, Mo., and Muscatine, Ia., Bradley Dewey, assistant rubber director, announced today.

The Omaha plant, he said, will produce 17 million gallons a year, the Kansas City plant 15 million gallons, and the Muscatine plant 8 million gallons.

Dewey made the announcement at a senate agriculture subcommittee hearing, explaining that the plants were a part of the 100 million gallons a year grain alcohol program recommended by the special committee headed by Bernard M. Baruch and set up by President Roosevelt when he vetoed legislation to require alcohol to be produced from farm products.

Only a Start, Says Gillette.

Chairman Guy Gillette [D., Ia.] of the senate subcommittee which is investigating the alcohol-synthetic rubber program, commented after the hearing that "It's a start, but it isn't much more than a start."

Details of the Kansas City plant were not available. George E. Johnson of Hastings, Neb., president of the Farm Crops Processing corporation of Nebraska, said his organization would construct and operate the Omaha plant. Ralph E. Young, Washington representative of the Grain Processing corporation of Iowa, said that corporation would build and operate the Muscatine plant.

Johnson estimated the cost of the Omaha plant at $1,861,000. Young said his "best guess is around one million dollars" for the cost of the Muscatine plant.

Plan 50,000 Gallons Daily.

"The plant will operate 350 days a year and will produce 50,000 gallons of 190 proof alcohol each day, consuming 20,000 bushels of grain a day, corn wheat, barley, or grain sorghums, but mostly wheat," Johnson said. "Work will get started within 30 days and the plant will be ready to go July 1 unless, of course, we run into priorities trouble.

"I am rather certain that we'll get a rubber plant to run in conjunction with our alcohol plant. If we get a rubber plant there will undoubtedly be more alcohol plants in the state and possibly in western Iowa, too."

Johnson said his associates in the Nebraska corporation were Frank L. Robinson of Kearney, C. A. Sorenson of Lincoln, A. J. Weaver of Falls City, Marshall Biggs of Washington, D. C., and Alvin E. Johnson, Roy Welch, and Carl Swanson, all of Omaha, Neb.

Plan to Construct Five Buildings.

Young said new buildings would have to be constructed at Muscatine. He said plans called for at least five buildings—a laboratory and control building, a malthouse, a distillery house, an elevator-grain handling building, and an office building.

He said he did not know definitely when construction would start, "depending upon final word here." The plant, Young said, will produce 25,000 gallons of 190 proof alcohol a day, using 10,000 bushels of grain daily—75 per cent corn, 25 per cent wheat.

"We think that probably a butadiene plant for synthetic rubber will be put in near by. We could pipe the alcohol to it.

"One of the things we're working on is the residue solids from alcohol, which are good for feeding live stock after they are dried out. We can't get any drying equipment, so we are preparing to use the solids by buying cattle and feeding them the wet stuff."

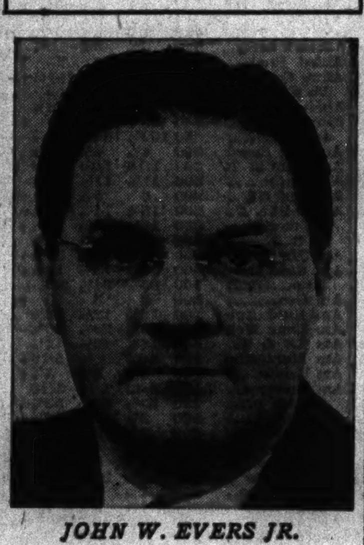
PENNSY SPENDS 200 MILLIONS IN WAR EMERGENCY

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17 (AP).—The Pennsylvania railroad told its stockholders today that emergency expenditures of nearly 200 million dollars, all provided from its own resources, have been made since the outbreak of the war.

Principal items are new equipment, repairs, facilities and improvements necessary to handle the increased war traffic, the company said in a report accompanying checks for a 3 per cent dividend, payable tomorrow.

The report, covering the period from Aug. 31, 1939, to Oct. 1, 1942, showed a special expenditure on rolling stock amounting to $162,234,091 and on trackage and other facilities totaling $34,799,631.

Promoted by Edison



JOHN W. EVERS JR.

John F. Gilchrist, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, will retire on Dec. 31 after 55 years of service, Chairman Charles Y. Freeman announced yesterday, John W. Evers Jr., secretary of the company was elected by directors to fill the vacancy created.

Gilchrist will hold the position of chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago and Illinois Midland railway, and will remain in an advisory capacity to the Commonwealth Edison company. The railroad is owned by the utility company.

Gilchrist is one of the pioneers of the nation's electric business, having joined the staff of the Chicago Edison company only a few months after it was organized in 1887 as the original predecessor of Commonwealth Edison. He has taken a leading rôle in national utility activities and also has been prominent in Chicago civic affairs.

Evers will have charge of the purchasing and stores, and transportation departments, and will continue as secretary. He has been with the company 29 years, serving as secretary since 1924 and taking an active part in other company affairs.

A.T.&T. Plans Billion Outlay for Expansion

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Charles P. Cooper, vice president in charge of finances of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, predicted today that the Bell system may need 1 to 1¼ billion dollars of new capital to finance plant expansion in a 10 year period after materials become available.

Cooper made the prediction in testifying at a federal communications commission hearing on the commission's order to the company to show why its long distance toll rates should not be reduced.

He said that the company's margin of spare plant facilities was rapidly becoming exhausted or, in some cases, was exhausted.

Good Earnings Aid Credit.

Cooper said the company's credit was high because earnings averaged 7.95 per cent annually on stock in the last 23 years and asserted the future earnings would have to be as good to make future financing possible.

Investors, he said, were confronted with three risks: [1] rising taxes and costs and the possibilities of rate reductions [2] suggestions which he said were emanating from regulatory circles that substantial parts of taxes should not be listed as costs but as returns, and [3] suggestions that prices on less profitable parts of a business should be frozen because profits are good on other parts.

Another witness, Kenneth F. Burgess; A. T. & T. counsel, told the commission that the nation-wide rate structure was at stake and asserted, "If rates are reduced you break down service. If you break down service you impair the war."

Allows OPA to Intervene.

The FCC permitted Price Administrator Leon Henderson, the Southeastern Association of Railroads and Utilities Commissioners, and the Arkansas department of public utilities to intervene in the hearing.

The railroad commission of California, in a letter to the FCC introduced at the hearing, urged the FCC to order an interim reduction in rates pending settlement of another case involving the separation of toll rate revenues between the A. T. & T. long lines department and other companies.

Harry A. Livermore of New York, chief statistician of the long lines department of A. T. & T., told the FCC the long lines department received approximately 68 per cent of the revenues from toll rates.

TRANSIT UNITY SPEED IS ASKED BY COMMISSION

Company's Plea for Delay Denied.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Direct assertions that the Illinois commerce commission wants to make its decision on the proposed Chicago traction unification at an early date—within a few weeks if possible—were made yesterday in the commission headquarters.

The first indication of this desire to speed up the decision came at a hearing, one of a series lasting since July, when attorneys for the proposed company that would operate the combined surface and elevated lines asked for a 30 day continuance. The request was turned down by Leslie Salter, one of the two examiners in the case.

"I don't believe that there is any need for such a delay," he said. "The missing information that was mentioned here as the reason for it could, I think, be produced in a day. I shall set the next hearing for Wednesday, Dec. 23. The commission is anxious to get this over."

Effect Termed Uncertain.

Atty. Thomas L. Marshall, representing the new company, which has asked permission to issue 80 millions in bonds and nearly 100 millions in stock to acquire the properties, asked for the delay on the ground that it was uncertain what effect on earnings of both elevated and surface lines a large wage raise to employés would have.

Such an increase [9 cents an hour] has been granted the surface lines union workers by an arbitration board, but has not yet been approved by the war labor board. Union workers on the L have threatened a strike unless they get the same raise.

The second examiner, Fred Kleinman, asked why it is not possible to estimate what each cent of raise would mean in reference to combined company earnings.

Atty. Francis X. Busch, representing some of the investors who have agreed to go along with the plan, replied that working conditions were also involved and no approximation could be made.

Cost of New Labor Contract.

[It has been estimated unofficially that the new labor contract would cost the L and surface lines between 5 and 6 millions a year. The trustees of the L estimated a few days ago that such a scale would cost their road 2½ million annually, and that the road, a heavy money loser for years, could not stand such a drain.]

Attorney William H. Sexton, representing the city of Chicago, which wants the merger at once, took the new company attorneys to task for their dilatory tactics.

Salter said that he wished to set a date for the new company to finish its testimony. Marshall and William J. Friedman, his colleague, who had been pressing for haste, have declined to specify in a stipulation that no valuation of the properties above 80 millions has been proved and that any larger value would have to be supported later by testimony. No testimony on any moot point has been presented in the last two weeks.

Wants Testimony Wound Up.

Members of the five man state commission, who have been smarting under city hall charges that they were "stalling" a decision for political reasons [which they deny], expressed willingness to make a quick decision if the new company will close its case.

"We have done our best to hurry this up," averred John D. Biggs.

"The law requires the commission to find that the valuation is reasonable, that the securities to be issued are really covered by the properties and that the merger would be in the public interest. It also requires that we make our own investigation of these points.

"We can promise that when the proposed company's case is in, it will be only a short while until cross-examination is finished. Then the examiners will get their report in order. When that is in the commission will devote its entire effort to studying the case and giving its decision."

Prices of Hogs Advance to New 23 Year Record for December

Hog prices in the Chicago stock yards yesterday rose to the highest December levels in 23 years, a gain of 28 per cent, compared with a year ago. Gains of 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds were general. Packers paid an average of $14.10, highest since Nov. 11 and highest for December since 1919.

Top loads of hogs rose 15 cents to $14.25, compared with $13.65 a week ago. All packers were active buyers at higher prices except those who have exhausted their civilian quota for this year and are not eligible to fill government orders. Lend-lease deliveries are expanding rapidly and are the heaviest in more than five months.

Largest Since July.

During the last two weeks the government bought 141,002,139 pounds of pork and lard, the biggest two weeks' total since early July. Purchases the last two weeks were the second heaviest since lend-lease buying began early in 1941. Purchases in the corresponding two weeks last year totaled only 11,584,340 pounds.

Most good hogs weighing 260 to 300 pounds were bought at $14.15 and $14.20, while the bulk of 200 to 250 pounders went from $14.05 to $14.15. A few light sows reached $14.10, but most 350 to 475 pound sows ranged from $13.75 to $14, while 500 to 600 pounders sold from $13.50 to $13.75.

Additional strength developed in the cattle market as supplies continued to dwindle. Only 4,500 cattle arrived, the second smallest Thursday run in three months, making the four day total 35,100, the smallest since the middle of July. Most steers and yearlings were strong. Heifers and calves sold steady, while gains of 10 to 15 cents were registered in beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls.

Expects Less Beef

P. O. Wilson, secretary of the National Live Stock Marketing association, predicted yesterday that less beef in butcher shops rather than more is likely to be the result of the "latest juggling" of beef ceilings by the OPA. Altho the readjusted wholesale price ceilings announced a week ago were said to be an attempt to ease the growing beef shortage, he asserted, the only place the meat shortage can be relieved is on the country's ranches and farms. In a statement prepared for distribution among the 300,000 stockmen members of his association, Wilson said that apparently the OPA beef ceiling order was framed more in the interests of lowering the price level than increasing the food supply.

Railway Wage Parley Ended; No Agreement

New York, June 17 (AP).—A three day conference between railroad executives and representatives of railroad unions on a wage increase demand broke up today without agreement, and union negotiators announced they would appeal their case to the national mediation board under the railway labor act.

Sudden termination of the negotiations was not looked for. Rail representatives at the outset had forecast an adjournment today to resume conversations after the holidays.

Rails Issue Statement.

A statement issued by the management representatives said:

"The conference between representatives of 15 non-operating railroad brotherhoods and the conference committees representing the railroads, having produced no settlement of the pending request for a 20 cent an hour wage increase, a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour, and the union shop, the conference terminated today and the employés' representatives announced that on Monday they would invoke the services of the national mediation board."

Covered by the 15 non-operating unions are about 900,000 railroad workers. When the conference opened Tuesday, the railroads contended in a statement that demands had to be reviewed in the light of President Roosevelt's recent warnings against the dangers of inflation and his action toward stabilizing wages and prices.

Next Step Up to Board.

Railroad negotiators were H. A. Enochs, chief of personnel of the Pennsylvania railroad, representing the eastern conference committee; John B. Parrish, assistant vice president of the Chesapeake and Ohio, representing the southeastern committee, and D. P. Loomis, executive director of the Association of Western Railways, representing the western committee.

Principal negotiator for the unions was D. M. Jewell, chairman of group 15 and president of the AFL railroad employés department.

It was expected the next step would be determined by the mediation board, which may order a hearing or send both groups back for further discussions.

First Mortgage Bondholders' Committee

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit for Seaboard-All Florida Railway First Mortgage Bonds, issued by Bankers Trust Company, as Depositary under the Deposit Agreement dated January 23, 1931:

This Committee Urges Your Most Serious Consideration of the Proposal Of the Seaboard Receivers to Purchase Your Certificates of Deposit at a Flat Price of 16 ($160) for Each Certificate Representing a $1,000 Bond and Interest.

THIS OFFER EXPIRES BY ITS TERMS ON DECEMBER 31, 1942

The Committee's letter to you dated November 21, 1942 discusses the Seaboard Receivers' proposal and describes the factors which, in its opinion, should be considered by you in arriving at your decision. Among other things, it sets forth facts which, in its opinion, would tend to influence conservative investors to accept the cash offer of the Seaboard Receivers. Bankers Trust Company, Trustee under the Seaboard-All Florida Mortgage, has also prepared a memorandum dated November 23, 1942, which sets forth its views with respect to the Seaboard Receivers' offer.

Copies of the Committee's letter dated November 21, 1942, of the November 23, 1942 memorandum of Bankers Trust Company, of the Seaboard Receivers' Purchase Offer, and of the Letter of Transmittal may be obtained from Bankers Trust Company, at 16 Wall Street, New York City.

The Committee is advised by the Seaboard Receivers that they have already purchased substantially more than a majority in amount of the publicly held undeposited All Florida Bonds and that they have also purchased Certificates of Deposit representing substantially more than a majority in amount of the Bonds on deposit with the Committee at the time the Seaboard Receivers' offer was made. If the time comes when the amount of Bonds remaining on deposit or other factors cause the Committee to deem it inexpedient to proceed further under the Deposit Agreement, it may terminate the Deposit Agreement.

CHICAGO'S ORDNANCE OUTPUT SHOWS VAST UPTURN IN LAST YEAR

The extent of expansion in production of ordnance in the Chicago ordnance district since Pearl Harbor was indicated yesterday in figures released by the district office showing that shipments from Dec. 7 last year to Dec. 6 this year totaled 29,032 rail carloads and 10,179 truck loads, freight cost of the shipments was $15,106,700.

From July, 1940, the beginning of the arms program, to Dec. 7, 1941, shipments, were 4,731 carloads and 25 truck loads, and the freight cost was $1,745,600.

LIVING COST RISE POSITIVE DANGER, ASSERTS WLB AID

Dr. Robert K. Burns, regional director of the war labor board, last night characterized as "positively dangerous" a 1 per cent rise in living costs in the last month. Speaking at a Chicago Office Management association dinner in the Chicago Real Estate board dining room, he added:

"There will be no effort on the part of the war labor board to keep the wage and salary level tied to living costs. This is too fraught with inflationary peril."

WIDE CANCELING OF WAR WORK IS SEEN BY NELSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Donald M. Nelson, war production chairman, predicted today that inflated war construction programs and unbalanced output will cause large scale cancellations of war contracts and construction projects in 1943.

Reports have come from officials in recent months that production plans were being overhauled to step up production in some lines, particularly aircraft and shipping, and to scale down the output of tanks, guns, and other items which are outrunning army and navy needs. Some shutdowns already have begun, creating temporary unemployment.

Tells of Changes to Come.

"In the haste to arm the United States and her allies," Nelson said, "there was little time to lay out an orderly program.

"To gear production to the essential requirements of the overall program will mean, in many instances, cancellation of contracts for items which do not fit in.

"There are other facilities, now making exactly the kind of items needed in the current program, that will close down. In such instances the cause will be an oversupply of similar facilities."

Nelson said there will remain in each field some overexpansion, but he defended this on the ground that excess capacity is desirable to meet sudden military needs.

He asserted that the shutdown of some plants is not waste, but will prevent the waste of critical materials.

Outdoing Enemy Production.

Nelson said that the 1943 program calls for the output of 90 billion dollars of war goods, an amount equal to the total value of all goods and services in the nation's most prosperous year, 1929, when the total value was approximately 83 billions. The 1942 was production will total 53⅔ billions, compared with $13,800,000,000 in 1941.

He predicted that by the end of 1943 the United States will be outproducing the enemy 2 to 1.

Nelson said 1942 output of all munitions will be four times the 1941 total. He reported that 1942 war output rose to three times the 1941 level in June, and then began to falter because of material shortages.

Nelson said all synthetic rubber produced in 1943 must go to the army and navy.

CRITICIZE DELAY IN MOVE TO EASE FLOUR SQUEEZE

Wickard Warned Bread Shortage Is Likely.

Criticism by the Millers' National federation of government delay in relieving the squeeze between rising wheat prices and flour ceilings coincided yesterday with the warning of a delegation of Kansas congressmen to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard that the nation faces a bread shortage within one to two months unless flour ceilings are raised.

The millers' federation asserted that altho the squeeze has existed since mid-November and the government has known of the situation, nothing has been done either to adjust the ceilings or release loan wheat into the open market. The Kansas delegation said that recent increases in wheat prices have made it impossible for millers to operate under ceilings.

Many Curtail Operations.

It is reported that 25 per cent of the flour mills have curtailed operations or are refusing to book flour orders because of both the high wheat prices and the current artificial scarcity of actual grain. The industry has warned that unless the situation is relieved there will be a shortage of flour despite a wheat supply estimated at 1 billion 611 million bushels, or more than two years' requirements.

Cash wheat prices have risen to the highest levels in five years and longer recently as the result of a scarcity of country marketings. Farmers are holding the grain off the market in expectation of higher prices.

In reflection of the cash wheat market, futures prices have been rising to seasonal peaks. Yesterday Chicago Board of Trade wheat futures advanced on mill buying, with the September delivery reaching a new peak for the year and December equalling its best price before a reaction left the close irregular.

Expect Permanent Ceiling.

Wheat prices also have advanced on trade belief that permanent flour ceilings will be issued by the end of this month and will be much higher, possibly to the extent of 58 cents a barrel, or about 13 cents a bushel for wheat. It was believed the ceilings would be raised without the release of the loan grain.

It was reported that the active buying of flour for the family trade which developed in the east early this week has spread thruout the country. Recent sales are estimated at more than a half million barrels. This is considered an indication of flour dealers' fears of an impending shortage.

It was also reported that flour buying by the public has been accelerated in the last few days by disclosure of a war flour program under consideration by the government for increasing the nutrition of the nation's bread. The program would reduce white flour production to 70 per cent of 1941 and substitute whole wheat flour for the remaining 30 per cent.

Wheat futures closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ¼ cent lower yesterday after profit selling had weakened the market. Corn advanced ⅛ to ¼ cent, with active deliveries reaching top prices since mid-August, as demand stimulated cash market strength and increased shipping sales.

Oats were ⅛ to ½ cent higher, and rye was irregular within a range of ⅛ cent. Soy beans advanced 1¼ to 3 cents when a few buying orders disclosed a lack of offerings.

1,400 WORKERS AT FORD PLANT QUIT BRIEFLY

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 17 (AP).—Approximately 1,400 union employés of the Ford Motor company's Highland Park plant returned to their jobs this afternoon after a work stoppage that halted production of war vehicles for one hour and 45 minutes.

A company spokesman said the demonstration, intended as a protest against the layoff yesterday of three CIO United Automobile Workers members "for fighting," began on an assembly line, and later spread to the welding and shipping departments.

Standard Brands, Inc., announced that Dr. Theodore Sedlmayr, for many years vice president in charge of research for the company, had been elected vice president in charge of manufacture, purchasing, and traffic, and as a director to succeed the late John W. Luce. Chester A. Barth, formerly regional manager of the company's Pacific coast area, was elected vice president and general sales manager, and Philip S. Lord, formerly Philadelphia regional manager, was appointed field sales manager.

Walter E. Berg, head of the construction payout department of Dovenmuehle, Inc., Chicago mortgage firm, has been elected vice president. Berg has been with the firm for 20 years.

Instead of their usual Christmas cards, 40,000 patrons of the 15 midwest hotels operated by the Pick Hotels corporation have been given war savings stamp books, with the first 25 cent stamp affixed. Albert Pick Jr., corporation president, urged the guests to complete the stamp purchases, thus contributing $750,000 to the war fund drive.

Directors of the American Hotel association at a meeting in the Palmer House adopted a resolution asking that the association's 6,000 members post notices in hotel public rooms asking guests to coöperate in conserving railroad space. F. Harold Van Orman, president of the association, said hotel guests will be told that travelers can savetime and money by canceling promptly Pullman reservations. War regulations prohibit refunds on Pullman tickets before a train departs.

A dinner for Ernest Blum, drapery merchandiser for Marshall Field & Co., was given by members of the Chicago Drapery Manufacturers' association last night in the Hotel Sherman. The event marked Blum's 50th year in Field's drapery department.

NO STRIKE HELPS WAR, SAYS WLB MEMBER IN CHICAGO PRINTER ROW

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Wayne L. Morse, a public member of the war labor board, today sharply told representatives of printing trades unions in a publishing dispute at Chicago that no strike—or lockout—helps in the prosecution of the war.

Morse attended a board hearing on the dispute at which officials of the Cuneo Press and other print shops argued, and the union at once denied, that a current work stoppage violated their contract. N. M. Di Pietro, union representative, contended that the unions only were exercising their contract rights to refuse subcontracted work coming from or destined for an "unfair plant."

He referred to R. R. Donnelley & Sons, and Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, who employ nonunion craftsmen. Publishing work on Time magazine, mail order catalogs, and other publications is being held up. The other employers, who have closed shop contracts, contended they were innocent victims of a fight between the unions and Donnelley.

Di Pietro said the union long had sought mediation, that "this is not a strike," and contended the Donnelley situation was a lockout.

INT'L HARVESTER ALTERS EMPLOYE SAVING PROGRAM

Two principal changes in its employé savings and extra compensation plan were announced by the International Harvester company.

All extra compensation paid individual employés during years of good earnings, under profit sharing provisions of the plan, will be paid in cash. Heretofore one-half had been held in the employé's account for accumulation of a retirement and unemployment fund.

Company contributions equal to one-half of employé savings up to 5 per cent of regular wages for retirement and unemployment will be discontinued after March 1.

DESCRIBES VAST ORDER BACKLOGS FOR FURNITURE

Restrictions Cramp Makers' Output.

Some large furniture manufacturers have order backlogs that could keep their workers busy 24 hours a day for several years, but cannot take full advantage of the demand because of war restrictions or because they are making war goods, the Illinois Manufacturers' association said yesterday.

Consumers who normally would be spending money on automobiles, tires, and gasoline but find these channels blocked are flooding the dammed up cash into furniture and household goods on an extensive scale, the association said.

Report Vast Sales Increase.

"A large mail order house reported that sales of household goods have increased as much as 200 per cent in some war industrial centers, especially in Seattle and other cities on the Pacific coast," the association said. "One of the largest manufacturers of rugs and carpets in the Chicago area expects a heavy demand in the next few months for its product, but because of the difficulty in obtaining wool and restriction of its output to 75 per cent of normal, it cannot take advantage of the increasing demand.

"A representative of the largest manufacturer of upholstered furniture in the country told the association that millions of dollars of consumer money is available for furniture. That company has a backlog of unfilled orders that could keep the present forces in its American and Canadian factories working every hour in the 24 for several years, but its output of furniture is restricted and its employés are working largely on war contracts. It cannot use steel springs in its furniture, but is working on a substitution of plywood springs which is believed will overcome this difficulty."

Household Goods in Demand.

The association said that the National Retail Furniture association reported a heavy increase in the demand for furniture and all other household goods, and that manufacturers not doing war work have benefited in the last month from the upsurge in purchasing.

"Retailers have been pushing sales of furniture, and by energetic efforts have recovered most of the business thy lost under regulation W limiting installment sales," the manufacturers' association said. "In the Chicago area it is reported that buying by suburban residents was quickened by the fear that deliveries would be uncertain."

Antique furniture, oriental rugs, chinaware, table linen, and art objects are in big demand at auction sales, the association said.

HALES ENTERS CONTEST TO HEAD BOARD OF TRADE

A contest for the presidency of the Chicago Board of Trade developed yesterday with the filing of a petition for G. Willard Hales with the secretary of the grain exchange. A few days ago the nominating committee chose Philip R. O'Brien to be candidate for reëlection to his third term. The annual election will be held Jan. 11.

Hales is a director of the exchange whose term expires this year. He is chairman of the Hales and Hunter company, feed manufacturers. His name previously had been submitted to the nominating committee in another petition.

MAN POWER PLAN DESCRIBED AS AID TO REPLACEMENT

'Manning' Tables Involved in Guiding Employers.

The war man power commission's program of coöperation with employers in analyzing and classifying workers will enable the employers to arrange for orderly replacement of draft age men, William H. Spencer, regional director of the commission, said yesterday. Spencer spoke at a gathering of about 400 employers at the Drake hotel sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The program is voluntary and involves the preparation of worker occupational analyses, called manning tables, and schedules for replacement of workers likely to be drafted.

Robert C. Behn, regional chief of the commission's occupational analysis division, warned the employers that the information needed for compiling a manning table is seldom readily available.

Occupational Listing Available.

He said employers usually do not know the potential skills of their workers, the proportion of skilled and unskilled men in the plants, the names of all the occupations in the plant and other similar data. He referred to an occupational dictionary available at federal employment agencies which lists 17,000 jobs, with 12,000 alternate titles.

"The manning tables will help make you aware of the problems, but won't solve them," Behn said. "You will have to do the job."

The tables show what men a plant has, and what each does. They are designed to enable the employer and the state director of selective service to determine about when an employer can expect to have to replace men subject to the draft.

Procedure for participating in the program was outlined as follows:

The employer's first step is to write to the regional director of the man power commission and advise the director that the company wishes to participate. The regional director sends back a pamphlet describing the plan, along with an application blank and forms for the manning table.

Schedules Made from Table.

The employer fills out the manning table and turns it over to the commission office for validation by a member of the occupational analysis staff. The manning table, after approval, is sent to the state director of selective service. The director and the employer draw up a withdrawal schedule for potential draftees, based on the manning table.

The employer is assigned an acceptance number stamp, which he uses when he files with the local draft board a request that a worker be deferred.

Lt. Col. George A. Irvin, regional field officer of the selective service system, told the employers that the final decision on a classification is in the hands of the registrant's local draft board, subject to further action by an appeal board.

TRAIN MEN FOR PEACE

Several hundred thousand men are being trained in various trades by the army and navy and will be available to industries after the war, Comm. H. R. Harris, director of the service school at Great Lakes Naval Training station, last night told factory executives at a meeting in the La Salle hotel sponsored by the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the war man power commission.

The meeting was called to promote the training within industry program, which was praised by Lt. Comm. Robert J. Twyman, chief personnel officer of the 9th naval district, and Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chief of the Chicago ordnance district.

Hammond said prime needs now are for planes and ships, but that industry must be prepared if future requirements are different.

Chicago Truckers to Take Dispute on Wages to WLB

Chicago union truckers last night decided to take their wage dispute to the war labor board, turning down an offer of a pay rise of $5 a week and 15 cents an hour extra for overtime. Local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, about 700 of whose members attended the meeting in Carmen's hall, Van Buren street and Ashland avenue, is asking a 48 hour week, time and a half for overtime, and a 15 per cent pay increase.

HEARING IS GIVEN INLAND STEEL ON SHIP CREW HIRING

Case Involves Three Other Companies.

The Inland Steel company was notified by the war labor board yesterday that it will be given an opportunity at a hearing Dec. 29 in Washington, D. C., to present its views on recommendations made by a WLB mediation panel in a contract dispute between the steel company and the National Maritime union regarding selection of crews on the company's ore steamships.

Each party to the dispute will be allowed 30 minutes to present its case, the board said, after which an immediate decision will be rendered.

Inland Steel last week requested the board for a hearing. It accused the panel of violating a Presidential pledge that the government would not force a closed shop on industry. It charged further that an attempt was being made to establish the "hiring hall" system of lake vessel crew selection.

Three Others in Case.

Three other companies are involved in the case—Interstate Steamship company, Bethlehem Transportation corporation, and International Harvester company. The hearing is being granted in the Interstate Steamship case.

Inland officials said they were gratified by the board's telegram announcing that the hearing would be held. They explained the company feared that the panel recommendations might be taken as final.

Inland said the "hiring hall" system was not understood in all its implications by the public.

Men sent to ships under the "hiring hall" system would not be selected on a basis of ability or experience, the company contended. It said the union constitution provides that "hiring halls" be operated according to a rotating system under which members register for jobs in their particular ratings and receive assignments when their names and numbers come to the top.

Union Defends Hiring Hall.

Inland objected to the system, asserting that a careful selection of personnel is the basis upon which intelligent and satisfactory management is built and that hiring halls violate a basic concept of individual liberty in that they require a man to join a union to get a job.

Meanwhile, in Detroit, Jack Lawrence, union vice president, in charge of the Great Lakes region, defended the "hiring hall" system, which has been in effect in the principal seaports of the country for many years.

Lawrence said their "honest and efficient operation is largely responsible for the bridge of ships across the ocean maintained by union men to supply materials and reënforcements to our troops and to our allies."

SOAP MAKERS ARE FINED $60,000 IN TRUST CASE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The justice department announced today that it had filed a criminal information charging the nation's three largest manufacturers of soap and soap products with fixing prices in violation of the anti-trust law.

The information was filed in the federal District court at Newark, N. J., and the three companies and the presidents of each immediately pleaded nolo contendere [no defense] and were fined $10,000 each, the department said.

The defendants were Procter & Gamble company, and Richard Deupree, president, Cincinnati, O.; Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, Jersey City, N. J., and E. H. Little, president, Orange, N. J.; Lever Brothers company, Cambridge, Mass., and Francis H. Countway, president, Brookline, Mass.

The companies were accused of fixing the terms, discounts and conditions of sale, with exchanging price information and classification of customers, and with granting or refusing certain allowances to customers.

1,236 CONTRACTS AWARDED SMALL WAR COMPANIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The smaller war plants division of the war production board reported today that it placed 1,236 contracts for 22.5 million dollars in the Nov. 28-Dec. 12 period.

Prime contracts went to 176 firms for 7.3 million dollars, and more than 100 subcontracting firms will participate. Contracts involving the use of critical tools totaled 1,060 for 15.2 millions. Most of these went to firms having machines not being used full time.

TAXABLE INCOME.

Is interest received from postal savings certificates taxable under the 1942 revenue law? Does the interest have to be withdrawn from the account before it must be included in income tax returns?—C. B.

Answer: Interest received on postal savings certificates issued after March 1, 1941, is taxable income. Interest received on certificates issued prior to that date is not taxable but must be reported in income tax returns. The interest does not have to be withdrawn from the account but only must be available to the depositor to come within the tax law requirement.

DON'T BORROW

Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance, you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.
